A BLACK HAND FOUR KILL ITALIAN BUTCHER

They Had Picketed His Shop in Brooklyn for Weeks.

WENT IN BOAT TO SHOOT HIM

Sent Him a Letter Yesterday Demanding $1,000—Police Hunt Murderers in the Bay.

Gaetano Costa, a well-to-do Italian butcher, was attacked in his shop at 865 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, last night and shot to death. Four bullets landed in his body, and any one of three of the wounds caused would have been fatal. The police declare that he was killed by Black Hand assassins.

Costa closed his doors last night at his accustomed time and retired. His wife is in Italy.

Shortly after 10 o'clock James and Andrew Anderson, brothers, who live at 200 West Thirty-first Street, were standing a few feet from the door of the shop when they heard four shots. Then four Italians burst from the shop, scattered, and ran. The police from the Fourth Avenue Station soon came, with Capt. Evans at their head. The Captain found Costa in the doorway leading from his sleeping room to the shop. He was already dead. The surgeon in charge of an ambulance from the Norwegian Hospital, who arrived soon afterward, said that one of the bullets had penetrated Costa's heart, and that death had been instantaneous.

At midnight, with every available detective in Brooklyn at work on the murder and Inspector Wiegand leading the hunt, while the police patrol boats were cruising up and down the river, important clues were being obtained.

It was practically established through William Brady, who runs a boathouse at the foot of Thirty-fourth Street, that the murderers went to Brooklyn by water and left their skiff at the foot of Thirty-fourth Street, while they killed Costa. There were six men in the skiff, according to Brady, and four of them went toward Fourth Avenue, while the other two remained to watch the boat. It was just about 9 o'clock when the boat was tied up. In about an hour, while the two sentinels were pacing up and down the bank, the four men who had gone up Thirty-fourth Street, came back, running at full speed.

"They jumped into the skiff," Brady told Inspector Wiegand, "and pulled over in the Buttermilk Channel toward the Hamilton Ferry. I thought there was something very suspicious about their movements, and when I learned of the Italian murder I knew that they were the men who had committed the crime."

Brady was able to give the police a good description of the four men who left the boat as well as the two men who stayed behind with the craft. After this clue had been turned up the police patrol boats were pressed into service. A general alarm was sent out, and Inspector Wiegand said he hoped that the murderers would soon be caught.

John Prazza, who keeps a saloon next door to Costa's shop, told Detective Vachris, who is better posted on the Brooklyn Black Hand than any other detective in the borough, having worked on all the big cases of the kind in recent years, that Costa received a letter yesterday morning demanding $1,000. Prazza added:

"He read the letter to me. This is what it said:

"'You have more money than we have. We know of your wealth and that you are alone in this country. We want $1,000 which you are to put in a loaf of bread and hand to a man who comes in to buy meat and pulls out a red handkerchief.'

"I remember just what the letter said because it made such an impression on me and Costa was so badly frightened. He told me that he did not know just when the Black Hand people would be after him, but that as soon as he closed up his shop he intended to go to the Fourth Avenue Police Station and ask for protection.

"He was just preparing to go to the police station, I suppose, when the men broke into the place and killed him."

Within an hour after the shooting the police, reinforced by detectives from Headquarters, had questioned nearly everybody in the neighborhood.

They found that they were practically wasting their time. The residents of the vicinity, nearly all of them Italians, were panic-stricken and did not hesitate to say that it would be worth their lives if they said a word.

The Captain and his detectives did succeed in ascertaining that for three weeks Costa's shop has been watched day and night by Italians whom the neighbors described as of forbidding appearance. There were never fewer than two pickets on duty, and sometimes there were as many as half a dozen.

The two Andersons say that they caught an imperfect glimpse of two of the murderers as they fled from the shop.

"They were roughly dressed," said James Anderson, "and looked like the pictures you see of brigands. One of them was about 5 feet 8 inches in height, and the other 5 feet 6 inches. One was smooth shaven and had straight hair. The other was curly haired and wore a fierce mustache. They were dressed in dark clothes and wore slouch hats. I didn't see what the other two looked like. Neither did my brother.

"One of the men still had a smoking revolver in his hand, and when he saw us he pointed the weapon in our direction and waved us back. The river is only about two blocks away, and the men, although they did not run away together, seemed to be making for it."

Costa's body was taken to the police station. Shortly after that Pietro Angelo, a brother-in-law of the man, arrived.

"I knew it, I knew it," he wailed, "and so did poor Gaetano. Within the past month he has got six Black Hand letters demanding thousands of dollars. He knew he was spied on, too, but he didn't think that his end was so near. Neither did I. The letters were all locked up in his safe, and nobody has the combination.

"Gaetano was a rich man. He had three butcher shops, the one in which he was killed, another at Thirty-sixth Street and Third Avenue, and a third in Thirty-second Street. He has been worried by the Black Hand before, and a year or so ago he sent his wife and children home to Italy so that they at least might be safe.

"I don't know what was in the Black Hand letters. Gaetano never showed them to me. He just told me that he had received them."

Costa was 40 years old, and among Italians bore the reputation of being a rich man.

THE PRESIDENT INTERFERED.

Got Appointment for a School Teacher When It Was Long Delayed.

President Roosevelt has made a Long Island school teacher happy by obtaining for her an appointment in the Philippines that had long been held up. The teacher is Miss Marie R. Overton, daughter of Winfield Scott Overton of 859 Madison Street, Brooklyn. Her brother is Capt. Winfield Scott Overton, Jr., United States Army, who married the daughter of Gen. Anson Mills of Washington.

Miss Overton teaches school in Richmond Hill. Early in 1904 she decided that she would like to teach in the Philippines and prepared herself for an examination to be held in September, that year. She passed very creditably, receiving a mark of 93.28 per cent., and was sixteenth in point of merit out of the 200 who passed. Having heard how badly teachers were needed in the Philippines, she expected an early appointment, but she waited, and nothing was done. Then she learned that several teachers below her on the list had been appointed.

Miss Overton's father, who is a lawyer, presented the facts in the case to Congressman W. W. Cocks of Westbury. Then the Congressman went to see the President.

"Send a cable query to Manila at once as to why Miss Overton's appointment has been held up," the President ordered.

The appointment was cabled back at once, and Miss Overton will receive a salary some hundreds of dollars larger than she had expected.

N. Y. LIFE PROTESTS.

But Missouri Official Says Counsel's Logic Hasn't Swerved Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—Frederick N. Judson, who represents President John A. McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company, and who was special counsel for the Government in the recent investigation of the Santa Fé rebate cases, filed with State Insurance Supt. Vandiver to-day a formal protest against the latter's contemplated action against the New York Life.

Mr. Judson sets forth that the Commissioner of Insurance would have no legal right to exclude the New York Life from doing business in Missouri on the grounds set forth in Vandiver's letter to McCall, and that even should there be a legal right to take such action it would be unfair and unwise to take such a step against the New York Life alone when all the great insurance companies of the country, he alleges, are guilty of the same offenses as are charged against the McCall company.

Supt. Vandiver agreed to meet Mr. Judson to-morrow and listen to arguments. Gov. Folk will be present. Mr. Vandiver said to-night that he disagreed with Mr. Judson on all his arguments, and that it would require more logic than has been advanced so far to swerve him from his course to oust the New York Life from Missouri unless McCall and Perkins resign and the money paid the Republican Party is refunded by them. He says the action has the full approval of Gov. Folk; that competent legal authority has been consulted, and that it is meant to be only the opening wedge.

Curious Error in a German's Certificate Discovered at Ellis Island.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Commissioner General of Immigration, Frank Sargent, has the legal papers making Emperor William of Germany a citizen of the United States.

The certificate is signed by Judge Thayer Melvin and Charles H. Henning, Clerk of the Court of Ohio County, West Virginia. Mr. Sargent explains the situation as follows:

Several years ago Jacob Ohlinger came to the United States, and, as he thought, took out his papers. Recently he made a visit to the Fatherland, and in due time returned. When he landed at New York an Immigration Inspector demanded his papers. Ohlinger pulled forth the document, which was confiscated and sent to Washington. The blank containing the applicant's name was filled out by the Clerk of the Court so as to read:

"It is thereupon considered, ordered, and adjudged by this court that the said Emperor of Germany be, and he is hereby, admitted a citizen of the United States."

RETIRED HOTEL MAN MISSING.

Police Say Schwandel Had Said He Wished to Kill Himself.

The police of the Fourth Avenue Station, Brooklyn, have been asked to look for Henry Schwandel, a retired hotel keeper, who lived at the Exchange Hotel, at Third Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, which he formerly owned. eH is 59 years old and a bachelor.

According to the police Schwandel disappeared on Saturday night. Earlier in the evening John McNeely, a young man whose father started Schwandel in business many years ago, was in the hotel and had a revolver in his possession. Schwandel, who, his friends say, has been nervous of late, tried to take the weapon from Young McNeely, declaring that he wished to kill himself with it.

It was discovered later that he had disappeared. He kept a safe in the hotel. He left the door of this open. In the safe were $800 and a gold watch and chain. Schwandel was reported to be worth $500,000, chiefly in Brooklyn real estate.

CHURCH CAN'T MEET ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT

Washington Heights Flock Raised the Necessary $20,000.

THEN A NEW BAR WAS RAISED

By the Baptist Missionary Society, Which Demanded a Mortgage—The Time Limit Expires.

The Rev. B. Boardman Bosworth, pastor of the Washington Heights Baptist Church, and the members of the church abandoned hope yestetrday of being able to get the $20,000 which John D. Rockefeller offered three years ago to pay part of the debt incurred in the building of the church. Hope was given up after a meeting of the Southern Baptist Mission Association in the Mount Morris Church.

When the debt was started three years ago, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., through a friend, learned of the church's difficulties and persuaded his father to offer $20,000 if, before July 23, 1905, the Baptist Mission Society and the church raised $20,000 cash. The mission society agreed to this.

The members of the church were enthusiastic. Money came in rapidly. Early this July Mr. Bosworth reported that $17,000 had been raised. Within twenty days of the time limit, however, there were still $3,000 lacking.

When this became known the members of the church became anxious. It was a small sum, but $17,000 from the congregation had left the members with a full realization of the full value of $3,000. Added to this anxiety was the expressed conviction of Mr. Bosworth that Mr. Rockefeller would assuredly accept a release, as it was his practice to insist on the fulfillment of both ends of a bargain.

Every effort of Mr. Bosworth and his flock was put forth to raising the $20,000 in cash before the time limit. Mr. Bosworth sent out 500 envelopes, each with a dime in it, to as many members of the church. Each dime was called a talent. To the women he suggested that they invest their talent in flour and baking soda and make their own loaves. The saving by this industry was to be put into the envelope and given to the church. To the men it was suggested that each buy a ten-cent cigar with his talent, place the cigar in one pocket and in another the envelope. Whenever a male member wanted a cigar the circular accompanying the talent suggested that he smell the ten-cent cigar, and, contenting himself with that, slip the dime he had intended to spend into the envelope.

Then a painting of the church was made and covered with black pasteboard squares. One Sunday night after the service a meeting was held at which the members had an opportunity to buy off the debt of the church at $5 a pasteboard square.

The result of all this was that in the three days instead of twenty—seventeen days before the expiration of the time limit—Mr. Bosworth triumphantly announced that $3,000 in cash had been raised. The rest was a foregone conclusion; but the Rev. Mr. Bosworth and his congregation had just started on their troubles.

A meeting was held in the Dry Dock Savings Bank, at which the Trustees of the Washington Heights Baptist Church and the committee of the Baptist Mission Society were present to discuss the debt. The Mission Society refused to give its $20,000 unless the Trustees of the church gave an "ecclesiastical" mortgage for $60,000. The Trustees refused to do this on the ground that they had no right to handle the funds of the congregation in this way.

The matter stood there. In the meantime the time limit passed, and as only $20,000 of the money could be shown, Mr. Rockefeller's obligation ceased to exist. The feelings of the church members, who had striven so hard to raise their share of the money, were at this time and have been since very bitter.

Mr. Rockefeller seemed willing to allow the Baptist Mission and the church Trustees to settle their differences. There was some correspondence on the matter, but no headway was made. Mr. Bosworth is now trying to have the case reviewed by the Southern New York Baptist Mission Association.

Late last night the trustees of the church issued a statement. It says that after the removal of the site of the church from Twenty-third Street the same Board of Trustees continued in office and proceeded to build a meeting house "without consulting the congregation." It continues:

They appointed as Building Committee Dr. Bennett, Chairman, and Messrs. Clinch and Jackson. They gave the building contract to Mr. Robinson. He was not limited by the terms of this contract either as to time or expense, and was promised and paid 5 per cent. of the cost of building as his commission. No competition for this contract was invited. A competitive offer was ignored by the committee. Marble for the new building was taken from a Georgia quarry owned by a company in which Mr. Robinson held controlling stock and Dr. Bennett was President. Hardware came from the firm of Underhill, Clinch & Co., of which Mr. Alfred Clinch was a partner. It is claimed by the Trustees who furnished materials, as thus noted, that such material was in every instance furnished at actual cost. Washington Heights Church does not and has not disputed that claim. The building as thus erected cost over $30,000 more than a rival builder of approved responsibility offered to build it for on the basis of the same general plans, but of cut granite instead of Georgia marble.

In all this building transaction the corporate congregation was never called together for consultation, but only for mortgage purposes, and then not until after the plans involving the necessity of mortgaging had been put into execution, and without the congregation's consent contracts had been made in its name, its own means, derived from the sale of its former property, expended, its credit pledged, and the congregation involved beyond retreat. The church, nevertheless, assumed the liabilities thus incurred on account of its building, and on Feb. 14, 1899, authorized a mortgage of $58,000 to cover them.

These transactions, coupled with an attack of the four Trustees on the pastor, caused a breach between the congregation and the Trustees and a demand for their resignation.

The Trustees later resigned after the Church had refused to re-elect Dr. Bennett a Trustee. Shortly after he was elected to fill a vacant seat in the Baptist Mission Society.

With regard to the Baptist Mission it is declared that "the society apparently made no effort to raise its portion of the debt fund beyond publishing in its budget a misstatement of its obligation."

CAN'T EVEN GET DOGFLESH.

Rabbits and Fish the Last Resources of the Germans.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—There is much evidence that Germany's meat famine is growing worse. Reports from all parts of the country tell of measures that are being taken to abate the famine.

At Eisenach a conference of municipal authorities in that region decided to establish regular rabbit markets, and in the Munich public markets rabbit stalls have been opened.

Since horse meat has risen in price and dog flesh is no longer obtainable, a number of municipalities have begun buying carloads of sea fish at the coast towns and selling them at cost price to citizens. This expedient was first adopted at Solingen, but has now spread to various Westphalian cities, to Posen, and even to Bavarian towns.

The latest Government statistics show that the prices of meats are still rising. The September report shows that some kinds rose in the course of the month 1½ cents a pound.

At a conference of the Burgomasters of Berlin and other important towns, it was was voted to appeal to Prince von Bülow, the Imperial Chancellor, to take measures to alleviate the conditions, since previous petitions to the Prussian Minister of Agriculture had been unavailing.

CHEERS IN WHITE HOUSE.

The President Leads Them for a Couple with Eight Children.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—While the President was receiving the members of the American Bankers' Association today, a tall and dignified gentleman, closely followed by his wife and eight children, graded in height like stairs, approached the President. He gave his name as P. B. Oliver, and San Francisco as his home, and added:

"And this is Mrs. Oliver, and these are my eight children."

"Your eight children!" exclaimed the President. "And you a banker?"

He advanced a step and raised his left hand, the right all the while warmly shaking that of the father of the eight.

"I propose three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Oliver," cried the President, and himself led in the three huzzas by the throng.

Mr. Oliver was a little surprised by the President's action, but when he realized the compliment that was intended he took it in good part.

JEROME, ALONE

Will Not Talk with Regular Nominees —To Run His Own Meetings.

Announcement was made last night at the headquarters of District Attorney Jerome that, no matter what indorsements Mr. Jerome may receive, he will not appear on the same platform with regular party nominees, but will conduct a personal campaign. His first meeting will be in Carnegie Hall on the evening of Oct. 16. Whatever meetings he addresses after that the campaign will be arranged for through his own campaign bureau and will be solely in his interest.

It was authoritatively denied that Mr. Jerome would refuse an indorsement from the Hearst forces. A report that he would refuse such an indorsement was brought to Municipal Ownership leaders who were endeavoring to stir up sentiment for his nomination by the Municipal Ownership organization.

It is the intention of Mr. Jerome to treat the Municipal Ownership forces, or any other organization which may think of indorsing his candidacy, exactly as he has treated the regular organizations. He will not seek an indorsement from any organization, nor will he refuse the indorsement of any body of citizens wishing to nominate him. It is his intention to stand to the end of the campaign as an independent candidate.

Sulzer, a brother of Congressman William Sulzer of New York, and a former President of the Elizabeth Democratic Club, but who for the last four years has been engaged in mining enterprises in Alaska, arrived from there last week, proposed marriage to a young woman on Sunday and was married this afternoon. The bride was Miss Gertrude Harrison, daughter of George W. Harrison, a retired merchant, and Treasurer of the Democratic Club. Congressman Sulzer was one of the ushers. The couple started at once for Alaska.

Mystery of Triple Crime Near Middletown Believed to be Solved.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 11.—That the mystery of the murder of the Olney brothers and little Alice Ingerick last Friday is solved is the opinion of persons who have been working on the case. Mrs. Ingerick has regained entire consciousness at Thrall Hospital, and it is believed she has given a detailed statement and named the assassin.

Daniel Davis, who lives next to the Olney farm, and who first discovered the murder, was arrested on the street in this city this afternoon. It is stated that he is charged with intoxication, but it is believed the authorities were afraid he would talk too much.

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—Marshal Farman of Baltimore arrived here to-day and reported to the Chief of Detectives that Edwin Clive, who was being brought here, jumped from a train about twenty minutes after it left the Grand Central Station in New York last night.

Clive, alias Jardine, was arrested in Baltimore on Monday on the charge of larceny of money and jewels valued at $1,000 from an English woman.

CANDIDATE IN SIGHT! BIG NEWS FROM HALPIN

But How Near to Actual Range That Is He Won't Tell.

FRANK MOSS IS RECEPTIVE

And He May Have to be It—Olcott and Willcox Both Dodge—Who for Borough President?

There will be a meeting of the Republican Committee on Vacancies to-day. It is hoped by that time to have a candidate for Mayor roped. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon the Committee on Vacancies to find a man without further delay. District leaders say that every day's delay means the loss of votes to the ticket.

Chairman Halpin spent yesterday at Newburg communing with State Chairman Odell. Before he left Mr. Halpin said he had a candidate "in view." He did not say whether the candidate had been sighted off Sandy Hook or was in actual range of the Committee on Vacancies.

After Mr. Halpin made his announcement, the report spread among the Republicans that the man the committee was considering was J. Van Vechten Olcott, Representative-elect from the Fifteenth Congressional District. Mr. Olcott is a prominent member of the West Side Republican Club. He is a brother of W. M. K. Olcott of the law firm of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge. Asked if a tender of the nomination had been made to him, Mr. Olcott said it had not.

"I have not even had a suggestion that the nomination would be offered me," he said, "but if it should be, I could not conceive of circumstances under which I could accept it, as I have been elected to Congress and owe a duty to those who elected me to that post."

There was also talk among the Republicans of Postmaster William R. Willcox as an available candidate. It was not taken seriously, because Mr. Willcox is not likely to give up the Postmastership to run for Mayor.

Messrs. Olcott and Willcox being considered out of it, Republican hope began to centre around Frank Moss. Mr. Moss has been approached by persons supposed to represent the Committee on Vacancies to ascertain what his disposition would be if the Mayoralty nomination were tendered to him. It would seem equally certain from Mr. Moss's manner when questioned about his attitude that he is in a receptive mood.

"Has the nomination been offered to you?" he was asked.

"No offer has been made."

"Are you afraid that there will be?"

"I am not afraid of anything."

"Would you accept the nomination if tendered?"

"That I cannot discuss."

"Do you regard the present situation as hopeless for the Republicans?"

"No campaign in which a moral principle is involved is ever hopeless."

"You would not mind making an uphill fight?"

"I am used to making uphill fights."

Charles E. Teale of Brooklyn is understood to be a strong probability for the Republican nomination for Controller to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard Young. Mr. Teale is a member of the firm of Smith & Gray of Brooklyn.

Lucien L. Bonheur of the Twenty-ninth Assembly District has been asked to accept the Republican nomination for Sheriff.

The Republicans are still without a candidate for President of the Borough, notwithstanding their Borough Convention is to be held on Friday night. It is considered settled that the County Convention will indorse Jerome for District Attorney.

HIT BY E. T. BEDFORD'S AUTO.

Californian and His Wife Rolled Over in Muddy Broadway.

Tony Donderi, chauffeur of Edward T. Bedford of the Standard Oil Company, who is also President and Director of five or six other companies, left his employer at the Café Martin early last night and started up Broadway to store the machine in a garage until after the theatre.

William Hughes of Los Angeles, Cal., and his wife Honora were crossing Broadway at Thirtieth Street toward Shanley's restaurant when Donderi came along with the machine. A zigzagging cab confused both the chauffeur and Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. Seeing that the automobile would surely strike his wife Mr. Hughes jumped in front of her, hoping to save her from as much shock as possible.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were hurled to the muddy pavement, and the machine rolled them over two or three times. The screams of Mrs. Hughes attracted a crowd. She and her husband were helped to the sidewalk by passersby. Mrs. Hughes said she thought her collarbone had been broken, but she preferred to wait until she got back to the Fifth Avenue Hotel for medical attention.

At the Tenderloin Station, to which the chauffeur was taken by a policeman, Mr. Hughes refused to make a complaint. He told Donderi to go and find his employer and bring him to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, going there himself in a cab. Up to a late hour Donderi hadn't been able to find Mr. Bedford.

SEARCH FOR CROWE'S GOLD.

Money Paid to Him by Mr. Cudahy Is Buried in South Omaha.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 11.—The police of this city are diligently searching for the $7,500 of Edward Cudahy's gold, which was paid to Pat Crowe at the time of the kidnapping.

The police have received information from Council Bluffs that the gold is buried in this city. The information comes from a friend of Crowe, to whom the kidnapper wrote some months ago telling of the money and saying that since he had buried it the property upon which the money was buried had changed hands, and it was now necessary for him either to buy the house or watch his chance and burglarize it some night.

The gold is supposed to be have been buried in the cellar of a house which belonged to a friend of Crowe's, who has since sold the house and left the city.

In his letter, which is in the possession of the police, Crowe did not name the exact location of the house, but the police think they can locate it.

CITY OWNERSHIP FOLKS WILL NOMINATE TO-NIGHT

Red Fire and Loud Hurroo for the Hearst Ticket.

EDITOR NAILED IN THE WAGON

Noblest and Strongest Men Chosen, a Brooklyn Dissentient Is Told—May Get Coler, Too.

Arrangements for the nomination of the Municipal Ownership city ticket in Carnegie Hall to-night and for the campaign which is to be waged in its behalf were completed at a meeting of the representatives of the Municipal Ownership League, Citizens' Union, German-American Municipal League of Brooklyn, German-American Municipal League of Staten Island, and the Workingmen's Municipal Ownership Association held in the Astor House last night.

The Committee of Seventeen appointed at the last meeting to recommend a city ticket and a platform reported in favor of the nomination of William R. Hearst for Mayor, John Ford for Controller, and J. G. Phelps Stokes for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Ex-Congressman Baker of Brooklyn made objection to the report. He said he thought the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen ought to be given to a Brooklyn man. As the ticket was made up, he said, Manhattan secured all three nominations. Nobody else seemed to care.

A. J. Boulton of Brooklyn and of the Citizens' Union replied to Mr. Baker. He said it was with the full approval of the Brooklyn members of the Committee of Seventeen that Messrs. Hearst, Ford, and Stokes were decided upon. They were the three finest and strongest personalities that could be selected to represent municipal ownership doctrine.

After that the report of the Committee of Seventeen got through.

A tentative draft of a platform was submitted and discussed at length. It contained strong planks in favor of the municipal ownership of all future subways and of a gas plant. By a large majority it was decided to insert a plank in favor of direct nominations. Then the platform as amended was referred back for polishing ready for to-night.

It was decided to hold borough and county conventions for Manhattan either on Friday or Saturday evening. Nothing was said about the indorsement of Mr. Jerome for District Attorney. Judge Seabury said later he did not know whether or not it was the league's purpose to indorse Mr. Jerome.

A campaign committee of one hundred was appointed. Prof. John Martin of Staten Island was made Chairman, John J. Hopper Treasurer, and August H. Stebbins Secretary. A notable recruit was welcomed in Lucien Knapp, Republican leader of the Third Ward of Queens.

After the main conference had adjourned there was a conference of the Brooklyn representatives. There was some talk among the Brooklynites of having Bird S. Coler make the race for Borough President on the Brooklyn ticket. A. J. Boulton has been understood to be slated for that place, but there is a possibility that he may make way for Coler.

There was much discussion of Mr. Hearst's candidacy yesterday. When Charles F. Murphy was asked if he thought Mr. Hearst would make a strong candidate he said:

"I think he will make a good candidate for Tammany Hall."

Chairman William Halpin blew a smoke cloud, looked into it, and saw that the candidacy of Mr. Hearst would redound to the great benefit of the Republicans. He believes it will draw thousands of votes away from Tammany Hall.

It is betraying no confidence to say that there are a number of Republican district leaders who not only do not agree with Mr. Halpin's view, but who were inclined yesterday to take the view that the Republican campaign had gone to the bowwows. Here is what one of the Republican district leaders said:

"I don't see Halpin entertain the belief that the Hearst vote will be drawn entirely from Tammany, they are under a delusion. I find in my district that Republicans are talking of voting the Hearst ticket.

"They are men who favor the municipal ownership issue as set forth in the invitation which Halpin sent out to the Citizens' Union and other organizations to join the Republicans in a fusion movement. Now that the Republican leaders have turned their back on that issue these men are sore and ready to vote for Hearst out of resentment."

LEDYARD FOR McCLELLAN.

And Says James C. Carter Meant to Congratulate the Mayor.

Lewis Cass Ledyard of the law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, wrote to Mayor McClellan yesterday, congratulating him on his renomination and promising support in the municipal campaign. The letter, which came from Mr. Ledyard's Summer home at Newport, was made public last night. In it Mr. Ledyard says:

"As I am of those in the party who have found themselves in general unable to vote with it in municipal elections, I hope you will allow me to express my very great satisfaction with your renomination.

"I think there can be no question but that you have given us the best administration we have ever had within my memory, and your personal strength and rectitude and the independence with which you have administered your office for the best interests of the city have converted thousands of Tammany's strongest foes into earnest supporters of a Tammany ticket headed by yourself.

"My dear old partner, Mr. James C. Carter, was so impressed by what you had accomplished that he said to me shortly before his death that having bitterly opposed Tammany for years and having taken an active part in opposition to you in your first campaign, he considered it a duty he owed to his own manhood to call on you and say that he recognized that you had given a striking illustration of what could be accomplished in the way of non-partisan government by a partisan administration with a man of honest purpcses and public spirit, possessed of the necessary strength and capacity, at its head. He afterward told me he had called upon you, but had not found you in, and I believe that the opportunity which he sought to discharge this duty never came.

"I think I would rather have had such a tribute from Mr. Carter than from any other man I have ever known."

RONNERITES ATTACK HAFFEN

For Turning the Register Down—May Join Coroner O'Gorman.

Bronx friends of Register John H. J. Ronner put out a statement last night attacking Borough President Haffen and threatening all sorts of acts of reprisals because of the word from Tammany Hall that Mr. Ronner would not be renominated for Register. Mr. Haffen, Thomas H. O'Neil, and Eugene J. McGuire, the three Tammany district leaders of the Bronx, are backing Alderman Frank Gass of the Bronx for Register.

Ronner's friends charge Haffen with "political knavery," and threaten to join Coroner O'Gorman, who is the Fusion opponent of Haffen for Bronx Borough President.

Gypsy Moth Spreads in Bay State.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—The gypsy moth department of the State announced to-day that the area affected by the pest has increased from 359 square miles last year to 4,082 square miles this year. This is about one-fourth of the land of the State.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ANGRY.

Resents Mr. Dix's Criticism of Its Bookkeeping Methods.

There was a wordy war at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon, and the report of the Special Committee on Bookkeeping Revision, which started the dispute, was referred back to its authors for "intelligent reconsideration." Commissioner Abraham Stern, who headed the opposition, insinuated that Chairman Samuel M. Dix of the special committee was a pretender and not a certified public accountant. Mr. Dix left without making any reply to this. He is a member of the firm of Townsend & Dix at 31 Nassau Street.

Commissioner Henry Schmitt started the trouble by presenting a resolution asking for the reconsideration of the report of the Special Committee on Bookkeeping Revision. Mr. Schmitt said that the newspaper accounts of an interview given out recently by Mr. Dix had created the impression that the Board of Education was afraid to open its books for public inspection.

"This is altogether wrong," said Mr. Schmitt. "We are not afraid to let the public see the books of our auditing bureau. Neither do we want to spend $15,000 for expert assistance if we can do without it. The report of the special committee tells us nothing, it explains nothing."

"I am not responsible for what the papers say," said Mr. Dix. "I stand on my record. We have many excellent workers in our auditing department, and I would like to say much in praise of them. But, gentlemen, they are not trained to business. There is not a man on the board who would tolerate having his business conducted as ours is here."

He said that his committee had recommended the service of expert accountants, and that the board should employ them even if it cost $500,000.

"Mr. Dix says it would be cheap to establish a new system in our auditing bureau even at the cost of $500,000," said Commissioner Stern. "What that system is I have been trying to get from his report, but outside of a lot of meaningless high-sounding words I can get nothing."

Insinuations come with ill-grace from one who pretends to be a certified public accountant, but who hands in such an unintelligible report. If I were a certified public accountant I would at least tell where the faults were without recommending the expenditure of $15,000 to find them. The sooner you dispel the idea that this department can be run like a business concern the better. It is impossible."

A SUGGESTION BY MR. FISH.

Thinks Money Might Be Advanced for Peabody College Endowment.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Stuyvesant Fish, President of the Illinois Central Railroad, has made a suggestion regarding the postponement of the Peabody College endowment which may bring results. In a letter to J. M. Dickinson, he says:

"Yesterday's New York papers state in effect that the Trustees of the Peabody Fund have postponed making their donation for Nashville because $250,000 of the $800,000 which were required to be raised locally have been voted by the State of Tennessee in ten annual payments and not in cash. It has occurred to me that people interested in Nashville and in the cause of education in the South might be willing to advance the $250,000, to be reimbursed to them without interest in ten yearly payments.

"I know nothing about the matter except what I have seen in the papers, but beg to say that if you shall on investigation find that the State really appropriated the money in this way and the arrangement could be made safely, I would be willing to advance $10,000 toward such fund of $250,000.

SAY HOSPITAL FORCE FLIRTS.

Committee's Charge Brings Denial from North Hudson Institution.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of the North Hudson Hospital at Union Hill Tuesday night a committee of four women, representing the Ladies' Guild, startled the board by charging that the doctors and nurses at the hospital, instead of attending to the patients passed much of their time in flirting.

The board will make an investigation if it decides that such a course is necessary. Miss Clemens, the Superintendent of the hospital, said yesterday:

"The report of that committee is founded purely on hearsay and there is absolutely no justification for it. Both the doctors and the nurses indignantly deny that there is the slightest foundation for the statements made by the committee of the Ladies' Guild. Furthermore, if any of the patients had been neglected, I am sure it could not have escaped my attention. The charges are absolutely false."

WOMAN FOUGHT OFF NEGRO.

Gave Alarm by Telephone and Her Assailant Was Caught.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 11.—Mrs. Frank Mulky, a well-known member of clubs, was attacked in her home to-day by a negro, who gained entrance to her bedroom by climbing a veranda. She fought the man so desperately that he fled.

Mrs. Mulky gave an alarm by telephone, and the entire police force started on a hunt. A negro with his face and hands badly scratched was found and taken before Mrs. Mulky, who positively identified him. He gave his name as Leasy Johnson.

When indicted by the Grand Jury for attempted criminal assault, he refused to plead guilty. There is much excitement in the city and the man is closely guarded.

FORNES SUIT GOES OVER.

It Is Said Mrs. Fornes Has Not Proved Residence in Vermont.

Special to The New York Times.

RUTLAND, Vt., Oct. 11.—If Mrs. Charles V. Fornes continues her efforts to secure a divorce from her husband, the President of the New York Board of Aldermen, she will probably have to change the scene of the suit from Vermont.

It was expected that the case would come up in Rutland County Court at this term, but to-day it was continued.

Mrs. Fornes's counsel are very reticent, refusing to make any statement as to further steps. Some of the best-known lawyers here, however, believe that the case will never be tried in a Vermont court, asserting that Mrs. Fornes has failed to establish any legal grounds of residence in this State.

BACON SUCCEEDS LOOMIS.

He Acts as Secretary of State on His First Official Day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Robert Bacon of New York to-day took the oath of office and qualified as Assistant Secretary of State and Francis B. Loomis vacated that office. The ceremony took place in the office of the Assistant Secretary, the only persons present being Mr. Bacon, Mr. Loomis, and Mr. Dean, chief of the appointment division of the State Department, who administered the oath.

Secretary Root was absent from Washington for the day, so that Mr. Bacon became Acting Secretary of State.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYSHIP STILL A GUESSING GAME

But the Tiger Will Open the Bag To-night.

WHO'LL COME OUT OF IT?

Jerome, Philbin, or Osborne—One Guess as Good as Another, and all Three May Be Wrong.

Tammany's "Great Jerome Mystery" will be solved to-night, when the County Convention is held in the Wigwam. To nominate or not to nominate still remains undecided.

While Charles F. Murphy, his advisers and lieutenants have been giving their closest attention to the District Attorneyship since the City Convention, it was said last night on high authority that no definite decision has been reached as to whether Mr. Jerome will be indorsed or whether another candidate shall be named.

Several days ago Charles F. Murphy, after a conference with Senator McCarren, J. Sergeant Cram, and others, practically decided to reject the Jerome claims for consideration. At the same time it was admitted, however, that the wish largely was father to the thought, and that conditions might arise which would make it advisable to put Mr. Jerome on the slate. This is still the situation to-day within a few hours of the convention.

If Jerome is dropped it is likely that either Eugene A. Philbin or James W. Osborne will be nominated to run against him. Of the two the sentiment is the stronger for Mr. Philbin, who made his peace with Tammany on the night of the City Convention, when he placed Mayor McClellan in nomination. Mr. Osborne has had many friends at work in his own behalf, and yesterday he called on Mayor McClellan and was closeted with him for nearly an hour.

It will probably all be settled when the Tammany Executive Committee meets at 7 o'clock to-night, just an hour in advance of the convention in the big hall up stairs. The details of the convention, the apportionment of resolutions, and the selection of men to make nominating speeches will also be decided then.

Most of the finishing touches to the rest of the county and borough slates were completed at the Hall yesterday. As to the judiciary ticket, the Supreme Court nominations were settled. Ex-Senator Thomas C. O'Sullivan and Magistrate Mayo are candidates for the General Sessions bench to succeed Judge Newburger. Gov. Higgins acts at once; the nomination cannot be made to-night.

For the other places on the county ticket, Fire Commissioner Nicholas J. Hayes is to run for Sheriff and Frank Gass of the Bronx, now an Alderman, for Register. All of the three Bronx leaders are with him, but if there is any break in their ranks to-day a Manhattan man will get the place. Matthew F. Donohue, leader of the Twenty-first District, heads the list for County Clerk; Patrick H. Keahon, leader of the Seventh District, was bowled over yesterday in spite of the Sullivan influence behind him.

There is a possibility, however, that Mr. Murphy may use the clashing of the Donohue and Keahon booms to kill off both, leaving the field clear for Senator Peter J. Dooling, also an aspirant.

As soon as the County Convention is over the delegates from the Borough Convention will at once constitute the Borough Convention. This will renominate John F. Ahearn for Borough President without opposition, and four Coroners for Manhattan. Under Rush Julius Harburger, leader of the Tenth District, will be one of the Coroners. The other three places still are open, with a score of candidates.

HIGGINS NAMES ADDOMS

To Fill Out Van Brunt's Term on the Supreme Court Bench.

Mortimer C. Addoms, Republican, was appointed yesterday by Gov. Higgins, a Justice of the Supreme Court in the First District, in place of the late Charles H. Van Brunt. His term will expire on Dec. 31. Justice Addoms lives in the Twenty-ninth Assembly District, and in 1904 was the Republican nominee against Victor J. Dowling for Supreme Court Justice. Dowling won, as expected, by a large plurality. Justice Van Brunt's place in the Appellate Division was filled by Gov. Higgins promoting Justice Morgan J. O'Brien to be Presiding Justice, and Justice John Proctor Clarke from the trial bench to the associate seat held by Justice O'Brien.

The Republicans will probably nominate Addoms on their regular judicial ticket against Judge Newburger, and either indorse Ingraham and Gildersleeve, Democrats, or name a full Republican judicial ticket against that to be nominated to-night by the Democrats.

HEIRESS WEDS ACTOR.

Miss Sharpsteen of Boston Becomes Mrs. Errol Dunbar.

Despite the opposition of her mother, Miss Mary H. Sharpsteen, a Boston heiress, became Mrs. Errol Dunbar at the "Little Church Around the Corner" last Sunday. The surprise had been carefully planned, and if there had been any hitch in New York every arrangement had been completed for the performance of the ceremony in Providence.

Mrs. Dunbar is the only daughter of the late Clark L. Sharpsteen, a member of the Paris house of Arnold, Constable & Co. Errol Dunbar is playing the leading rôle of a company now presenting "Sherlock Holmes" in Providence, R. I. He is the son of Dr. Dunbar of Baltimore, and has been on the stage about fifteen years. He is a member of the Players Club and has played as leading man in several road companies in recent years. His last Broadway appearance was with Fritzi Scheff in "Fadette."

Dr. Houghton, the pastor of the Little Church Around the Corner, said yesterday that he had married the couple, but that he was unaware of any parental objection. Mrs. Sharpsteen is said to have been keenly opposed to the match, but Miss Sharpsteen, according to Dr. Houghton, said that there was no objection on the part of her mother to the match.

At the death of her father, eight years ago, Miss Sharpsteen found herself in possession of an annual income of $50,000. At the death of her mother she will inherit the entire estate, which is valued at several million dollars. She recently inherited an independent fortune from her aunt, the wife of Prof. Michael, well known for his work in chemical research.

The Sharpsteen home in Beacon Street, Boston, is one of the finest residences in that section. It contains hundreds of art treasures. The gate at the Charles Street entrance is said to be a duplicate of that of the Hotel de Ville of Paris.

HEIRS SUE FOR $143,575.

The Newcombs Allege That C. A. Burbank Had Their Mother's Bonds.

Suit was brought in the United States Circuit Court yesterday by David B. and Mary Ellen Newcomb of Henderson, Ky., the heirs and executors of the will of Mary Newcomb, to recover $143,575 from Caleb A. Burbank and George H. Southard of New York, individually and as executors of the will of Ambrose B. Burbank.

It is alleged that Ambrose B. Burbank at the time of his death had in his possession bonds worth $100,000 and accrued interest, which were the property of Mary Newcomb, and that before her death she had been unable to get an accounting from Burbank.

FOR ALDERMEN.

Manhattan Democrats and Brooklyn Republicans Nominate.

Democratic conventions for nominating Aldermen in the forty-four districts of Manhattan and the Bronx were held last night, and in twenty-one of the districts the present Tammany members were renominated.

All of the old Tammany wheelhorses were put in the field, except James E. Gaffney in the Eighteenth, Charles F. Murphy's home district. No nomination was made last night, the convention adjourning until to-morrow evening. Alderman Gaffney will not be named, however. He announced some time ago that he would retire from the board and devote himself entirely to the business of the New York Contracting Company, in which he is associated with John J. Murphy, brother of the Tammany leader.

FOR ASSEMBLY IN BROOKLYN.

McCarren Slate Holds Good Except in Two Districts.

The will of the McCarren leaders prevailed throughout Kings County, except in the Second and Eleventh Districts, last night, and the candidates slated for the Assembly were nominated without trouble. In the Second John McKeown, Magistrate Walsh's man, was nominated. He will be elected, as the district is safely Democratic. McKeown has served in the lower House ever since 1895. He is a member of the Insurance Investigating Committee. In the other district held by the Willoughby Street men, the Eleventh, William Seward Shanahan was renominated. He is one of the Brooklyn veterans in the Assembly. The list of nominations follows:

MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGES.

Lauer and Orlando Named on the Republican Ticket.

The Republicans nominated candidates for Judges of Municipal Court in the Second and Fourteenth Districts last night. Edgar J. Lauer was nominated in the Fourteenth. The district is nominally Republican, but the Citizens' Union and the Democrats have fused. In the Second Francis N. Orlando was named. That district is Democratic.

Last Manhattan Nominations.

For member of Assembly in the Third District, Manhattan, George Husch was nominated last night. There is no hope of electing him. In the Sixth, Frank Sica was nominated. James Oliver, nominated by Tammany Hall, is Sica's opponent. In the First District, A. M. Sartorelli was named. The district is safely Democratic. In the Twentieth, Dr. Henry Cary was nominated. Only a Republican tidal wave could elect Cary or any other Republican in the district.

Citizens' Union Indorses Herman.

The Citizens' Union Municipal District Court Convention of the Fourteenth District last night indorsed Moses Herman, who was nominated on Monday night by the Democrats.

John Lewis for Assemblyman.

John Lewis, a butcher of Third Avenue and Thirty-second Street, was nominated last night for Assemblyman at an adjourned Democratic convention of the Twentieth Assembly District.

Object to Name "Socialist Party."

ALBANY, Oct. 11.—Formal objections to certificates of nomination filed by the Socialist Party were received to-day by Secretary of State O'Brien from Schenectady. The allegation is that the name "Socialist" is substantially the same as that used by the Socialist Labor Party. The certificates objected to were filed for the nomination of Louis B. Boudin as Supreme Court Justice in the Second and John H. Bullard in the Fourth Judicial District.

BURGLARS CHARMED THE DOG.

Usually Savage Beast Kept Quiet While They Moved a Safe.

Though noted usually for his ferocity, a Great Dane dog became very friendly yesterday morning with burglars in the saloon of William Zarskis at 111 Wythe Avenue, Williamsburg. The robbers moved a seven-hundred-pound safe from the saloon to the yard and tried to drill a hole into the door to blow it open, but their steel drill broke and they had to quit. There was in the safe $150 and some jewelry.

How the burglars were able to make friends with the dog puzzled the police. They got into the saloon by forcing a rear window. The police found a gray necktie which Zarskis declared belonged to a man who loafed around the saloon and seemed to take a fancy to the dog. The police found him asleep at his home and arrested him. He denied that the necktie belonged to him or that he knew anything of the burglary.

Can you realize that there is enough energy in a single cubic inch of space to yield 500 horse power if we could utilize it? Read what Prof. Dolbear says on the subject in THE SUNDAY TIMES next Sunday.—Adv.

PANAMA BOARD ANNULS $50,000,000 CONTRACT

It Was Upheld by the President When Rival Bidders Protested.

GOVERNMENT WILL FEED MEN

Chairman Shonts Arranged to Do It Through Markel, But Engineer Stevens Takes Charge.

PANAMA, Oct. 11.—The last action of the Panama Canal Commission before sailing from Colon for New York to-day was the annulment of the contract awarded to J. E. Markel of Omaha for feeding and caring for the employes of the canal.

The reason for this action is that Chief Engineer Stevens, through the Department of Materials and Supplies under Messrs. Jackson and Smith, is handling the commissaries successfully, rendering unnecessary the arrangement with Mr. Markel.

Protests made by the employes against the arrangement, it is believed, also influenced the decision.

Chairman Theodore P. Shonts of the Panama Canal Commission announced on Friday, Sept. 8, that he had awarded the contract for feeding and caring for canal employes to J. E. Markel of Omaha. The contract had five years to run and was estimated to involve $50,000,000. There were two other bidders, H. Balfe & Co. and Hudgins & Dumas, both of New York. The latter firm held the restaurant privilege at Ellis Island for three years.

Following Mr. Shonts's announcement, Hudgins & Dumas made public a telegram sent to President Roosevelt, asking that the Markel contract be withheld on the ground that circumstances connected with its award "seem to indicate collusion." It was charged that an entire section of the Hudgins & Dumas bid was credited to Mr. Markel, and that "the precipitancy with which bids were called for, without public advertisement and with no regular time set for receiving and opening the bids in the presence of the bidders" warranted the assumption that "a predisposition existed to award the contract to Mr. Markel, and that other considerations were sacrificed to this end."

Hudgins & Dumas specifically waived any claims for the concession, alleging that the only desire of the firm was "to prevent the consummation of an irregular proceeding."

The telegram, which was forwarded to the President at Oyster Bay, was accompanied by a message from H. Balfe & Co., requesting "a thorough investigation of the Panama privileges and concessions awarded Mr. Markel." Both withdrew their bids.

Mr. Shonts expressed great surprise when told of the protest. He said that the award was a Panama Railroad and not a commission matter.

"I found the bid of Hudgins & Dumas so low that I feared there was some misunderstanding and wrote them, explaining some specifications," he said later. "I thought they had figured low on cooked meats, expecting to make it up on supplies, and found this surmise to be correct. I told them that the matter of supplies might be withdrawn, in which event they would lose money. I gave them the opportunity to put in a new bid. They thanked me personally and placed a second bid, raising their prices 100 per cent. Mr. Balfe thanked me for the treatment accorded him."

Before submitting his bid Mr. Markel, who has for years conducted a line of railway eating houses in the West, spent a month in Panama and worked out a comprehensive scheme which involved the establishment of ten hotels along the railroad and canal, each of them to accommodate from 150 to 250 lodgers and twice as many table boarders. He made the trip at the instance of the Government in July.

Chairman Shonts said at the time that the idea of the concession was to furnish wholesome food to those employed on the Isthmus at the lowest possible cost. To this end, he said, Mr. Markel would be permitted to ship foodstuffs from New York on the Panama ships and Panama trains at the actual cost of transportation. His refrigerating plants, bakeries, and laundries would be given to him by the Government.

Hudgins & Dumas charged that their bid was really lower than that of Mr. Markel, and that an entire section, including their sample menu, had been incorporated in the Markel bid. They did not hesitate to say that Mr. Markel had seen their bid before making his own. They alleged, further, that they were allowed but thirty minutes to rearrange their bid when Chairman Shonts explained the plans and specifications under which they were competing.

President Roosevelt instructed Chairman Shonts to make a special report covering the matter. It was sent from Mr. Shonts's Summer home, at Greenwich, Conn., on Sept. 13. On the following day it was announced from Oyster Bay that the award would stand. Mr. Markel at once began the organization of the forces which he proposed to utilize in Panama.

CONSULTING ENGINEERS SAIL.

Several Members Make a Final Inspection in a Heavy Rain.

COLON, Oct. 11.—The steamship Havana sailed for New York at 5 o'clock this afternoon with the members of the Canal Commission, the Board of Consulting Engineers, and other members of the party who sailed for Colon from New York Sept. 28.

The members of the commission were reticent regarding their report. It will be several weeks before it is ready for presentation to President Roosevelt.

Several members of the Board of Consulting Engineers left Colon this morning, some going to Panama and others to Culebra, returning in the afternoon. Major Gen. George W. Davis and two others went to Gatun, whence they came down the Chagres to the Atlantic mouth of the river in a launch and thence by sea to Colon. The distance from Gatun to the mouth of the Chagres is seven miles, and from the latter by sea to Colon is also seven miles. The trip was made in a drenching rain.

Steamer Ashore, Crew Saved.

BUFFALO, Oct. 11.—The coal-laden steamer Charles H. Burton went ashore at Barcelona, the port of entry at Westfield, to-day. A crew of eight men was rescued by Westfield men in small boats.

REPORT CASE AGAINST BAKER

Civil Service Commission Asks Department of Justice to Act—Statute of Limitations May Run.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The charge of soliciting and accepting campaign contributions in the campaign of 1902, made against United States Circuit Judge Baker of Indiana by the Civil Service Commission, has been referred to the Department of Justice. The commission to-day gave out a statement as follows:

"The Civil Service Commission, through Commissioner Greene, conducted an examination on Sept. 22 and 23, 1905, into a charge of a violation of the Civil Service act, by the collection of illegal assessments at Goshen, Ind.

"Guy C. Boulton, clerk in the Post Office, testified that he was told in the Fall of 1902 by the Assistant Postmaster, Alderman, to visit Francis E. Baker, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit; that he was sent during office hours to see Judge Baker; that he was told by Judge Baker that it was to his interest to keep in power the servant of the party to which witness (Boulton) owed his appointment; and that, even if witness was in the civil service, his superior would give him trouble in case of a change of administration. He also was told that Judge Baker paid liberally for political purposes, and that clerks in the service usually gave 5 per cent. of their salary, with other statements along the same line. In pursuance of these suggestions from Judge Baker, Boulton afterward paid 5 per cent. of his salary, being $30, to D. W. Neidig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee.

"La Mar Croop, also a clerk in the Goshen Post Office, testified that Judge Baker was in the Post Office in the Fall of 1902; that the Assistant Postmaster told witness to go and see Judge Baker during office hours. Judge Baker urged the witness to pay money for campaign purposes, and the witness told Judge Baker that he could not afford to, whereupon Judge Baker said to him, 'You can afford to do without a suit of clothes and make your payment.' He was urged to pay 5 per cent. Thereafter the witness spoke to Postmaster Sherwin about paying his assessment, and said that he did not have the money to pay, and Sherwin advanced him, on Oct. 7, 1902, $50, which was paid by Croop.

"Martin T. Schnur, a clerk in the Post Office, testified that he also was sent in the Fall of 1902 to Judge Baker; was urged to pay money to the Republican campaign fund, and did pay $25, 5 per cent. of his salary. He was unable to make the payment and the Postmaster lent him the amount.

"This testimony was presented to Judge Baker and the facts stated by the witness were admitted by him to be true. The Civil Service Commission has felt some hesitation in taking any action in the premises, but it is regarded that, inasmuch as violations by others of the Civil Service act occurring in the Goshen Post Office are to be proceeded against and punished, it is not right that distinction should be made in favor of a violator of the law, however exalted his position. The charges against Judge Baker have, therefore, been referred to the Department of Justice.

"There is a clear case of the violation of a provision of the Civil Service act, Section 11. The only question involved is of the running of the statute of limitations, and this is the only defense which can be opposed to the charge, and we feel it our duty to leave the question of the sufficiency of this defense to the Department of Justice."

TO MAKE DEATH PAINLESS.

Miss Hall Advocates Use of Anaesthetics in Hopeless Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Legalized administration of anaesthetics to persons dying in agony was the subject of a resolution proposed by Miss Hall of Cincinnati at the American Humane Association in the New Century drawing rooms today.

Miss Hall said that often in railway wrecks persons are so injured that their lives cannot be saved. In such cases she thought it ought to be permissible to administer anaesthetics. When persons are dying of consumption, lockjaw, and other diseases in which they suffer agony, she thought the same was true. She read the names of clergymen and educators who, she said, favored her proposition.

Her idea was opposed by some members.

Addicks's Property Goes for $510.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 11.—United States Marshal Flinn to-day sold on the $45,000 judgment of Charles H. Hinchman of Camden, N. J., the one-half interest of J. Edward Addicks in the personal property on his Riverside Farm, two miles below New Castle. The sale netted only $510.

FOOD FITS MANY
To Leave Off Coffee and Use Postum.

Postum Coffee shows its great nourishing powers in many ways.

"I was nursing my baby six months ago," writes a young matron, "and I found that tea and coffee did not agree with me. I grew nervous and weak, my appetite was not good, and, besides, baby was cross and fretful. He didn't seem to get proper nourishment from my milk, and friends said: 'You must wean him, he is starving.'

"I gave up tea and coffee and tried cocoa, chocolate, and milk instead, but still baby didn't seem to thrive. At last, on the advice of a friend, I began to use Postum Coffee, and I can truly say that the effect was wonderful! Both baby and I began to improve in appetite, spirits, and flesh immediately. In three months my boy weighed 20 pounds and he is as good a baby as a mother could wish to have. My drinking Postum did it.

"I cannot recommend Postum Food Coffee too highly to nursing mothers. It is better in flavor than the other coffee and is far superior in nutritive qualities, supplying just what the child must have, as no other food can do." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason—explained in the quaint little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

$1.10 for the new $1.75 silk chiffon velvets again to-day.

VELVET is the latest vogue. The popularity of the new silk chiffon velvets has never been exceeded by it, or any other dress material. Do not mistake these velvets for the ordinary cheaper grade made to sell at 1.25, that soon lose their lustre and look dull and unattractive. They are the very highest grade of 1.75 SILK FACE chiffon velvets, that never lose their beauty—a beauty that is not equalled in any other fabric.

Time you must buy your underwear, anyway, and we can't emphasize too strongly the importance of inspecting this celebrated brand before buying. Come to-day. There is apparently enough for several days' selling, but it is the kind that sells so fast you never can tell.

HUGHES TO DIG FURTHER INTO THE MUTUAL LIFE

Prepared to Ask Questions on Legislative Activities.

ABSENTEE LIST LONG NOW

A. C. Fields Too Ill to be Disturbed—Maybe He Can't Be Reached with a Subpoena.

The Insurance Investigating Committee adjourned yesterday until next Tuesday out of respect to the memory of Speaker Nixon of the Assembly.

This has given counsel for the committee a chance to prepare for delving deeper than ever into the way in which the Mutual Life Insurance Company is managed. This feature is likely to occupy the centre of the stage in the inquiry for several sessions. Hardly more than a beginning was made with President Richard A. McCurdy on Tuesday. A phase of the Mutual's affairs to be taken up at the next session is its legislative activities.

Another line of inquiry that is expected to be very fruitful is that concerning the syndicate participations of many of the Mutual's Directors who have not been examined. One of the men of the Mutual's "inner circle," which President McCurdy talked about on the stand Monday, is George G. Haven, whose son, George G. Haven, Jr., is a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Strong, Sturgis & Co. This firm has done a great deal of business for years with the Mutual Life and with individual financiers prominent in that company. Another member of the firm is S. M. Cromwell, the son of Treasurer Cromwell of the Mutual. The elder Cromwell testified when he was on the stand that his participation in several of the syndicates from which the Mutual Life bought bonds had been through Strong, Sturgis & Co. Mr. Haven is yet to be examined. It is the intention of Counsel Hughes to go into the question of his syndicate participations with a great deal of care.

The investigators are finding out more things every day about the activities of A. C. Fields, the venerable head of the Mutual's department of supplies. And the more the committee find out the more anxious are its counsel that Mr. Fields may be put on the stand. Unfortunately, the illness which James M. Beck offered to prove by expert testimony was keeping Mr. Fields away from the hearings appears to be of such a nature that Mr. Fields's relatives and friends are unwilling to disturb him by even letting him know that the committee wants to see him. Much less is the disposition manifested to inform Mr. Hughes and his associates where Mr. Fields is now and whether he is within reach of a subpoena.

An interesting list of absentees is rolling up in the insurance investigation. In addition to Mr. Fields and Andrew Hamilton, who has decided to stay in London a while longer before baring his heart to the committee, W. H. Buckley, another of the men involved in the "confidential legal" establishment of the Mutual Life, is not at hand, and the committee does not know where it can find him. Besides these, there are James H. Hyde, William H. McIntyre, Thomas D. Jordan, and Gen. Louis Fitzgerald of the Equitable who are out of reach of subpoenas. George H. Squire and James W. Alexander of that society, who are needed to tell about some of the Equitable's "yellow dog" transactions, are on the sick list. Then, too, Edward H. Harriman remains in Japan.

An effort will also be made to find out how A. C. Fields, whose salary from the Mutual was $10,000 a year, has been able for many years, in addition to keeping up religious activities that made him well known in Methodist circles, to maintain a house at Dobbs Ferry, another at Nyack, a third at Albany, a fourth at Asbury Park, and a fifth at the Thousand Islands. Inquiry will be made as well, whether Mr. Fields's house at Albany happens to be the same in which, according to general report, elaborate entertainments were given to legislators by men who in business hours were understood to represent the life insurance interests.

Counsel for the committee are making a further inquiry into the items of upward of $70,000 a year charged up in the Mutual's annual report to "lunches." They will try to find out for whom these lunches were served and how elaborate was the bill of fare of those which went to the higher officers of the company. A report was current yesterday that the Mutual Life maintained a wine cellar for the use of its officers and their guests. No confirmation of this was obtainable.

Senators Armstrong, Tulley, and Riordan and Assemblyman Prentice attended yesterday's session of the committee. All of the counsel were there, too. In declaring the session adjourned to next Tuesday Senator Armstrong said:

"This committee meets this morning for the purpose of expressing its regret at the sad death of Speaker Nixon. He was in the fifteenth year of his representation of the Second District of the County of Chautauqua and in his seventh consecutive term as Speaker. He was singularly great-hearted, sympathetic to all, and with that nice sense of men and conditions that made him so powerful a Speaker.

"He enjoyed the friendship of thousands, the foundation of which was respect. No man exercised a greater influence and used it more wisely. His loss is most serious."

HEGEMAN WILL TESTIFY.

Metropolitan Life's President Coming Straight from Victoria.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 11.—J. R. Hegeman, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, and his wife arrived from Japan last night by the steamer Empress of Japan. Mr. Hegeman said he would go straight to New York to give evidence in the investigation into the affairs of the insurance companies, if required.

He said stories circulated that he had gone to Japan to escape giving evidence before the investigation committee were totally untrue. He had planned his trip to Japan a year ago. The investigation, he said, was as inevitable as it was unfortunate, for he felt it would do considerable harm to the insurance business. Regarding the alleged "blind loans" and contributions to campaign funds, he declined to speak, saying he had heard nothing concerning the investigation, and was not in a position to discuss its exposures.

"You may say for me, however," he said, "that I am going direct to New York, and far from trying to avoid giving evidence, I will be willing to appear before the committee when requested."

DU BOIS SANE, THEY SAY.

One of Several Teachers Remembers He Was Fond of Cake.

Half a dozen school teachers, who taught in the school where Alpheus D. Du Bois had been Principal for half a century, testified yesterday in the Supreme Court that Du Bois always appeared to be of sound mind.

The teachers were called by the proponents of the Du Bois will in the interest of the sisters of the old school Principal, who, if the will is proved, will inherit about $300,000 of the Du Bois estate, which Du Bois's daughter, Mrs. Ivy Blanche McKee, is fighting for.

One of the teachers said she usually shared her lunch with Du Bois, as the old Principal was fond of cake and jellies. The trial will be continued to-day.

REAL LEGAL FIGHT.

Wrecks Lawyer Henry's Umbrella and Stirs Up Magistrate Moss.

The unprinted price schedule for legal services in the Tombs Court quotes the procuring of a bondsman at 10 per cent. on the amount of bail fixed by the Magistrate. To go below this rate is considered unprofessional. So the thirty and odd lawyers who draw their practice from that bailiwick stick to the schedule as long as they don't see a chance of raising it.

A sad breach of faith which occurred yesterday, furnishing a painful exception to the customary adherence to high ideals, so impressed the member of the Tombs Court bar, who was the immediate victim of it, that he went one step further and forgot all about that section in the code of court etiquette, which says:

"Always remember that the calling of names breaks no bones."

But before Lawyer M. Jesse Henry went thus far he had been exposed to provocation which it would have taken superhuman self-control to resist. Not only had his colleague, Lawyer Louis Spiegel, got a legally baited and hooked client away from him by accepting $25 for a $300 bond, but when reproached in comparatively moderate terms for this unprofessional behavior, had retorted in language.

Then, and only then, did Henry reach out his right fist. There was a collision between the face and the fist, which, in accordance with the well-recognized law of reflex action, caused the muscles of Spiegel's left leg to contract and extend violently.

The result was a kick on Henry's shin which called forth on his part not only a warwhoop that could be heard up on Broadway, but likewise a rapid and rhythmic lifting and sinking of the umbrella which he was clutching in his left hand. The umbrella broke into small pieces after having produced many bumps on Spiegel's head.

All this happened on the stairway leading up to the Centre Street entrance of the Criminal Courts Building. So engrossed were the combatants in the particular business of the moment that they failed to notice the passing of Magistrate Moss on his way to court. Magistrate Moss knew neither man, and would perhaps have gone his way had he not discovered Court Officer Daly at the top of the stairs bent double in a fit of uncontrollable laughter. That was too much, and the Magistrate cried sharply to the amused policeman:

"Why don't you arrest them?"

Then he continued his way up the stairs, while Daly suddenly lost all his desire to laugh.

But before the policeman could act the two lawyers had grasped the danger of the situation and had made their escape in opposite directions, both of them forgetting the client in their haste. Daly made his way into the court room with many misgivings. When the Magistrate was told who the fighters were and why they had been fighting, he laughed in his turn and remarked:

"I never thought lawyers fought except with their mouths."

STOLE STAMPS.

$10,000 in Business Lost as the Result of a Mail Clerk's Pilfering.

The steady and wholly inexplicable falling off in the amount of business done by mail recently caused the firm of Maxwell & La Costa, advertising agents at 104 Nassau Street, to appeal to Capt. Hodgins of the Oak Street police for help. Two precinct detectives were put on the case.

Yesterday morning they arrested Lorne Porter, a twenty-two-year-old Brooklynite, employed by the firm as mailing clerk. In explanation of the reduced mail business, the detectives dragged out pounds of unmailed and unstamped letters which young Porter had stowed away in drawers and boxes instead of mailing them, the money he should have used for postage passing into his own pocket.

When Porter was arraigned before Magistrate Mott, in the Tombs Court, a representative of the firm estimated the amount lost by the clerk's dishonesty at nearly $10,000. He also informed the Magistrate that Porter was sent to Elmira Reformatory two years ago for a similar offense, and that, after his release he got the place with Maxwell & La Costa by the intercession of his family, with whom the owners of the firm were acquainted.

The charge against Porter was grand larceny of $50. He was held in $1,000 bail for examination. After the arrest the detectives learned that their prisoner had planned to make his escape yesterday morning. He had packed and taken along a dress suit case containing some clothing, and had left this in a drug store while he paid a last visit to the office. In that visit he was caught.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TO GO SOUTH

Will Accompany President to Georgia —Norfolk's Quarantine Off.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany the President on his Southern trip as far as Roswell, Ga., the third stop on the trip. From this station Mrs. Roosevelt will return to this city by train.

The quarantine in force at Norfolk, Va., for several weeks against New Orleans and other Southern points was raised to-day and the examination of train passengers by medical officers was discontinued.

The War Department has received daily reports from military posts near yellow fever infected points. No cases have developed in the army, and the immunity is attributed to vigorous precautions taken when the fever outbreak occurred. Every window in every building was screened, steps were taken to destroy the mosquitos, and screens were placed over water barrels and tanks.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 11.—The official yellow fever summary for Mississippi covering twenty-four hours follows:

Vicksburg, five new cases in city, one in country; Natchez, five cases; Gulfport, one new case; Port Gibson, three new cases.

NOT MR. LAWRENCE.

Stenographer's Error Made Him Appear as Making His Own Contracts.

It appears that by the error of a stenographer, an injustice was done to Lysander W. Lawrence, the stationer, in THE TIMES's report of the insurance investigation yesterday. Mr. Lawrence has long supplied stationery to the Mutual Life. In the course of his examination, bringing out this and other facts, Mr. Hughes asked a witness who placed the Mutual's contracts when the head of the supply department, A. C. Fields, was absent. The witness's answer was, "Mr. Norris." The stenographer took down the name as "Mr. Lawrence," thus making it appear as the testimony was printed in THE TIMES that Mr. Lawrence had at times supervision on behalf of the Mutual of contracts made with himself. On the contrary, the placing of these contracts was supervised in the absence of Mr. Fields by his regular assistant, Charles A. Norris.

Wealthy Woman Linguist Missing.

Upon the request of J. Edward Weld, a lawyer, who lives at 57 East Fifty-ninth Street, Police Headquarters sent out an alarm yesterday for his mother, Mrs. Amelia Weld, aged 73, who, the son says, has been missing since Monday. Mrs. Weld is described as a wealthy woman and a fluent linguist. Her son has offices at 55 Liberty Street.

GOULD ROUTS RAMSEY IN WABASH ELECTIONS

Deposed President Fails Even to Keep Seat as a Director.

PROTESTS ALL OVERRULED

Counsel Renew Declaration That Issues Will Be Taken to Court—Second Night Session.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Oct. 11.—Utterly defeated, Joseph Ramsey, Jr., bent to the power of George J. Gould at the Wabash Railroad's annual meeting to-night, and as a mark of acknowledgment of his defeat, cast no ballot at the stockholders' election of their six Directors.

After the refusal of the Inspectors to allow any of Ramsey's claims this morning, the outcome was plainly to be seen. The new Board of Directors is composed of T. H. Hubbard, E. T. Jeffrey, John T. Terry, W. S. Pierce, R. N. Galloway, E. T. Welles, S. C. Reynolds, C. G. Gould, Russell Sage, W. B. Sanders, R. C. Clowry, and Welsh Blodgett. The thirteenth Director and President of the company is Frederick A. Delano.

Judge Doyle, Ramsey's counsel, caused amazement this evening, when, after affidavits and proxies had been produced and rejected, he offered to the tellers the actual stock certificates signed over to Ramsey for a great amount of stock which had been voted by Gould.

The total vote cast by Gould at the final election was 689,907. Had Ramsey been permitted to cast his cumulative vote he would have had 526,306 votes for Director, or only 163,611 less than Gould.

At the morning session, when the vote of the bondholders was announced, it was shown that Ramsey had obtained but 31,840 votes against the 228,510 cast for each of the six men nominated by Gould. Ramsey made no nominations, but cast all the votes he controlled for himself. His demand that he be allowed to cast his vote under the cumulative system was rejected, but he could not have been elected even in that manner.

When Vice President Blodgett, acting as Chairman of the caucus, announced that a total of 260,350 votes had been cast Mr. Ramsey objected to the statement, declaring that his private tally sheet showed that the number was 10,000 less than that. He asked that his count be checked up with that of the election Inspectors. This was refused, after considerable debate, Mr. Ramsey being informed that he could check up his list at any time after the adjournment.

The caucus of stockholders made much more rapid progress than that of the bondholders. The roll call to determine whether or not a quorum was present was concluded at 6:30 o'clock, when a recess of two hours was taken.

The afternoon session of the stockholders presented practically no variation from the scenes of the morning and yesterday. Protests were filed every time a share of stock supposed to be in any way connected with the Missouri Pacific or the Iron Mountain was voted. All the stock voted by Gould which Ramsey asserted that he had proxies for backed up by affidavits also was protested.

Several technicalities in regard to the making of proxies came up. The question of the admissibility of telegraphic proxies occupied some time, and was duly objected to. Similar cases were decided in Gould's favor yesterday.

Charlotte Crabtree, better known as the actress "Lotta," voted 400 shares for Gould. The Gould estates show holdings in the sum of $10,540,000 of Wabash shares.

CLASH IN CHURCH FEDERATION

Unitarians Left Out, and They Ask Where Is Unity Then?

A clash came yesterday in a scheme of church federation under which it is planned to hold some big meetings in this city next month. The Unitarian denomination was left out.

About 700 official delegates and alternates are coming here, representing about 18,000,000 church members. Among the elected delegates were the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Chaplain of the United States Senate; the Hon. John D. Long, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, President of the American Unitarian Association and son of President Eliot of Harvard. The committee in charge of the scheme has declined to admit them.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Slicer of All Souls' Church said yesterday for the Unitarians: "We feel no resentment, but it seems to us Unitarians that here is federation without unity. When unity is professed it is strangely lacking."

The General Secretary of the National Federation is the Rev. Dr. E. B. Sanford. On the committees in charge of the meetings soon to be held are many of the prominent clergy and laymen of all Protestant bodies of the whole country. Dr. Sanford said yesterday:

"I took no action without first consulting our full committee. The limitation was early made to such bodies as unquestionably accept Jesus Christ as the head of the Church."

JIU-JITSU IN COURT.

Miss Sogi Shows How She Threw Man Who Annoyed Her.

Miss Misao Sogi, the little ninety-five-pound Japanese woman who caused the arrest of J. F. McCullum, an athlete, on Tuesday night after she had jiu-jitsued him flat as a flounder on the sidewalk on 125th Street, showed in Harlem Court yesterday how she had floored McCullum. Interested spectators were Magistrate Barlow, who is sitting in Harlem Court, and Magistrate Crane, who was a visitor.

Miss Sogi appeared in court accompanied by Koyta Yoshimura, through whom she said that McCullum had spoken to her and seized her by the shoulder.

"Suppose she shows the Magistrate what she did," suggested Bicycle Policeman Whitman, who had arrested McCullum.

Miss Sogi, when an interpreter put his hand on her shoulder, as McCullum is alleged to have done, grabbed his other arm with a quick motion, shoved one of her tiny feet forward, and the interpreter, who weighs 165 pounds, was hurled backward to the floor. Yoshimura then took his place and Miss Sogi sent him flying over her head.

"She threw me higher than that," remarked McCullum ruefully. He explained that he thought he knew Miss Sogi when he saw her or he would not have spoken to her. Magistrate Barlow fined him $5 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

31,000 NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

And 200,238 Readers for the Year, the Director Reports.

The report of Dr. John S. Billings, director of the New York Public Library, for the year ending June 30 presented to the Trustees yesterday, showed large additions to the library. The meeting, which was held in the Astor Building, was the first since the Summer recess.

Additions to the library in the year were 31,000 volumes and 78,000 pamphlets, bringing the total to 657,500 volumes and 256,500 pamphlets. There are 476,000 more volumes in the various branches of the Circulation Department, making a grand total of 1,390,000 volumes. There were 200,238 readers in the library, who consulted 615,454 books, of which only 25 per cent. were printed in English. There are thirty-four branches, fourteen being Carnegie gifts. Three more Carnegie branches have been opened since the report was printed.

There is nothing more impressive to a business man than the appearance of another business man's office. My pride is that my customers' offices are properly equipped at fair prices.

RUNAWAY CAR CRASHED INTO FERRYHOUSE; 8 HURT

Piece of Brooklyn's Only Cable Line Unmanageable.

GRIPMAN STICKS TO HIS POST

Tries Vainly to Let Go the Cable and, That Failing, to Work the Brakes.

With the gripman sticking to his post, a runaway car of the Montague Street cable line, Brooklyn, dashed down hill from Hicks Street to the house of the Wall Street ferry at noon yesterday, and, crashing through timbers and iron work, imbedded half its length in the structure.

Eight persons were injured—the gripman, Frank Wall, the most seriously—but none of them will die. Besides Wall, those hurt are Edward R. Cinker, 84 years old, of Washington, D. C., shock; Henry O'Neil, the conductor of the car, sprained ankle; Margaret Torrance of 177 Columbia Heights, bruised; Lillian Hoffman of 157 East Twenty-seventh Street, Manhattan, cut by broken glass; Edward Montgomery of 139 West Twenty-fifth Street, Manhattan, bruised and shaken; F. W. Whitmore, a plumber, of 108 Front Street, Manhattan, legs cut and sprained ankle, and Robert A. Pierson of 106 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, internal injuries and scalp wound.

The car had left the head of Montague Street a few minutes before noon with fifteen passengers. As the car passed Hicks Street two women signaled to the conductor that they wished to alight and he rang the bell.

Wall, the gripman, tried vainly to release the cable. Something had gone wrong. He applied the brake, but the car moved rapidly forward, gathering momentum as it proceeded toward the crest of the incline to the ferry. At a signal from the gripman the conductor tried to put on the brakes at the rear, but they did not stop the car.

Just then the car shot forward and dived down the hill. Wall opened the front door and shouted to the passengers to crowd toward the rear. Then he worked desperately to halt the runaway with his brake. When the car struck, Wall was thrown in the air and landed some distance away. He was picked up unconscious, and was found to have received many cuts and bruises.

At the foot of the hill is a switch which takes the cars to a shed in which they are kept when not in use. At the end of the track there is a heavy beam buffer cushioned with a spring. Instead of striking this buffer the car swerved and crashed into the ferry house. The passengers were thrown in a heap as the car tore through the ferry house and only stopped at a big upright. The car was battered out of shape.

Calls were sent to the Long Island College and Cumberland Street Hospitals for ambulances, and to the Fulton, Amity, and Adams Street police stations for the reserves. It was found when the ambulances got there that the Inspectors of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company had sent an automobile to the scene and taken away some of the injured.

Mr. Cinker, one of those hurt, is President of the Washington Market Company of Washington, D. C. He was stopping with friends at 275 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn.

The railroad is the only road operated by cable in Brooklyn. It is probably the shortest car line in New York, carrying passengers from Wall Street ferry to the Borough Hall, a distance of less than half a mile.

MISS LAWSON A BRIDE.

Is Married to E. B. Stamwood—The Barn Dance Programme.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Miss Gladys Lawson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lawson, to-day became the bride of Eben Blaine Stanwood, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Stanwood of this city.

The wedding was celebrated at Dreamwold, Mr. Lawson's Summer home near Egypt, Mass., in the presence of a large number of guests. The entertainment that followed the wedding and the decorations were on the most lavish scale, but the salient feature of the event was a barn dance arranged by the bride, at which the farm people of the entire countryside assisted. The order of the dance was as follows:

This is the programme of the barn dance:

A hall, a hall! give room and foot it, girls. March and circle.
1. Waltz ..... The bride
"I warrant thee my man's as true as steel."
2. Quadrille ..... The bridegroom
"My mistress is the sweetest lady."
3. Two-step ..... Mrs. Lawson
"Is the lady of the house, and a good lady and a wise and virtuous."
4. Contra, Portland fancy ..... Mr. Lawson
"He bears him like a portly gentleman."
5. Waltz ..... The bridesmaids
"An I might live to see thee married once, I have my wish."
6. Quadrille ..... The groomsmen
"Well, think of marriage now."
7. Duchess ..... The engagement
"We met, we woo'd and made exchange of vow."

INTERMISSION.

("We have a trifling foolish banquet towards.")
Waltz—schottische—two-step.
"Ah, Birrah, this unlooked-for sport comes well."
8. Quadrille ..... The parson
"We still have known thee for a holy man."
9. Waltz ..... The Wedding
"Make haste; the bridegroom, he is come already; make haste, I say."
10. Contra, Portland fancy ..... The feast
"The guests are come, supper served up, the nurse cursed in the pantry and everything in extremity."
11. Two-step ..... The departure
"Blubbering and weeping, weeping and blubbering."
12. Waltz ..... The honeymoon
"Ah, me! how sweet is love itself possess'd."
13. Quadrille ..... Housewarming
Lord, Lord, she will be a joyful woman."
14. Waltz ..... Congratulations
"Now God in heaven bless thee."

The scheme followed in the decorations of house and grounds was intended to carry out the idea of a harvest wedding and had been designed by Mr. Lawson, the bride's father.

DEPUTY HELD FOR PERJURY.

Swore to a Wrong Complaint When He Had a Voter Arrested.

Several cases growing out of arrests for attempts at illegal registration came up in the courts yesterday. Magistrate Steinert, in the Essex Market Court, directed Samuel Karschstart, a young law clerk of 260 Henry Street, to make out a complaint charging perjury against George Keuberdanz, a Morgan deputy, who had arrested him when he attempted to register on Monday. The deputy had insisted that the law clerk did not live at 260 Henry Street. He admitted to the Magistrate that he had made a mistake.

"This is a bad state of affairs," said the Magistrate, "when a man is deprived of his liberty by a deputy who does not know what he is taking about. I direct that a complaint of perjury be made out against Keuberdanz."

The deputy was paroled to get $1,000 bail this morning.

Moses Schlomsky of 21 Catharine Street, who was arrested this week on a warrant sworn out a year ago when he was arrested and discharged because his name was misspelled in it, was discharged again by Magistrate Steinert yesterday. It was shown that he had lived at 21 Catharine Street since Aug. 4, 1904.

"This is something new in criminal procedure and indicates a queer state of affairs," remarked the Magistrate in discharging the man.

Weekly Trips to Egypt.

To meet the demand for frequent communication between Naples and Alexandria, Egypt, the Hamburg-American Line has acquired the Oceana, a large and speedy passenger steamer. She is 8,000 tons, with accommodations for about 210 first-class and 75 second-class passengers. She will require only two and a half days for the trip at her average speed of 17 knots, and will be able to maintain regular weekly sailings. A train de luxe between Berlin and Naples will connect with the steamer.

YOKOHAMA EN FETE FOR BRITISH WARSHIPS

City Decorated and General Enthusiasm Displayed.

NOEL GOES TO TOKIO TO-DAY

Speaker at a Banquet Says He Believes America Indorses the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 11.—The British squadron of twelve vessels, under the command of Vice Admiral Sir Gerard Noel, arrived here this morning and was officially welcomed amid scenes of general enthusiasm by Vice Admiral Shimamura.

The squadron entered in single column line ahead, the torpedo-boat destroyers leading, and took up an anchorage facing the shore. Salutes were exchanged between the Japanese flagship, the Iwate, and the British flagship, the Diadem. Admiral Shimamura then went on board the Diadem accompanied by the Governor and other local authorities and a representative of Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister at Tokio. Admiral Noel later visited the Iwate.

After these ceremonies had been concluded Admiral Noel and 1,300 officers and men landed and paraded through a cheering multitude to a garden party given by the municipality, at which they were entertained by dancing, juggling, and wrestling. There was a display of day fireworks and the entire city was appropriately decorated.

At a banquet this evening Major Ichihara proposed a toast to King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the British Navy and welcomed the visit of the squadron as strengthening the Anglo-Japanese alliance for the peaceful industrial development of the Far East and the civilization of the world. He referred to the presence of the United States battleship Wisconsin in the port of Yokohama and cordially welcomed it to Japanese waters.

Although the United States was not bound to Japan by formal ties, said Major Ichihara, that country was regarded as the friend of all nations having community of interests in Far Eastern policies. He said that President Roosevelt had illuminated the American policy for peace and the open door in China and Korea, and therefore it was his belief that the Anglo-Japanese alliance was heartily indorsed by the United States.

Admiral Noel and his staff will leave tomorrow morning for Tokio.

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—The papers extend a warm welcome to the British fleet and in most of them the portrait of Sir Gerard Noel appears.

HERMIT KINGDOM DOOMED.

A Stern Policy in Korea to be Adopted by Japan.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 11.—A dispatch from Tokio received by the steamer Empress of Japan states that a stern Korean policy is to be adopted by Japan following the announcement of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. Korean publicists state freely that since the treaty guarantees freedom for Japan to do what she wants in Korea the shadow of a Korean Government will shortly be swept away and practical suzerainty over Korea will be established.

Several Japanese papers state that the Foreign Ministers in Korea will probably be withdrawn shortly. The Jiji of Tokio says it is necessary that a change take place at once in Korea, that the Foreign Ministers be wirtdrawn, and that the Korean Ministers abroad be recalled, for as long as Korea has diplomatic rights she may be swayed by ambitious diplomats and Japanese interests may be jeopardized.

The return of Russian agents, the attitude of the Korean Government regarding uprisings of Koreans in the north, and the formation of patriotic societies in Söul are among the factors which call forth demands from political leaders in Japan for rigorous measures in Korea.

A Yokohama paper says a part of the Manchurian army may be quartered in Korea instead of being sent home to Japan as a concerted uprising of the Koreans, abetted by officials of the Korean Government, is considered too imminent a possibility to be treated lightly.

Recent attacks upon the Japanese administration in Korea by two newspapers published by Americans at Söul have angered the Tokio politicians, and there is a demand for the suppression of the papers.

Mr. Hurlbut of the Korean Review makes grave charges against the Japanese Administration. He says thousands of Korean peasants are threatened with starvation, beastly scenes are occurring daily, and the peasants are dispossessed of their lands without compensation.

Japanese Capture Three German Steamers and a Norwegian Vessel.

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—The German steamers M. Struve and Hans Wagner were seized yesterday off Fu-San and Nishima, respectively.

Both were bound for Vladivostok and it is alleged that they carried contraband.

NAGASAKI, Oct. 11.—The Norwegian steamer Arnfrid and the German steamer Kowloon were captured by the Japanese recently while on their way to Vladivostok.

SUNK BY A FLOATING MINE.

British Steamer Lost—Fifteen of Crew and Passengers Missing.

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—A report has been received at Mojl that the British steamer Leho struck a floating mine ninety miles east of the Shan-Tung Lighthouse on Sept. 30.

Of the crew and passengers fifteen are reported to be missing, among them two foreign engineers.

KAISER AT ROYAL WEDDING.

Saxe-Coburg's Duke Marries a Schleswig-Holstein Princess.

GLUECKSBURG, Oct. 11.—The Princess Victoria Adelaide, eldest daughter of Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein and niece of Empress Augusta Victoria, was married to the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha at midday to-day in the beautiful little castle here in the presence of about fifty members of the royal families of Germany, among them being the Emperor and Empress and all the imperial children, except Crown Prince Frederick William.

The castle was altogether too small to accommodate half the number of guests, so they came in automobiles or carriages from country places in the neighborhood. The imperial party stayed over night on the Hohenzollern, which was brought from Kiel for the purpose.

The civil ceremony took place in the wide hall of the castle. Then as many of the royal guests and their suites as could be accommodated went to the little chapel up stairs, where the religious rite was performed. To-day was a holiday in this State. Large crowds cheered the bride and bridegroom enthusiastically when they appeared together on the balcony of the castle.

Prince Eitel's Fiancee.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The Duchess Sophie Charlotte of Oldenburg, whose betrothal to Prince Eitel Frederick, second son of Emperor William, was announced last night, is a slim, graceful girl, with pale, regular features. She is four and a half years older than Prince Eitel, and is little known in Berlin. She has been her father's constant companion on his long yachting trips. The Grand Duke of Oldenburg spends the greater part of the year on board his steam yacht Lensahn, and his daughter is equally fond of the water. She became well acquainted with Prince Eitel at Kiel last June.

GERMAN-BRITISH WAR TALK.

More Germans Than Englishmen Desirous of a Conflict.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The statements recently published in Paris in regard to the resignation of M. Delcassé have encouraged the exertions of a powerful clique in this country which is endeavoring to persuade the Germans that in England there is a party which desires nothing more than an armed conflict with Germany.

The truth is that the number of more or less influential Germans who desire as an ultimate issue a trial of strength between Germany and Great Britain is out of all proportion to the isolated individuals in England who have been rash enough to advocate such a policy.

The German advocates of what in the popular phrase is called the ultimate settlement with England will make what capital they can of the latest phase of the duel between Prince von Bülow and M. Delcassé and will employ that capital in promoting chauvinist agitation on behalf of the German navy. This is, perhaps the only gain, if, indeed, it be accounted gain, reaped in any quarter on this side of the Rhine from the recent labors of German diplomacy.

RUSSIA WILLING TO BARGAIN.

An Invitation to England to Enter Upon a Discussion.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 11.—Another important contribution on the subject of an Anglo-Russian understanding appears in the Russ to-day.

The organ of the Foreign Office is not satisfied with the general assurances of Great Britain's readiness to come to an agreement. It wants more specific declarations, particularly in reference to the special interests which the Anglo-Japanese treaty is intended to protect.

The expression of such a desire by an inspired organ affords convincing evidence of the willingness of the Russian Government to discover a basis of understanding. Indeed, the article in the Russ may be regarded as a direct invitation to Great Britain to enter upon the fullest and most free discussion of the respective interests of the two powers in Central Asia, which must necessarily precede a sound and durable understanding.

An exceedingly well-informed personage has given me a statement in regard to Russia's aims and interests in the Middle East. "We will begin," he said, "by elucidating the conditions which would render an understanding impossible. They resolve themselves into the question of our trade in the Persian Gulf. If England places obstacles in the way of our sending merchantmen and gunboats to those waters we shall regard it as evidence of illwill. We want equal opportunities for trade in Persia. We want also to be allowed to trade in Northern Afghanistan. We further want assurances that England will not undertake important steps affecting those countries, such as the delimitation of frontiers, without consulting us.

"In return Russia could offer to recognize Great Britain's special position in Tibet."

AN EXODUS FROM MOSCOW.

Strike Causes a Panic—Thirty Thousand Workmen Now Out.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 11.—The unexpected extension of the strike movement in Moscow, following the recent disturbances, has caused something like a panic. Whole families are deserting the old capital. Trains arrive here crowded and return almost empty, but the authorities apparently expect no serious trouble. The university will reopen to-morrow.

Strikes are reported to have begun in St. Petersburg, but the city is remarkably quiet. This is probably due to the extraordinary tolerance of the Government toward the public meetings daily held in various academic establishments, at which political views and opinions even of the most advanced character are freely expressed.

Father John of Kronstadt is preaching sermons against the reform movement.

MOSCOW, Oct. 11.—The strike of the factory workers continues to spread, and 30,000 workmen are now out. The great workshops of the Brest Railway are now involved. The railway shops are cordoned by troops.

Though the strike movement is spreading the city is remarkably quiet. In an encounter between police and strikers at the Velo Wheel Works to-day one man was severely wounded. Otherwise the day was uneventful. The police to-night dispersed a crowd in the Prechitensky Boulevard.

The strike is affecting factories in the Government of Moscow outside the city.

The managers of the newspapers have decided to concede the demands of the compositors. The other employers met to-day and determined not to enter into negotiations with the strikers, but they promised that if the men returned to work they would consider their demands and answer them within a week.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 11.—The workmen of several factories here are on strike, but the movement is not yet important.

The police to-day discovered in the outskirts of St. Petersburg a number of secret printing establishments, which have been engaged in issuing revolutionary proclamations. As a result of the discovery forty arrests have been made.

CZAR AIDS JEWISH STUDENTS.

Lets Them Enter Universities Pending Action by Assembly.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 11.—Emperor Nicholas has decided to turn over to the National Assembly the final settlement of the question of the admission without restriction of Jews to the universities and other general legislation relative to the status of the Jews.

In reply to a petition from the faculties of the St. Petersburg and Moscow Universities advocating the unrestricted admission of Jewish students the Emperor has notified the faculties of this decision, and, pending the action of the National Assembly, he has authorized the admission of Jews who are applying this year in excess of the legal percentage.

MUTINY ON THE OCEANIC.

Thirty-three Firemen Arrested on Arrival at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 11.—Thirty-three firemen of the White Star liner Oceanic, which arrived here to-day from New York, were arrested after her arrival on the charge of conspiring to disobey the Captain's orders during the voyage from New York.

The dispute arose over wages. It is reported that the men refused to do their work.

CHINA TO MAKE CLAIM ON US FOR INDEMNITY

Contends That Deportations Since Treaty Expired Are Illegal.

MAY ASK TEST AT THE HAGUE

Waiting Till Amount Is $1,000,000 or More, It Is Said, so Americans Will Pay Heed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Chinese Government is preparing to make indemnity claims against the United States for those subjects of the Empress to whom admission to this country has been denied and who have been deported under operation of the Chinese exclusion law. It was stated at the Chinese Legation to-night that no claims for indemnity had been presented, but that all data in regard to such claims and the facts in each were being collected as a due matter of business in the legation.

No move will be made, however, in presenting these claims for six months or a year yet. The number of claims of this class in which it is contended that deportation was not justified under the exclusion law is upward of 200. The officials of the legation have no idea as to the aggregate of the claims. It is not unlikely that the total will run up into the millions.

One version of the affair is that the Chinese Government has ordered the legation to collect information in all such cases of deportation until the aggregate of claims for indemnity is more than $1,000,000, when the claims will be presented. This is said to be arranged on the theory that the American has no respect for small amounts. If the United States refuses to consider the claims the Chinese Government will endeavor to have the matter submitted to arbitration at The Hague.

Should Congress modify the Exclusion act or the Senate make a treaty that would meet the views recently expressed by Secretary Taft, it is not improbable that anything would be heard of the claims. It is understood that the Chinese claim is based only on cases that have occurred since the lapse of the extended Burlingame treaty last year.

The exclusion law was passed against the protest of China and can in no sense be called an international contract. Under existing trade treaties China, it is believed, would have a good case in The Hague court for indemnity in the cases of deportation which have occurred within a year.

A delegation of thirty-two Chinese officers and importers will arrive in this country early in December to urge concessions in the new treaty to be negotiated between the United States and China. Dr. Long, of Shanghai and Wong Kai Gop came here a month or so ago as Trade Commissioners to study conditions. It is understood that no concessions will be asked so far as coolies are concerned, but only liberal treatment for merchants and students.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—A motion to advance hearing on the cases of the six Chinamen who had been ordered deported from Cleveland under the Exclusion act was granted by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in this city today. The cases are expected to come up at the December term of court.

The same technical question is involved in all of the suits, the contention being that the treaty with China providing for exclusion has expired, and there is no exclusion act under which Chinamen can be deported. The litigation affects many of the Chinamen now in the United States.

NEW GIANT LINER SAILS.

The Amerika, Largest Ship in World, Leaves Hamburg for New York.

HAMBURG, Oct. 11.—Herr Ballin, Director of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line, was one of the passengers who sailed for New York to-day on the company's new steamer Amerika.

The vessel has on board her full capacity of passengers.

The Amerika, the largest ship in the world, is 687 feet long, 74 feet 6 inches wide, and 53 feet deep. She can carry about 2,400 passengers and crew. It was only last April that she was launched at Belfast, and the placing in her of her machinery, &c., has been accomplished with remarkable speed.

With the maiden voyage of this vessel almost the last distinction between life on an ocean liner and that in a first-class modern hotel disappears. The Amerika has an a la carte restaurant, open day and night, and it is understood that if passengers desire they can pay for transportation only, and buy their meals on board. The vessel has electric elevators from one deck to another, telephones from the staterooms to the restaurant and other parts of the ship, a florist's shop, a gymnasium, trained nurses, a nursery for children, and electric and hydropathic baths.

ALFONSO GOING TO BERLIN.

Visit Believed to be Connected with a Matrimonial Project.

MADRID, Oct. 11.—The Palace authorities have been ordered to prepare for the departure of King Alfonso for Germany on Nov. 3. The King will remain in Berlin from Nov. 6 to Nov. 12, attending elaborate festivities.

The King's departure for Germany, immediately following President Loubet's visit to Madrid, attracts comment. The fact that the Premier is to accompany his Majesty is said to indicate that questions of State will be considered.

However, the King's visit to Germany was arranged long ago, and is generally believed to be connected with a matrimonial project.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The interior of the Spanish Embassy here is being redecorated in preparation for the visit of King Alfonso. The principal member of his suite will be Premier Montero Rios.

The programme includes the review of an army corps, a stag hunt in the crown forest of Oranienburg, and the usual dinners.

Edhem Pasha Alive and Well.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—Field Marshal Edhem Pasha, the conqueror of Greece, is alive and in good health. The report of his death published in London on Oct. 6 arose from the demise of a namesake.

WESTERN UNION'S LOSS ON RACE NEWS, $215,755

Stopping the Service Made a Hole in the Company's Earnings.

GAIN IN MESSAGE BUSINESS

But Increased Expenses Made a Decrease of $699,409 in Net Revenue —Hyde and Depew Re-elected.

The discontinuance of race reports last year cut down the earnings of the Western Union Telegraph Company $215,755. The expenses increased $483,654, so that the decrease in net revenue for the year ended June 30, was $699,409. In regard to the loss caused by stopping the race news, President Clowry says:

"There was a large increase of revenue from message business, but the loss resulting from the discontinuance of race reports shortly before the beginning of the fiscal year made a decrease of $215,755 in the total earnings. Owing to the conditions under which the race service had been handled a proportionate decrease could not be made in the expenses, which show an increase of $483,654, of which amount $300,000 represents the cost of handling the increased message business."

During the year 87,477,320 messages were sent over the Western Union wires, against 5,879,282 sent thirty-eight years ago. The average cost per message to the company was 27.3 cents and the average toll was 31.6 cents.

In poles and cable 874 miles and in wires 29,152 miles were added to the plant. There were 356 new offices established. Of the total of 1,184,557 miles of wire on June 30, 306,736 were of copper.

In dividends $4,868,083 was paid out of the net revenue of $6,729,775. The cost of new construction was $1,288,279 less than in the previous year. This is the income account compared with 1903-4:

	1905.	1904.
Gross revenue	$29,083,635	$29,240,390
Operating expenses	21,845,570	21,361,915
Net revenue	$7,188,065	$7,887,475
Interest on bonds	1,227,200	1,157,700
Net profit	$5,960,865	$6,729,775
Dividends	4,868,084	4,868,071
Surplus	$1,092,781	$1,861,704
Previous surplus	14,881,429	13,019,725
Total surplus	$15,974,210	$14,881,429

The surplus, after the deduction of operating expenses and bond interest, amounted to $5,960,865 for the year, or 6.12 per cent. on the $97,370,000 capital stock. Of the company's real estate in New York President Clowry says:

"Purchases have been completed of the properties 14, 16 and 18 Dey Street, west of and adjoining the company's main building at the corner of Broadway and Dey Street. These properties are available for extension westwardly on Dey Street of the present main building when the necessities of the business require it."

At the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday Harris C. Fahnestock and Thomas H. Hubbard were elected Directors to succeed Charles Lockhard and A. R. Brewer. James H. Hyde, Chauncey M. Depew, and J. Pierpont Morgan were re-elected. The officers will be elected next week.

CENSURE MINISTER ROCKHILL.

Americans Charge Him with Discourtesy to Miss Roosevelt.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 11.—Mail advices by the steamship Empress of Japan include a Manila dispatch to the Japanese Advertiser of Yokohama which stated that Gen. Corbin had severely censured United States Minister Rockhill at Peking, charging him with dereliction of social duty in the provisions made for the reception and entertainment of the President's daughter and her party at Peking. The Advertiser said:

"Execrable mismanagement of the reception and direct discourtesy on the part of the Minister are charges freely made. The returning party say the marked scantiness of attention paid them was sufficient to elicit surprise from the various legation staffs of the other Peking embassies."

CHESS CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

Berlin Club to Play the Manhattan Club by Cable.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Amid a scene of great enthusiasm the members of the Berlin Chess Club at a special meeting last evening unanimously passed a resolution accepting the challenge of the Manhattan Chess Club of New York for a match on six boards to be played by cable, the contest to take place at the end of November.

The local club selected the following players to represent it: Schallopp, Berthold Lasker, (brother of champion Lasker,) Caro, Lewitt, Post, and Ranneforth.

It is pointed out here that the Berlin Club could not very well accede to the wish of the Manhattan Chess Club that it play only men who have never before taken part in an international chess tournament.

R. W. Ferguson, Chairman of the Match and Tournament Committee of the Manhattan Chess Club, said yesterday that the Manhattan Club would certainly accept the team selected by the Berlin Club. The matter, however, would have to be placed before the Tournament Committee, which would no doubt take official action.

$4,000 A MONTH ON DUMMIES.

Dougherty Padded Teachers' Rolls for Ten Years, Jury Hears.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 11.—An average income of from $2,500 to $4,000 a month for ten years, by means of padded pay rolls, is the latest estimate made from disclosures before the Grand Jury in the case of N. C. Dougherty, City Superintendent of Schools, accused of forgery. The total loss to the city by the padded pay rolls is estimated at $250,000. At least twenty-four new cases, in addition to the indictments previously returned, are in preparation, the Grand Jury reported to the State's Attorney.

The School Board is following the theory that he lost between $60,000 and $100,000 in gold mining schemes. His real estate investments as a rule were successful. The defendant refuses to see any one except his immediate family and attorneys.

PROSPERITY THE THEME AT BANKERS' MEETING

But Vanderlip Warns Against Unwise Speculative Ventures.

PRAISE FOR THE PRESIDENT

Secretary Shaw Pleads for the Merchant Marine—Controller Ridgely Hits at Bank Directors.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Enthusiasm over the great prosperity of the country, tempered by the feeling that it is necessary to be conservative in taking advantage of such fortuitous conditions, marked the meeting of the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association to-day.

Thirty-three hundred representative men met at the New National Theatre and listened to speeches by Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank of New York, Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, and Controller of the Currency Ridgely. Mr. Vanderlip's address, dealing largely with the problem presented by the great increase in the supply of gold, attracted much attention.

Resolutions were adopted praising President Roosevelt for making peace in the Far East. The delegates went to the White House with their families in the afternoon, and the President shook hands with each visitor.

New Banking Laws, Says Swinney.

President E. F. Swinney made the opening address, saying in part:

"We have cause to congratulate ourselves upon the abundant evidence that the past year has been in the main marked by prosperity in all lines of business, and comparatively few bank failures have occurred. All such periods have, however, produced a feeling of overconfidence and lead to the floating of unsound industrial enterprises. The few bank failures of the past year are mostly traceable to excess loans made to such enterprises or their promoters.

"The present statutory provisions of the National Banking act limiting loans to any one individual, firm, or corporation to 10 per cent. of the capital stock of the lending bank seem to be inadequate. I would recommend a change in the banking laws permitting banks to loan one-tenth of their combined capital and surplus to one individual, firm or corporation and provide suitable penalties for any bank violating the law.

"At the same time I would recommend that any funds passed to surplus be reported to the Controller of the Currency and be not thereafter allowed to be in any way impaired under the same penalties and conditions as now prescribed for impairment of capital stock.

"A much more serious abuse lies in the not infrequent acts of managing officers of banks making large discounts to themselves out of the bank's funds. It is an observable fact that in a great number of bank failures there have been found among their assets the worthless notes of high officers of the bank for large loans—frequently without any security at all, or with 'straw' security, which proved to be absolutely worthless.

"This is a most flagrant and reprehensible violation of law, to say nothing of business ethics. It is the essence of personal dishonesty. We should urge Congress to deal rigorously with these abuses by pronouncing them as felons, with extreme pains and penalties, and we should urge this association and the State Bankers' Association to take this matter before their respective State Legislatures, so as to compel protection where there is wanting official integrity and a proper sense of propriety."

Praise for the President.

Immediately after reports had been read, ex-Representative C. A. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y., moved the adoption of this resolution:

"Resolved, That the thanks of this association be extended to President Roosevelt for his untiring efforts in the interest of humanity and civilization, which were so abundantly crowned with success in the treaty of peace of Portsmouth, which has restored tranquillity to Russia and Japan, and has made for the greater civilization and betterment of mankind."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Jennings of Florida, a relative of William J. Bryan, whose words moved the hearty applause of the convention.

"We love peace," he said, "and we love the President. I would not feel satisfied to remain silent and hear words of patriotism that thrill all Americans without rising here to second this resolution, and move for its unanimous adoption."

A rising vote was taken, and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Shaw on Merchant Marine.

Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, confined himself to a plea for the upbuilding of the American merchant marine.

"Practically a half century ago," he said, "the present minority party inaugurated, and the present majority party adopted, a policy of liberality to the promoter.

"Not only has the General Government subsidized domestic commerce by direct appropriations from the public treasury in aid of railroads, but it annually subsidizes commerce, both domestic and foreign, by large appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors. No difficulty is ever experienced in passing a river and harbor bill if its benefits are sufficiently distributed.

"The Government is now enlarging not only the scope but also the amount of its bounty. It has paid fifty millions for the right to dig a ditch in aid of international commerce, and proposes to pay two hundred millions more, or five hundred millions more, if necessary, in the construction of that international ditch, other millions in its maintenance, and no end of millions, if necessary, in its defense. Then after all this outlay we are under contract to grant its use, for all time, to all the world, on the same terms as to the people of the United States.

"The markets of South America, South Africa, and the adjacent islands are just being developed. The eyes of the world are upon them. The merchant nations of Europe know where they are located, and they are establishing banks and warehouses within them, and they have already established regular and fast lines of steamers to them. The United States has neither banks, nor commission houses, nor warehouses in these ports, nor has it means of communication with them except through old, worn-out, dilapidated ships, sailing under foreign flags and making eight or ten knots an hour.

"We occupy the best position on the map. We have the safest and the most convenient form of money in the world. We speak the language of commerce. Our farms produce more than the farms of any other country. Our mines yield gold literally by the carload, silver by the train load, and there is unloaded on the shores of a single Commonwealth more iron ore than any other country produces. Our forests yield 100,000,000 feet of lumber for every day of the calendar year. Our factories turn out more finished products than all the factories of great Britain and Germany combined by more than three thousand millions every twelve months.

"We transport this matchless product of farm and factory, forest and mine, from the interior to the sea at one-third what similar services cost anywhere else beneath the skies. We carry it from point to point along the coast in better vessels, on quicker time, and at cheaper rates than others.

"But at our coast line we are brought to an abrupt halt. Here we are no longer independent. Our foreign commerce is four times as large as forty years ago, but we carry in our own ships only one-third as many gross tons as forty years ago. We have protected and encouraged every interest but our merchant marine, and every protected interest has flourished.

"We have every facility for international commerce except international merchants, international bankers, and an international merchant marine. Shall we not have these?

"I am not urging ship subsidies. I am speaking of results, not of methods."

Vanderlip on Nation's Prosperity.

Frank A. Vanderlip declared that the bankers could look back on the year with unmixed satisfaction. "It is safe to assert that never before was our population so fully employed," he said. "Never before was the general level of wages so high, never before has the aggregate volume of industry been as great as it is to-day, never was the future of industrial activity so fully assured by advance orders.

"Never was the measure of commercial activity so large, and never before did such bountiful harvests meet such eager markets. The total value of the agricultural crop of the United States will this year exceed by $500,000,000 the average value of that crop during the last ten years. The money value on the farms of this season's crop will reach the staggering total of 8,000,000,000."

He declared that with such prosperity for the farmers, "the whole Mississippi Valley gives promise that at some day, distant perhaps, it will be another New England for investments. There is a developing bond market there that is of constant astonishment to Eastern dealers."

Taking up industrial conditions, he admitted that in the era of industrial combinations at the end of the last century "some industries were swept together under hastily considered plans," and "combinations were made that were properly open to criticism." He believed, however, that events had shown the wisdom of the movement.

"We anticipated economies when these combinations were made, but we are only just beginning to understand something of the full advantage which may result from the National organization of certain industries," he said. "It took a little time to get these organizations running smoothly. It was not easy to find men with the broad economic insight which the management of such great enterprises require.

"Economies are being brought about that were not conceived of when these organizations were formed. The co-ordination of a whole field of industry, the organization and distribution of plants so that the industry is working under the least possible disadvantage in respect to transportation charges, the combination into such aggregates that expenditures may be made to effect small savings, or in introducing mechanical aids which would be impossible in small plants, but which on a large scale effect remarkable economies—all these developments are answering the question as to the wisdom of these combinations.

"I believe we are just started on a new 'commercial invasion.' We have the cheapest raw material, the most efficient labor, a pre-eminent ability in the adoption of mechanical aids, and all that is combined with what I believe to be transcendent genius for economic organization. The combination of these forces will, I conceive, be wellnigh irresistible. The logic of this combination spells for us an unexampled development of foreign trade. All we need is intelligently to foster the possibilities."

Problem of Great Gold Supply.

Largely to the great increase in production of gold he attributed the ability of the world to withstand the strain of the recent war.

"The mines of the world will produce this year $375,000,000 of gold," he continued. "The final figures for the production of gold in 1904 have recently been made and they footed $347,000,000. We may reasonably look forward in the near future to an annual average output of $400,000,000 of new gold for at least a considerable number of years.

"When we remember that the entire monetary stock of gold in the world is about $5,700,000,000 we can calculate that the output from the mines in the next fourteen years promises to equal a total as great as the present monetary stock of gold. These figures are startling. They perhaps suggest the possibility of a disturbance of values.

"What is this to mean to the business situation? What is to be its influence upon prices? What effect will it have upon money rates?

"The classical economists, Ricardo, Adam Smith, and Mill, evolved the quantity theory of money. That theory has been proved to be inadequate. There are many other interfering circumstances and modifying conditions. Nevertheless there is economic truth and force in it.

"It is with the influence and knowledge of all of us that if our bank reserves are increased we are moved to increase our loans. A pressure to increase loans tends to reduce interest rates. Lower interest rates enhance the price of incoming investment securities. I think every one will accept, subject to important modifying conditions, the statement that an increase in the monetary supply has a tendency to advance prices.

"Disregarding for the moment all other influences, we may lay down the principle that an increase in the supply of money will tend to advance the price of real property, but the price of an obligation repayable in money will not tend to advance. That is to say that real estate and all forms of property, including shares of corporate stock, which represent an ownership in real property, would advance, but bonds, which represent only the right to demand a payment in money, would not advance.

"All persons having a fixed income would find the purchasing power of that income reduced. The return from mortgages and bonds would have a reduced purchasing power. Persons receiving fixed salaries and wage earners generally would be at a disadvantage, for their incomes would not tend to increase as rapidly as the purchasing power of their wages decreased.

"Under such a set of circumstances there would be constant pressure from wage earners in order to increase their incomes so as to keep pace with the advanced cost of living. Is not that exactly what we have been seeing and are we not likely to see more of that same pressure to advance wages as the cost of living advances?

Trade to Call for More Money.

"These are tendencies which would become sharply manifest if there were not counteracting influences opposing them. That there are sure to be such counteracting influences goes without saying.

"I recall a conversation which I once had with the great German financier, von Siemens, the creator of the Deutsche Bank. The balances of trade in our favor had been climbing up from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 and then had gone well beyond $600,000,000, and it looked as if we might drain Europe of her whole monetary stock if that sort of thing was to go on.

"I asked Herr von Siemens what was to be the outcome for Europe. He replied with a well-known German phrase, 'A tree never quite grows to heaven.' Events soon proved that this tree of favorable trade balances could not quite grow to heaven, although for the moment it did look as though it were likely to. And so with this increased production of gold.

"What I do believe is that there is likely to follow just what followed in the two former periods of the world's history when there was an extraordinary production of gold added to the monetary stocks. One of these periods followed the discovery of America, when the treasures of Mexico and Peru were exploited. The other was in the years following the discovery of gold in California and Australia. In each case a mighty impulse was given to the exploitation of virgin fields of development.

"It seems to me not improbable that the next few years will witness the expansion of the field of commercial enterprise into new places. At our own hand is South America on one side and China and Japan on the other.

"If we are to have an influx of gold more than ample to sustain the credit operations for our domestic affairs, that fact will tend to lead our interests into these new fields of exploitation. Then, in turn, a wider use of credit which these new fields will develop and the increased reserves which that wider use of credit will make necessary, will probably absorb the increasing gold stock in beneficent uses, preventing it from ever becoming a serious menace to business organization."

Lurking Danger in Currency.

Returning again to prosperous conditions in the Nation he declared the outlook was bright, but reminded his hearers that "a tree never quite grows to Heaven." Calling attention to lurking dangers he said:

"Among those which we know exist, there comes first to mind our illogical and unscientific currency system. We know that this system may at any time breed us trouble. We know that there is not a European financier of broad intelligence who, looking dispassionately from without at this currency system of ours, does not feel that it has in it dynamic possibilities for trouble even if other conditions are favorable.

"Indeed, it is when all other conditions are most favorable that the danger is the greatest. Now, in the very fullness of the prosperity that we have, there might be a pitfall for us in that quarter. A strain is on our currency system. With our usual good luck we may avoid disaster, but it is the sort of time, nevertheless, when we ought clearly to see that we have a system which might endanger our banking position and retard most seriously our commercial development.

"We know that we are threatened by great social disorders; that the edict of a labor leader might change a cloudless outlook into an uncertain one. We know there is a disregard of law in labor unions and in corporation offices alike which is threatening to our welfare.

"We can, at the moment, clearly see that however prosperous conditions may appear, this prosperity might receive a severe check should a speculative fever begin to rage. Should a stock market speculation start from the present high level of prices in the face of the extraordinary demand for capital and money which crops and business alike are making, the result might easily be temporary disaster.

"Never was there a better time to preach conservatism; never, perhaps, was it easier to be carried away by some of the obvious features of prosperity and to forget some of the dangers which in the end will be quite as potent in shaping the ultimate result. Although there may be many favorable features to the outlook, it is no time for prudence to be cast to the wind; no time for speculative commitments which would yield disaster if temporary reverses came; no time for laxness in any of the forms of business prudence and conservatism."

Ridgely on Bank Failures.

William Barrett Ridgely, Controller of the Currency, spoke on "Bank Examination and Supervision." He said in part:

"After a careful study of the cases which have come under my observation during the last four years, I am firmly convinced that no system of bank examination or supervision from the outside of the bank can absolutely prevent fraudulent bank failures. No outside supervision can supply honesty or brains for the management of a bank, or take the place of either when it is lacking. The best it can do is to discover acts of dishonesty or bad errors of judgment, after they have occurred, and to some extent prevent illegal acts by fear of their discovery and punishment.

"The point I wish to emphasize is that the responsibility for bank management is by law placed upon the Board of Directors. By accepting a place on a bank board and taking the oath of office, a man accepts this responsibility and swears he will diligently and honestly administer the affairs of the association. He is under every moral and legal obligation to perform this duty fully and completely. It is certainly not asking too much of men who accept such trusts that they simply do their plain sworn duty and obey the laws.

"This would seem to be a particularly opportune time for a vigorous self-searching among the Directors of the banks of the country, as well as all other men who are in places of financial trust and responsibility.

"Recent disclosures of the most disgraceful betrayal of trusts by men in the highest positions and the use of these very positions for private gain at the expense of those whom it was their sacred duty to protect, have put the American financier on trial before the country and the world. Not only those who usually are interested in such matters, but all the people of the country are asking: 'If these men are not to be trusted, who is?' 'If this much is true, how much more must there not be?'

"It is only a natural inquiry whether in the contest for wealth and power the American financial conscience has become deadened and the old ideals of honor and truth have given way to a newer code.

"It is a shame, a disgrace, a National misfortune, that such things could have happened when and where they did, but it is a great good fortune that through a quarrel over the spoils, the knavery has been discovered. Unknown, or only suspected, such things are the greatest danger, but their discovery and exposure makes it possible to reform them. The more complete the exposure, the more certain the reform.

"A Director or officer of any bank, no matter how small or obscure, holds the same relation to his trust that these men held to theirs, which differ only in size. The upholding of the reputation and character of the banking institutions of the country is in our care, and depends on each man doing his full duty."

The report of the Treasurer showed receipts and disbursements of $236,125, and a balance on hand of $142,674.

The New York delegation elected E. O. Eldredge of Oswego a member of the Nominating Committee, and Lewis C. Piersen of the New York National Exchange Bank member of the Executive Council. Connecticut elected ex-Gov. Chamberlain to the Nominating Committee. It was agreed that New England should unite upon the election of a member of the Council. Pennsylvania elected John H. Shook of Greencastle to the Nominating Committee, and E. S. Reinhardt of Mahanoy City as State Vice President.

HER SUBPOENA BLOOMED,

But When She Found It in the Flowers She Was Not Pleased.

When Sadie Solomon, 19 years old, was called to the witness stand in the Seventh District Municipal Court yesterday to testify on behalf of her quondam fiancé, who had been sued by her mother for $154, said to have been lent to him, the young woman treated Sigmund Missel to a stare that did not savor of anything but the deadest kind of dead affection.

Miss Solomon appeared to testify for the defendant instead of on behalf of her mother, who lives at 319 East Sixty-ninth Street, through what the lately affianced young woman called a "mean trick."

Elias J. Levy, who appeared for Missel, seemed to have thought that the girl, by explaining how the $154 was spent, could show that the $154 was not a loan, but a gift the mother-in-law-to-be had made. He tried to serve a subpoena several times but in vain. Then the lawyer received an inspiration.

Next day a dapper young man called at the Solomon home with a bunch of flowers for the girl. He remarked that there was a letter inside. Was there any answer? She read, and the answer she returned was not good-humored.

Yesterday she gave answers that did not help Missel's case any, but Missel said on his own behalf that he had been engaged to Miss Solomon in the Summer of 1904, when he was out of a job. The engagement was broken later.

"But," added Missel, "during that time Mrs. Solomon knew I had no money to entertain her daughter and offered me sums from time to time. On one occasion she gave me $20, every cent of which I spent taking Sadie to a theatre—flowers, too—and to supper afterward. That's how it all went. Was it a gift or a loan?"

Judge Seaman took the case under advisement.

SPENCER LIKENS RATE CONTROL TO LYNCH LAW

Southern President Answers for the Railroads.

AN INCENTIVE FOR REBATES

The Esch-Townsend Bill Wouldn't Prevent, but Would Encourage, Them, He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, Oct. 11.—Characterizing as "commercial lynch law" the attempt to establish Government control over railroad properties on the lines of the Esch-Townsend bill, President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway delivered tonight the reply of the railroads to the agitation for rate legislation. Addressing the Newark Board of Trade, Mr. Spencer said:

"Up to the present time shipper and carrier have been free to work together without political interference, to facilitate the establishment and development of new industries, to reach out for new markets for our farmers and manufacturers, to create new communities and maintain the prosperity of those already established, and to co-operate to the fullest possible extent to enlarge the volume of both our domestic and foreign trade.

"It is now proposed to change this system, and substitute for it one in which artificial bureaucratic methods will take the place of the natural laws of trade and commerce, which have been the controlling force in the evolution of the present system."

President Spencer referred to President Roosevelt's declaration against rebates, and said that no one desired more than the railroad managers that there should be an end to all such practices. He continued:

"No rational suggestions have been made, however, as to how the granting of rate-making power to the Inter-State Commerce Commission could be effective to this end. A rebate or any secret discriminatory device can of course be applied to a Government-made rate as well as to one made by the carrier.

"In fact, a rate established by the commission and thereafter unalterable by the carrier in reduction or otherwise, except upon petition to the commission instead of serving as a cure or a preventive, would be a distinct incentive toward secret reduction when commercial conditions demanded, and a public and legal reduction could not be promptly made.

"One of the most serious objections to the legislation proposed is that under it a rate once fixed by the commission would continue in force indefinitely, unless changed by the commission or by court. The carrier would thereafter have no power to make either reductions or increases to meet new conditions. Under such a law all rates would in time become commission rates."

Mr. Spencer said that such a system of rate control would eliminate railway managers as an agency in the development of the country. As to the plan to confer upon the Inter-State Commerce Commission power to revise rates and make them effective prior to review by courts, he said that this was opposed "to the fundamental principle of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence that rights of property and persons shall be enforced and protected according to due process of law." He continued:

"Virtually there is not a single respect in which the Inter-State Commerce Commission resembles a court. The commission which investigates offenses and initiates prosecutions may and does in addition sit in judgment upon some cases which have been the subject of the investigation and prosecution. In other words, the plaintiff in the litigation is the judge that tries the case. All such features are utterly repugnant to courts, and they are utterly incompatible with an impartial attitude.

"It may be said, however, that it is proposed that the rates made or revised by the commission shall be subject thereafter to the action of the court. According to the plan proposed, the rates made by the commission become effective pending review by the courts. In other words, this argument, while involving an admission that the railroads are entitled to a judicial trial, makes the remarkable demand that they shall be convicted before their trial can begin, and stand convicted, and suffer the penalties of the conviction during the trial.

"To place in the hands of one tribunal which is or may be prosecutor, jury, and judge, and at the same time executioner, is equivalent to providing by statute for the enforcement of commercial lynch law."

President S. S. Robertson of the Board of Trade entertained Mr. Spencer, Vice President Colwell, and General Counsel Jenney of the Lackawanna; George Dixon of the Pennsylvania, and Vice President Bessler, and Messrs. Huntington and Cooms of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at dinner.

The board will hear both sides of the railway rate regulation question, and recently wrote to President Roosevelt, informing him of Mr. Spencer's engagement. In reply, Mr. Roosevelt wrote, suggesting that ex-Senator Cockrell or Commissioner Garfield be invited to put before the board the other side of the question.

SIR ERNEST COCHRANE ON INTERNATIONAL SPORT

Explains Story of Offer to Build America's Cup Challenger.

FOOTBALL IS HIS ONLY HOBBY

If He Can Introduce Anglo-American Games in It He Will Be Content.

Sir Ernest Cecil Cochrane, Englishman, Baronet, soldier, and sportsman, one of the leaders of the British sporting world in fact, has just paid a flying visit to this city and left to return next week in connection with the coming match of the English association football players, the Pilgrims, to be played here on Saturday of next week. He is in this country in the interest of the association game, having followed the team over from England less than two weeks ago and intending to return with them at the latter end of this month. To inaugurate Anglo-American matches is the aim of the visiting team, and to that end Sir Ernest has already offered a cup for international challenge play.

A well built, stocky figure of medium height, rugged with glow of good healthy, outdoor living; energetic, active, and enthusiastic beyond the usual among Englishmen, Sir Ernest Cochrane is himself a tribute to value of "association" as a developer of physical manhood. With a ruddy, smooth shaven, pleasant face that suggests the hand of good fellowship even before it is extended, he is quite as strikingly a testimonial to its social value. If the game is half so good as Sir Ernest's promise for it it will be taken up throughout America with the same enthusiasm that it awakens in England and the object of the visiting Baronet will be speedily attained.

Seated in the Holland House yesterday morning before his departure for Philadelphia, Sir Ernest spoke of his interest in the game, explaining his purposes, and talked entertainingly of the whole scope of international athletics. His talk was called for by an inquiry as to his reputed intention of challenging for America's Cup.

"That story arose through a misunderstanding. The America's Cup was mentioned at a dinner given to Sir Charles Kirkpatrick on the arrival of the Pilgrims in America. Sir Charles had said that I proposed to offer an international cup for football. When he spoke in answer to a toast later he said that I should have more to say about "the cup" on my arrival here. This was misinterpreted to refer to America's Cup, and the story spread that I would challenge for that trophy.

"It was also said that you contemplated offering a yachting cup to be contested for by American boats in English waters."

"I have never had such a thought. There are others, whose yachting knowledge and interest fit them to make such proffers, such as Sir Thomas and the Hon. R. P. Houston, the honor of whose acquaintance I do not have. I shall stick to the cause in which my heart is enlisted, "association," which I believe offers more interesting possibilities. If I serve that end I shall be content.

"International competition between America and England broadens our sporting interests and infuses in them a new incentive that tends to their betterment. I know no game or pastime that affords possibilities along this line equal to "association." Your National game, baseball, is a fine sport, but not suitable to English taste. Cricket, your national sport, has never taken hold of the active American mind. Association football appears ideally the sport in which the energies of the two nations could be best exerted. I am satisfied to give an exposition of the beauties of our game here, believing its intrinsic merit will commend it at once and that international games will naturally follow. The enthusiasm with which it has been received in the cities in which we have played I think justifies this belief.

"Our game of football is different from yours, and I believe a better game. With the merits of each two sports, however, I have no concern. There is plenty of room for both in your country, and there is not the slightest reason why one should antagonize the other. Whatever place we take with our game in your interest and affections, if you add to ours by meeting us in international matches we will be satisfied.

"Association is all science. Its lively motion should at once commend it to you. No sport is so fast save polo. When known in America I believe there will be no stemming the tide of popular acclaim that will greet it. Once established here I believe international games in it will supersede in interest all forms of sporting contests between us even to America's Cup races."

NOT ECONOMY, BUT AIR.

That Is Sheriff's Reason for Conveying Prisoners by Trolley.

Criticised because his deputies took prisoners to the Far Rockaway Police Court by trolley instead of in cars of the Long Island Railroad Company Sheriff Joseph Meyerrose of Queens County replies that he believes that men who have been in jail are greatly benefited by fresh air before their arraignment in court. Critics of the Sheriff assert that because he is economical business is delayed for from one to two hours daily in the Far Rockaway court.

The fare over the Long Island Railroad for each prisoner taken from the Long Island City Jail would be 50 cents, while by trolley the fare is 15 cents. The Sheriff says he will continue to take his prisoners to court by trolley, no matter what people say.

PERVERSE RAN CLOSE TO WORLD'S RECORD TIME

Won in the Fastest Race Ever Credited to a Two-Year-Old.

SEVEN FURLONGS IN 1:23 3-5

Whitney Filly's Success in Champagne Stakes at Belmont Park Put Her Among Season's Stars.

Perverse, a winner for the third time in the course of the Belmont Park Autumn meeting yesterday, when she captured the big event of the afternoon programme, the Champagne Stakes, startled horsemen and racegoers to the point of renewed doubt when the time of her race was displayed, 1:23 3-5, for seven furlongs, or within one-tenth of a second of the world's record for the distance on a straight course, the 1:23⅘ of Bella B. at Monmouth Park, which has stood for fifteen years. The marvel was the greater, as Bella B., herself a very fast mare, was a five-year-old and carried only 103 pounds, in midsummer on a lightning-fast track, while Perverse, a two-year-old, had up 119 pounds, and ran on a course dampened and somewhat deadened by rain.

A peculiarity of the race was that the Champagne Stakes was run down the long straightaway course, originally meant for seven furlongs, but shortened by the moving back of the judges' stand a hundred feet or so, to bring the finishing line before the grand stand, the officials thus being compelled to put up a temporary winning post at the old finishing point in order to get the full seven furlongs for the stake. The judges were stationed at the temporary stand, but it was insinuated by some of the horsemen who doubted the time of Perverse's race that Timer W. H. Barretto caught the time for the race at the regular finish instead of waiting until the horses had gone on to the finish fixed for the Champagne Stakes. This Mr. Barretto denied positively, and in view of the fact that all the races run at Belmont Park this Fall have been singularly fast, and that records have been beaten or equaled nearly every day of the meeting, there seems no reason to doubt the correctness of the time or to discredit the performance of Perverse.

Perverse was named on the programme with the great colt Burgomaster, as the Whitney entry, but the stable withdrew Burgomaster early in the afternoon, and later added the moderate performer Battleaxe as running mate for Perverse, while Penrhyn also was added, making a field of six running, all with stake weight up except Oaklawn, who had an allowance of five pounds. In the betting the Whitney entry and Whimsical and Security were nearly equally supported at the opening, but Whimsical was backed down to the place of a 6 to 5 favorite at the post, while the Whitney entry went back to 13 to 5 and Security to 4 to 1.

Security, winner of the $20,000 Great Trial Stakes in the Spring, was led to the post in advance of his field, twisting and whirling and fighting his groom and the jockey on his back in a style that sent the price against him up to longer figures. When the other horses followed him to the post, a brisk rain kept the crowd well in the shelter of the stands. The Whitney horses were in the outside positions at the post, and when the barrier lifted to send the Champagne field away, Perverse, holding to her outside place, at once outran her stable mate, and, keeping to the outside all the way, finished near the fence inclosing the stands, winning ridden out by a length after having been in the lead all the distance, while Whimsical overhauled Security on the inner rail about the last furlong pole, and in a whipping fight, got second place, with Security third and Battleaxe fourth.

Perverse, a full sister to Stalwart, one of the sensational three-year-olds of last year, is Whitney bred, by Meddler-Melba, and did not race as a two-year-old. She started in the filly part of the Matron Stakes on the opening day of the Belmont Park Fall meeting as a maiden, and won easily. On her next start she won the Nursery Handicap, and yesterday made her record three straight wins in the Champagne. The suddenness of the filly's ascent to fame reminded racegoers of the achievements of the Whitney stable with fillies last season, and since then the speculation as to how many more like Perverse Trainer J. W. Rogers may have in his barn was begun. Summary:

$100,000 RACE HORSE DEAD.

Yankee Consul, Star Two-Year-Old, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

The death of the successful two-year-old race horse Yankee Consul, valued by his owner, Paul Rainey, at $100,000, was announced to W. H. May, father of the colt's trainer, at the Belmont Park race course yesterday in a telegram from Lexington, Ky., to which place Yankee Consul had been shipped from New York City a week previously.

Yankee Consul, a bay colt by Sempronius-Lady Inez, was regarded by horsemen as one of the greatest of the two-year-olds that raced this season, and a number of turfmen considered him the best, placing him above even H. P. Whitney's Burgomaster. The question of merit between Yankee Consul and the others of the star two-year-olds was not decided in races, as Yankee Consul was not engaged in the most valuable stakes, and so did not meet the cracks, though he won the last five races that he ran in in the East.

The colt was one of the stars of the Memphis Spring meeting, where in March he raced and won in the name of C. R. Ellison, and then was sold for $20,000 to Mr. Rainey, who raced in the name of the Tippah Farm Stable, with J. W. (Bub) May as trainer and supposedly part owner of the colt. Yankee Consul was brought to New York in June, and won his first race at the Gravesend track, after which he took a place among the noted horses of the season. His winnings in the course of the season amounted to about $25,000, but he was a horse of such speed and promise that when Mr. Rainey was asked to put a price on him he said that he would not sell the colt for less than $100,000.

The colt was shipped by Trainer May to Lexington a week ago, to go into Winter quarters on the May training farm, and contracted pneumonia on the cars in transit. He was sick when he landed at Lexington, and died yesterday.

J. W. May is the trainer who first came into fame as being the man who developed Highball, and was a part owner of that colt, also valued at $100,000, when Highball broke his leg in a race at Brighton Beach last Summer and was destroyed. As in the case of Highball, which was insured for $50,000, Yankee Consul was well insured, but W. H. May did not know yesterday for what amount.

Notes of the Thoroughbreds.

The Stewards, representing the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, at Belmont Park yesterday concluded the inquiry into the riding of Steeplechase Jockey Flanagan on the horse Ruth's Rattler on Tuesday, when that horse was beaten by Gansevoort, and found that Flanagan's statement that he was not in physical condition to ride a more vigorous finish than he did was true, as he recently was lamed and since then has been unable to take regular exercise. The Stewards reprimanded the rider for accepting mounts when so disabled, and warned him not to try to ride again until he was in proper form.

James Gaynor yesterday worked on private terms the chestnut gelding Brigand, five years old, to W. L. Oliver.

The two-year-old Cat's Eye, owned by T. E. Mannix, ran away with the light boy Johnson while going to the post for the fifth race at Belmont Park yesterday, and went the full mile and a half circuit of the track before she was pulled up. She joined her mates at the post then and started and ran in the race.

Burgomaster, the best two-year-old of the Harry Payne Whitney stable, is ailing with cold, and was coughing yesterday in such a manner that he was withdrawn from the race for the Champagne Stakes. This was Burgomaster's last engagement of the season, so that it is certain he now will be retired for the Winter.

The yearling colt by Ben Strome-Roselear, full brother to the great sprinter Rosêben, is reported to be hopelessly broken down in the stable of State Senator P. H. McCarren, who paid $11,000 for him.

COHN WON FIVE-MILE RUN.

Irish-American Runner Captured Feature Event at Physical Culture Show.

The athletic events at the Madison Square Garden Physical Culture Exhibition attracted another big crowd last night, despite the storm. The programme included sprints and long-distance races, in which Sir Charles Kirkpatrick officiated as referee. The five-mile run was the feature. Eight competitors faced the starter, five of whom dropped out before half the distance had been covered. Harvey Cohn and E. P. Carr lapped W. J. Frank, the ex-bicycle rider, at the fourth mile, and the pair kept within three feet of each other up to the last lap, when Cohn sprinted and, passing Carr, won by five yards in 26:02 3-5.

John Hines, the bantam-weight wrestling champion of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, won the final bout in the 115-pound class from A. J. Devlin of the Mohawk Athletic Club. Miss Anna Tracey of Chicago has a clear lead in the competition for contour and physical work. Miss Trixie Sinclair of California is a close second. Summaries:

COLUMBIA IS CRIPPLED BY FOOTBALL VERDICTS

Capt. Thorp Dropped and Carter and Starbuck Cannot Play.

OTHER PLAYERS UNDER BAN

Unprecedented Action Casts Gloom Over Team's Prospects—Big College Mid-Week Games.

Columbia's Faculty pursued the most drastic measures yesterday in dropping Capt. "Tom" Thorp from college and issuing the decree that Starbuck and Carter must not play upon the football eleven. It cast the gloom of despair over the hope that the Morningside team had of "doing something" this season. Coach Morley was downcast by the news when it was brought to him, and the undergraduates felt like putting on crepe. It is the worst blow that Columbia football his received—much worse than the general overturning of football affairs several years ago.

In a measure Thorp, at tackle, had been the backbone of the team for two seasons. But he had allowed his studies to go neglected, and his inability to make up brought about the action of the Faculty. The same is practically true of Carter and Starbuck, both backs, and the latter the only reliable punter that Columbia possesses. While these men are not dropped, they cannot play on the team, which makes the action of the Columbia Faculty the most remarkable procedure that has ever been witnessed in a college in the East.

The feeling prevails among the Columbia football following, both graduate and student, that the recent action of President Roosevelt in taking a stand for radical reforms in football has led the Faculty to deal more sternly with the three players than would otherwise have been the case. Carter, who entered with the class of 1906, has been dropped to 1908, and Starbuck has been put back a class to 1908.

It has been known for some time that there was trouble between the Faculty and some of the football players, but it was not thought that the men would be treated as harshly as it appears they have been. The Faculty sustains its action by saying that the men in question have not really tried to make themselves eligible. They intimate that the men thought that because they were prominent members of the football team they would be exempt in a measure from the strict enforcement of the law.

The measures adopted are undoubtedly more severe than Dean Hutton was in the habit of serving out, and it seems that the students should have been more fully warned when Acting Dean Sever decided to be more strict this year. Dean Sever is, however, out after the men who indulge in athletics to the detriment of their standing, it is understood.

That he is not finished with the matter is the statement of a member of the Faculty close to Dean Sever. He said last night that he understood that eight other men, including the manager of the team, Gerald Curtis, were liable to be declared ineligible. Dean Sever would neither confirm nor deny the report when seen relative to the matter. If he does carry his war to the point where these men are declared ineligible, the Blue and White might just as well disband its football eleven, for the situation with Thorp, Carter, and Starbuck out of the game is bad enough, but with seven other men ineligible there would be hardly be enough for any sort of a team.

The first intimation that the football authorities had of the action of the Faculty came yesterday morning when the three men in question received letters from Dean Sever announcing his decision. Neither Carter nor Starbuck nor Thorp would say a word, although it was understood from some of Thorp's friends that he would apply to the university for reinstatement. If he is reinstated Thorp will have the opportunity to withdraw of his own volition.

When he first entered the university Thorp stood high in his studies. The taking on of too much athletic work last year, however, was his deficiency. With Carter the situation is decidedly different. It is claimed that Dean Sever told him that if he passed a certain examination he would be eligible for football. According to report he passed that off yesterday morning so that his disqualification came as a big surprise. The letter implies that he is debarred from participating in athletics from the indefinite future, while in the case of Starbuck the time is stated as for the present academic year.

While this wholesale slaughter of Columbia's football hopes was the feature of the day in that sport the football fortunes of several of the big colleges contributed their quota toward forshadowing the outcome of the season. Princeton met a tartar in Lehigh, and the latter at times outplayed the Tigers and crossed their goal line. Yale, Harvard, and Pennsylvania all won. Bates scored one touch-down and goal upon the wearers of the Crimson, but it was in no sense due to actually better play. The scores follow:

YALE, 29; SPRINGFIELD T. S., 0.
PRINCETON, 29; LEHIGH, 6.

PENNSYLVANIA, 38; FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 11.—Yale won from the Springfield Training School to-day by a score of 29 to 0. The game shows little for Yale, as the visitors were inexperienced, having but one man left of the team that held Yale to 6 to 0 last year. Yale played a fast game, and gave Springfield their distance but once. The first half ended in three touch-downs, the second half seeing the visitors playing much better and holding the substitutes Yale put in. The features were an attempt at goal by Jones, long runs by Jones and Bigelow, and the all-around playing of Forbes. The line-up:

Yale, 29.	Position.	S. T. S., 0.
Flanders, Smith	Centre	Wright

Touch-downs—Veeder, 2; Morse, Jones, 2. Goals from touch-down—Veeder, 2; Jones, 2. Umpire—Dr. Hammond. Referee—T. B. Hull. Timer and head linesman—T. C. Cates, Yale. Linesmen—O. M. Read, Yale; Consetseck, Springfield. Time of halves—Twenty and fifteen minutes.

HARVARD, 34; BATES, 6.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 11.—Although Harvard defeated Bates on Soldiers' Field this afternoon without difficulty, the visitors crossed the Crimson goal line for the first time this season, the final score being 34 to 6. Bates's touch-down was made by Capt. Kendall, who received the ball on a double pass, and sprinted seventy yards, during which he broke off both Starr and Wendell, and just crawled over the line as Nesmith tackled him. The line-up:

Harvard, 34.	Position.	Bates, 6.

BOSTON GOLF WOMEN LEAD.

Miss Oliver Creates Championship Surprise by Beating Miss Adams.

Wet weather, close competitions, and the usual number of surprises that every big golf tournament brings characterized the play yesterday on the Morris County Golf Club's links near Morristown, N. J., in the second round of the women's National championship. Only eight survivors are now left for the championship title, and of these Boston claims one-half. New York has two, Miss Georgianna Bishop, the present champion, and Mrs. Charles S. Stout, who held the National title in 1901 and 1902. All of the Philadelphians were retired with the exception of the veteran Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, who was runner-up in 1899 and has been a prominent competitor in nearly all subsequent tournaments. Unfortunately she was drawn against one of her clubmates, Mrs. S. C. Price of the Huntington Valley Club, and after a hard match the latter was beaten by one hole.

Miss Marion Oliver still remains in the ranks, representing the Chevy Chase Club of the District of Columbia. The golfing daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War furnished one of the big surprises of the day. She beat Miss Mollie B. Adams, who made the best showing of the American team in the British women's championship last Spring. It required twenty holes to determine the winner. The remarkable fact about the match was that Miss Oliver was two up on the turn and then increased her lead until she was dormie 5. To the consternation of her friends she lost hole after hole, and when Miss Adams, by taking five in succession, tied the match on the home green the Boston delegates were wild with joy. The nineteenth was halved, but on the twentieth Miss Adams made a poor drive and then missed her second shot, so she lost the hole and the match by 4 strokes to 7. The cards:

Miss Oliver. Out	5	3	4	6	5	7	5	6	5	—46
Miss Adams. Out	5	4	4	6	6	5	5	6	7	—48
Miss Oliver. In	4	6	4	4	8	7	7	5	5	—50—96
Miss Adams. In	5	6	5	5	7	5	4	4	4	—45—93

Extra holes—Miss Oliver 5, 4; Miss Adams 5, 7.

But, although the Bostonians lost one of their best players, they are expecting great things from their four survivors. These are Miss Margaret Curtis, Miss Harriet Curtis, Miss Grace Keyes, and Miss Pauline Mackay. Mrs. M. D. Paterson of the Englewood Club gave Miss Margaret Curtis a hard game, and the latter just managed to win by a hole. Miss Eunice Terry of the Ardsley Club forced Miss Keyes to play nineteen holes before the latter could claim the victory. Miss Mackay beat Miss North and Miss Harriet Curtis beat Miss Ayres, both of the losers being from the Philadelphia Association. Miss Bishop met Mrs. E. F. Sanford of Orange, the runner-up last year. The champion played a strong game and won by 5 up and 3 to play. Mrs. Stout defeated the Baltusrol girl, Miss Julia Mix, by 4 up and 2 to play. The results of the second match play round are:

Championship, Second Round.—Miss Grace Keyes, Concord, beat Miss Eunice Terry, Ardsley, 1 up, (19 holes;) Miss Marion Oliver, Chevy Chase, beat Miss Mollie B. Adams, Wollaston, 1 up, (20 holes;) Mrs. Charles T. Stout, Apawamis, beat Miss Julia Mix, Baltusrol, 4 up and 3 to play; Miss Harriet Curtis, Essex County, Mass., beat Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Englewood, 1 up; Miss Georgianna Bishop, Brookhaven, beat Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Essex County, N. PRINCETON, 29; LEHIGH, 6.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 11.—Princeton's unblemished record was marred to-day, when Lehigh scored a touch-down and held the Tigers to a score of 29 to 6. During the greater part of the first half and in the early part of the second the Pennsylvania aggregation proved the hardest proposition that Princeton has yet tackled and at periods during the game literally outplayed the Tigers.

The line-up:

Princeton, 29.	Position.	Lehigh, 6.
J. Waller	Left guard	Strauss
Carothers	Centre	Dunn
Henry	Right guard	Backman
Harring	Right tackle	Olcott
Fryer, Tooker	Right end	Gott
Dillon, Tenney	Quarter back	Pine, Spiers
Bard	Left half back	Romwell, Lawyer
Daub	Right half back	Broombaw, Stocker
McCormick, Otis	Full back	Sheridan

Touch-downs—Dillon, Bard, Spiers, Daub, Tenney, O'Brien. Goals from touch-downs—(4.) Herman. Umpire—Dave Fultz. Referee—Mr. Murphy. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

PENNSYLVANIA, 38; F. AND M., 0.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—The University of Pennsylvania football team defeated Franklin and Marshall College on Franklin Field today by the score of 38 to 0, played in a downpour of rain on a field which, dotted with puddles, offered treacherous footing. Pennsylvania won because she outclassed her rivals in weight and concentrated force. The momentum of plays aimed at the Franklin and Marshall guards and tackles could not be checked on the slippery field, and frequently after a man had been tackled and brought down he slid several yards. The line-up follows:

Pennsylvania, 38.	Position.	F. and M., 0.
Robinson	Left guard	Hartman
Junk	Right guard	Snyder, Boyer
Rooke	Right tackle	Sipple
Scarlett	Right end	Coldran
Stevenson, Johnson	Quarter back	Danaher
Shebie, Longwell	Left half back	Reisser
Bennis, Greene, Corson	Right half back	Lentz

Touch-down—Folwell, Robinson, Bennis, Rooke, (6.) Longwell. Goals from touch-downs—Torrey, 2; Bankert, 1. Referee—William N. Morice. Umpire—Jack Hedges. Linesman—A. L. Smith. Time—Twenty and fifteen minute halves.

GALLAGHER HOLDS LEAD.

Despite Chilled Ivories, He Outplays McLaughlin in Balk-Line Match.

Because of the change in the weather last night the ivory billiard balls rolled hard for both Thomas Gallagher and Edward McLaughlin in the continuation of their balk-line match at Maurice Daly's Academy. Gallagher continued to lead McLaughlin, however, and while he was never able to make any runs that topped fifty his execution with the cue was interesting. When Gallagher had counted his allotted string of 300 points for the night McLaughlin was left at 216, and only a grand total of 731 points against Gallagher's 900 for the three nights.

Taking the balls from the position in which they lay when play had stopped on the previous night Gallagher opened with a run of 37 carroms, but the majority of the shots were at round-the-table angles, the balls showing little disposition to lay close for nursing. Three innings later Gallagher again got the balls to rolling well for him and made a run of 35 before he missed on a difficult draw shot. McLaughlin experienced more difficulty than did Gallagher, his best run only netting him 34 buttons. The score:

Gallagher—37 1 7 35 3 1 0 1 7 29 28 5 0 1 27 1 3 12 27 17 14 0 25 0 16 3. Total, 300 points; average, 11 7-13; high runs, 37, 35, and 29. Grand total, 900 points.

McLaughlin—20 1 15 0 34 19 0 1 10 6 0 3 16 4 2 20 23 4 0 8 0 20 3 0 7. Total, 216 points; average, 8 16-25; high runs, 34, 23, and 20. Grand total, 731 points.

THE CANDIDACY OF MR. HEARST.

Any one who tries to understand the meaning of the nomination of Mr. HEARST will find it helpful to consider candidly both sides of the proposed transaction. On the one side there is the City of New York. On the other side there is Mr. WILLIAM R. HEARST, who has accepted the nomination for Mayor tendered him by his Municipal Ownership League. New York is a city of rather more than 4,000,000 inhabitants. It has an assessed valuation in round numbers of $6,000,000,000—six thousand millions. Its annual budget is $100,000,000. It has well on toward 700,000 legal voters. Every dollar of its six billions of property has an owner. It is of universal human experience that the owners of property are gratified to see it increase in value; to the extent of their ability and knowledge they avoid those things that would diminish its value. The great majority of the people of the city have taken enough interest in public questions to inform themselves as well as they can concerning the policies and measures affecting them personally, or affecting the welfare of the community. The office of Mayor of such a city is evidently one of great trust and responsibility. It is an office that for its wise administration demands ability, probity, sound judgment, steadiness, and familiarity with large affairs.

Mr. WILLIAM R. HEARST was born in the State of California. His father, Senator HEARST, made a great many millions of dollars in mining and business ventures. Young Mr. HEARST was educated at Harvard College. One of the assets of his father's estate was a newspaper in San Francisco, of which he assumed the management soon after leaving college. He continued this newspaper, The Examiner, upon lines which have since come to be familiarly known as "yellow"—extremely yellow. Mr. HEARST then acquired a newspaper in this city. He made a newspaper of such a character that it was excluded from respectable reading rooms, libraries, and clubs. He has continued to develop and apply his ideas of journalism in this and other cities, until his newspapers are everywhere accepted as the extreme type of their peculiar class. Mr. HEARST has been twice elected to Congress, but has been very little seen and much less frequently heard in or about the Capitol. In the year 1904 Mr. HEARST offered himself to the people of this Republic as a candidate for the Presidential nomination. He secured a considerable number of delegates in several States, and it is generally believed that he spent a great deal of money in getting them. The proceedings of the Democratic Convention were not affected or influenced by Mr. HEARST and his delegates. He has organized and sustained a Hearst Municipal Ownership League, and that constitutes his chief relation to municipal affairs. In the social and business life of the city he is unknown.

That such a man should aspire to be the Mayor of such a city, that any organization should ask even a moderately intelligent electorate to put Mr. WILLIAM R. HEARST in charge of the municipal business, might well excite astonishment. We think astonishment should give way to satisfaction—very great satisfaction. Mr. HEARST is the proper leader of the municipal ownership cause. If the word logical may be used in speaking of such a Socialistic foray we should say that Mr. HEARST was the logical candidate. Ex-Senator FORD and Judge SEABURY have studied municipal ownership theories much more diligently than Mr. HEARST; they could expound the faith for hours before audiences the sight of which would make Mr. HEARST seek a means of escape. But Mr. HEARST has paid the bills of the league's propaganda, and he is entitled to this honor.

From the public point of view it is well that the question should be submitted not only on its own merits, but on the merits of Mr. HEARST, the chief agitator in that field of reform. The community ought to know how large a following such a class and such a candidate can get in this town. Mr. HENRY GEORGE, with whose Mayoralty candidacy the putting forward of Mr. HEARST has been compared, was a man of high character and perfect sincerity. Moreover, he was a student and thinker. His theories broke down under competent examination, but they were presented with great power and skill, and they captivated many minds. When his nomination was imminent sober-minded men in this city were of the opinion that property and order ought to issue a direct challenge to the Socialistic sentiment, and in order that the issue might be squarely made they advocated the nomination of Mr. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT as Mr. GEORGE'S opponent. Mr. GEORGE received 68,000 votes; he was beaten by Mr. HEWITT, but he had more votes than Mr. ROOSEVELT, the Republican nominee.

It will not be necessary this year to reply to the nomination of Mr. HEARST by the nomination of a millionaire candidate. Mayor MCCLELLAN will serve the purpose perfectly well. If the charge is made against Mr. HEARST that he is running for Mayor purely for advertising purposes, no very effective denial can be made. That charge could not be made against Mr. GEORGE. Mr. BRYAN was described as "ambitious, unsteady, unsafe." That characterization falls so far short of adequately describing Mr. HEARST that it seems almost flattery to use it. His character fits his cause, so that when the returns are in we shall have the public measure of them both, given in circumstances of great fairness and justice. He will get some votes—not many as compared with the immense total. The advocates of municipal ownership and operation will then get their bearings and be able to determine whether it is worth while to keep up the agitation.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S GREAT SERVICE.

There is one service rendered by Mr. ROOSEVELT in these latter days which has not received the appreciation due to it, and which in its ultimate effect may well be compared with any other in his notable career. It is the ban he has put on the campaign of the Republican machine in Philadelphia, the refusal directly or indirectly to recognize it in his capacity of National head of his party, and the absolute withdrawal from it of any countenance on the part of his Administration. The firmness and the significance of his attitude are indicated in the action of Mr. ROOT, now Secretary of State; in the position taken by Vice President FAIRBANKS, and by Senator KNOX, and, finally, in the reluctant cancellation of his engagement to speak by Senator FORAKER. Though the last-named gentleman protests that he is not influenced by what the Administration has done or declined to do, he recognizes plainly that it will not do to throw the cloak of the National party around the Philadelphia ring. That would not have been so plain to him had it not been for the course that the President has taken.

It will be noted that the course of the President is not necessarily based on the theory that local politics should be entirely independent of National politics. Probably he does not hold that theory and has not essentially changed his views since he stood for Mayor in this city against Mr. HEWITT. But he does hold that National politics should not be mixed up with rascality in local politics, that honest Republicans should not hesitate to vote down dishonest men, even though they are regular in the last degree. That is a sound idea, and if it can be applied with consistency and courage it will be a great protection to our cities, a strong check on thievery and corruption, an immense help to the improvement of our cities in every way, material as well as moral. It is a principle that should, of course, prevail just as much with one party as with the other, but it has a certain importance in the Republican Party, because that party rests on the voters' conception of their business interests. The scamps in Philadelphia have won many a victory through the aid of men scared about the tariff. The confusing influence of this peculiar doctrine makes the grip of the machine tighter and the conduct of its managers more reckless. It is a solid and splendid service on the part of the President to loosen that grip and refuse the sanction of the National party leaders to that conduct.

This policy on the part of the President tends also to drive the party machine into the open, and that of itself would do away with a lot of its power for mischief. It must win the support of the members of the party for nominations fairly discussed and submitted to the opinion of the party; it cannot impose its creatures, chosen in secret and controlled in secret. In the Executive Committee of the Thirty-eighth Ward in Philadelphia, this week, the majority threw over the machine ticket and indorsed the city ticket as one which represents Republicans chosen by the people in convention assembled, which ticket has been openly indorsed by the Republican Mayor of the greatest Republican city in the Union; has practically been indorsed by the Republican Secretary of State of the United States, and represents the type of men and policy which the Republican President of the United States is so thoroughly committed to.

That is the literal and logical application of the principle on which the President is acting. It opens up possibilities of immense improvement.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

The political position of Mr. JEROME is a peculiar one. He has behind him to-day the four thousand petitioners for his independent nomination; he will have the support of the Citizens' Union, the precise strength of which has never been tested. He is sure to be opposed by the Hearst Democrats, who would not support him if he could guarantee them the millennial reign of municipal ownership and operation within thirty days of his election. The Republican organization may or may not nominate him, and the same is true of Tammany. It will depend in each case on the leaders' calculation of ultimate party advantage.

It will be a great pity and it will be a shame if Mr. JEROME'S services cannot be secured for another term, partly because he is a very capable and honorable official, and also because he stands at this juncture as the sole representative of public as contrasted with private or partisan interests. As such he does not commend himself to either Tammany or the Republicans, but as such, also, either organization would gain credit from him as a candidate. His course has been marked by dignity and independence, and as he will make no sacrifices of these to secure a nomination, so his acceptance by either organization would raise it in public estimation. It remains to be seen how far this consideration will have influence.

FACTS, FEARS, AND COUNSEL.

Mr. VANDERLIP is a gentleman who speaks seldom and only when he has something to say. And there are more than personal reasons why he should be listened to. His connections are such that his information is as good as his judgment, and there are not a few in Wall Street who care more for information than for judgment. His remarks therefore will be read between the lines for inferences as to what action those should take who wish to follow well-informed opinion. This is a pity. Imitation is one of the worst vices and dangers of Wall Street, and is a chief source of that sheeplike action which breeds danger where none may exist. Independence of action, original inference from facts, is not an infallible road to wealth, but it is as good as any advice which can be given. "Buy when the herd is selling; sell when the herd is buying," was a maxim of the banker who found success by not seeking to sell at the top, nor to buy at the bottom.

Mr. VANDERLIP'S remarks therefore ought to be pondered rather for their well-informed and judicious account of conditions than for tips as to how the market will act. In this respect there is a marked distinction between Mr. VANDERLIP'S present remarks and the well-remembered address which preceded the violent fall from which prices have recently recovered. Then Mr. VANDERLIP described conditions and marshaled facts to show that the situation was dangerous. Neither Mr. VANDERLIP nor Mr. SHAW now sounds any such note. Fancy can hardly paint an economic picture in brighter colors than they use. Mr. SHAW particularly arrays his figures with an artistic skill which warms even a torpid imagination. As already remarked, Mr. VANDERLIP'S remarks are characterized by a comparative deficiency of statistics, results being stated rather than the process by which the results are reached. The results stated are good enough, so good, in fact, that Mr. VANDERLIP feels compelled to utter a final word of caution and praise of conservatism.

It is as impossible to dissent from his caution as it would be to quarrel with his statement of facts. Who could seriously argue that times are ever good enough to cast caution to the winds, or that speculative commitments should ever be assumed which would cause embarrassment in case of altered conditions? Who would argue in opposition to Mr. VANDERLIP that there is ever a time for laxness in any of the forms of business prudence and conservatism? Wall Street jumped to the conclusion that things must take a turn for the worse because they cannot improve upon Mr. VANDERLIP'S outline. It may be so, but Wall Street's thinking so will not make it so. Those who want the highest testimony to the excellence of present conditions can find them stated by both Mr. SHAW and Mr. VANDERLIP. There is no law against drawing doleful inferences. Bulls and bears are about equally liable to be mistaken, but bulls have the most fun when they are wrong, anyway.

CIVILIZING FOOTBALL.

It is immensely characteristic of the superabundant vitality of the President that, just at this time, when the ordinary work of his office might tax any man's faculties, he should have energy to spare to call a council at the White House on football. Of course the game can never be reduced to the safety of "checkers," according to the ancient gibe of the Yale rough to the gentleman from Harvard. Accidents will doubtless continue to occur in the best-regulated contests. Perfectly casual collisions may do bodily harm. The chances of these must be taken in this as in all other manly sports. But the game should be regulated so as to reduce the chances to a minimum. And willful "dirty play," such as disgraced the game the other day between Columbia and Wesleyan, should result in the immediate discipline of the offender. The ruffian in that case should have been handed over to the police for an assault with intent to do bodily harm, which he evidently had committed, and which he had no more excuse for committing on a player than on a bystander.

It is maintained, by those British missionaries of a gentler football who have now arrived on these shores, that the American game is needlessly rough and dangerous, and they have come to commend to us the "Association game," which is assumed to soften the manners nor suffer to be ferocious. That is not wholly the British opinion. In fact, it is a British saying that in the Rugby game you kick the ball, in the Association game you kick the man if you cannot kick the ball, while in the Irish game you kick the ball if you cannot kick the man. But if the game under the distinguished patronage of Sir ALFRED HARMSWORTH has advantages over the game under the still more distinguished patronage of the President of the United States, which can be secured without losing the interest of the contest or lessening the skill it requires, by all means it is to be expected that the President's council of experts will commend those advantages for adoption in the American game.

"PENNY" POSTAGE.

A good many years ago a magazine writer, in a "Study of an Old Southern Borough," illustrated the temper of its inhabitants by saying that they were always speculating on what would happen if "they," meaning Northerners, should come down into the region and undertake to develop its latent resources.

The suggestion from London that if the President of the United States will take the initiative in proposing an international postage of a "penny" he will probably receive warm British support somehow looks like a similar confession of impotency or decadence. What is the matter with Mr. HUNEKER HEATON, to whom cheap postage is the breath of his nostrils? Whether Great Britain be or be not the country in the world which pays the most foreign postage, obviously she is the country in the world which has the most vital interest in foreign correspondence. And moreover, about the very British expression of "penny postage," there lurks an insular, not a cosmopolitan, air. No other nation that we know of has a coin, or monetary unit, corresponding to the British penny. The British penny corresponds to two American cents, not to one. You cannot get anything in this country for a cent, excepting, to be sure, what some of our too fond admirers describe as the best newspaper in it. You can, it is true, get a domestic postage stamp for two cents, the equivalent of the British penny. But our practically least pecuniary unit is the nickel, for which you can already go up to the extremity of Bronx Borough, if you will, or of Brooklyn Borough, if you must, and for which you can already send a letter to the remotest confines of the globe that are included in the Postal Union.

Of course, we appreciate the National compliment conveyed in the belief that the man who made peace between Russia and Japan can do anything. But why should he do this thing? Americans are not groaning and travailing under the tyranny of the five-cent foreign stamp. It is one of the least of their troubles. Let the Britons who groan under it work out their own deliverance, to the extent of at least asking for a two-cent instead of a five-cent stamp. Or let them reform and rationalize their antiquated and absurd currency system so that the "penny," which enchains their imaginations and the imaginations of nobody else, shall cease to dominate their international conceptions.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Edgar Allan Poe and the Hall of Fame.

Many of the Southern papers are making alternate moan and howl because EDGAR ALLAN POE has twice been rejected of those who decide the not very important question of admittance to a so-called Hall of Fame that happened to be erected in this city, but has not yet happened really to attract the city's attention. We do not pretend to know very much about this curious and gently interesting edifice, and we admit that we know still less about the mental processes by which one name is inscribed there and another rejected, but one thing seems to be pretty plain, and that is the fact that the names selected for honor by the eminent and amiable little group of balloters win their place because the men and women who wore them are deemed worthy of fame by the members of the group, while little or no regard is paid to the question whether this or that man is or is not famous. Nobody who asked that question in the case of POE could hesitate for an instant about making an affirmative answer under any definition of "fame" that we know of. There would be no exaggeration we think in saying that POE is the most famous poet, and among the most famous dozen men, that all the Americas have yet produced. His work made the world-appeal, and the reply is no more to be ignored or denied or argued against than any other phenomenon that is a matter of observation, not of judgment. Names not famous have been inscribed in this Hall of Fame, and they remain—not famous. POE's name is not written there, and its glory is not in the slightest degree obscured. No harm had been done in the one case or the other, and it betrays a lack both of sense and of humor to get angry at either the inclusions or the exclusions. The very nice people who erected this building and are managing it have the best of rights to ask some other people to select names with which to decorate its walls and to do the selecting after a plan which leads to an expression of their personal opinions as to who has and has not earned fame—as to who should and should not be famous. When the rest of us agree with them it's all right; when the rest of us disagree with them, that's all right too, and supplies an interesting subject for discussion into the bargain. Why alternate moans and howls? POE, and COOPER as well, will be famous centuries after many of the worthies who have been dragged out of honest obscurity by these well-intentioned laudators have gently slipped back into it, and if we cannot all be happy in the meantime, we should at least be as happy as we can, and never, never, never interfere with the innocent sports and pleasures of our neighbors.

Not "a Class in Vivisection."

An unfortunate wording of one of our Chicago dispatches yesterday made it probable that a certain small but extremely vociferous band will be able to base a lot of nonsensical horror on a clipping from THE TIMES—which, as it happens, that particular band would be especially glad to do. "Eight women students," ran the dispatch, "have entered a large class in vivisection which will be taught this quarter at the University of Chicago," and then it went on to tell about the price of dogs and cats and the names of the instructors. Now, of course, there will be no "class in vivisection" in the University of Chicago, either this quarter or any other quarter. Vivisection, so far as we are aware, does not appear on the curriculum of any educational institution, and we never heard that it was an object of direct study in any part of the world. What there will be, no doubt, is a class in physiology or some related study, and the students, as they necessarily must if they would learn to the best advantage and are serious in the desire to do so, will observe the revelations made by skilled vivisectors and take some little part in the performance of that sort of work. This is a very different thing from a "class in vivisection." It is not exactly a pleasant thing to think of, apart from its motives and its results, but we have not ourselves ever seen any necessity, or even any excuse, for so thinking of it. Consequently we have always been able to view with entire calmness the properly conducted experiments on living animals that are made by competent men, and would regret if anything printed in THE TIMES supplied ammunition to the misguided sentimentalists who have set themselves against the whole consensus of medical authority and are endeavoring, with too much success in some quarters, to impose deplorable restrictions upon the extension of knowledge and the progress of the healing art.

JUST A FRIENDLY LETTER

From a Man Who Began Reading The Times with Its First Issue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Glancing over the exchanges in the office of The Journal recently, I found a copy of THE TIMES, and was gratified as I read that portion devoted to "correspondents," for it evidenced a broad culture and liberal thought. I recall a remark credited to Mr. Raymond, at that time your editor. It was to the effect "that in any political article written by him he felt that much might be said on the other side."

The same spirit is indicated in the willingness to consider both sides of any question by those who filled the space devoted to correspondents. When I was younger than now, (born 1830,) I was living in a boarding house in Beekman Street, near the "Old Saint George's Church." It was in the early fifties. One morning there was thrown in to us the first copy of THE TIMES. It bore the same respectable look as it does to this day, but it was then a stranger and an interloper; the public want was supplied by The Tribune, The Herald, and The Sun.

THE TIMES came to us for a week, and it was generally approved, but the consensus of opinion was that it could not compete with its established rivals.

But week by week it grew in favor and strength, and after a year it was found fitted to survive, and I continued to read it until in 1856 I went South, and in 1861 found the New York papers no longer accessible, but resumed in 1865, and recall with pleasure the kindly spirit of conciliation which pervaded its columns and made it a welcome visitor where many other Northern papers were sources of irritation.

It was always clean, interesting, and instructive, and I resumed my reading with pleasant memories of the days when the Union did not require restoring, but was dear to all who lived and flourished under the folds of the flag.

Secretary Shaw is on a friendly tour in the South, and in his non-partisan speeches is doing good service in exposing the iniquity of the Dingley system of robbery, for he deprecates discussion, fearing panic and disaster if free discussion is had. That was our view of the question of slavery in 1856. It is a safe proposition that any question which cannot be discussed without danger is evil, not good, so Mr. Shaw is unconsciously hastening the time and day when all tariffs will be done away and the people will exchange their products freely and without hindrance.

Here is common ground for meeting, a real restoration of the Union and the recognition of human brotherhood.

I wish for THE TIMES many years of continued good for the world and humanity. WILLIAM RILEY BOYD.

Fine Opening for Criminals.

From The London Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—There is evidently a fine opening for criminals in the French penal colony of New Caledonia, in the West Pacific. Residents of that island who are in business or following agricultural pursuits have addressed a petition to the Colonial Minister, M. Clementel, asking him to send them out more convicts. The colonists of New Caledonia were formerly of a different opinion as to the value of convicts, for they once asked the Government not to transport all the penal servitude prisoners to their island. Consequently fewer convicts were dispatched there of late years, and now the colonists find that they cannot do without the help of the condemned criminals, whom they are, in fact, ready to receive with open arms.

How a "Public Utility" Is Worked.

From The Louisville Courier-Journal.

A contemporary agrees with the Courier-Journal that "the Government management of the Government printing at Washington throws a strong sidelight on the consequences of Government control of public utilities. It costs the Government about $7,000,000 per year to get about $4,000,000 worth of work done." And it might be added that the Government, simply because it runs a printing office with public funds, does more than twice the amount of printing that there is any occasion for, thus greatly increasing the amount of "graft" supplied the politicians by that remarkably conducted concern.

Better Dressed in the West.

From The San Francisco Chronicle.

The manager of the National Dressmakers' Association declares that for well-dressed women New York is not in it with the cities of San Francisco and St. Louis. The metropolis is inclined to look down upon her sister cities, but occasionally she hears the truth about herself. When she does it is usually told by outsiders.

On a Missionary Basis.

From The Springfield Republican.

Before the American people are through with this life insurance problem the Beck-McCurdy view may be accepted, that the business is of a Christian missionary character, and compensation for conducting it will then be reduced to the level obtaining in other missionary and charitable work.

The "Wall Street Candidate?"

From The Baltimore Sun.

Those who were wont to call Judge Parker the "Wall-Street candidate" last year might learn something by reading the testimony concerning campaign contributions in the insurance investigation.

THE STRIKE BILL.

A Source of Much of the Corruption in Politics and Business.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The appalling dishonesty revealed in the management of large corporations does not compare in my judgment with the monumental iniquity of the so-called "strike bills" in our Legislature. Please turn the limelight upon them. Let us have through the press the fullest publicity given to these iniquitous measures that the public may know the men responsible for them. Almost every corporation is attacked seemingly for blood money, and immunity from attack comes at a high cost, which the great business concerns are constantly paying and from which corrupt Legislatures grow fat. Is it true that our Legislatures can be thus influenced? That bills are planned for no other purpose than the extortion of money? Turn on the light. Let some commission examine the Legislature. The people want to know. ENQUIRER.

ANOTHER ROCKEFELLER TEXT.

"Thou Anointest My Head with Oil, My Cup Runneth Over."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I must say that I do not sympathize with the people who have been writing to THE TIMES protesting against devoting so much space to the sayings and doings of Mr. J. D. Rockefeller. I think his addresses to the Sunday school children of his church and on other occasions are highly entertaining. There is no doubt that THE TIMES is adding to the gayety of nations by giving them a wide circulation.

When I read about his quoting the first verse of the Twenty-third Psalm in one of his Sunday school talks recently it occurred to me that he might have repeated another verse of the same Psalm with good effect. It is this: "Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over." C. G. BARROWS.

A "Mutual" Investigation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How "mutual" it all is! The young man explaining how he has expostulated—alas! in vain—to the old man about his excessive emoluments. The old man explaining how his dummies, in his absence and without his knowledge, forced upon him an addition to his salary.

This you might call "high finance." But when the old man also explains that it is not really finance at all, but philanthropy, in his zeal for which he consented to do violence to his own feelings, to the extent of accepting a meagre increase of 50 per cent. in his beggarly pittance of $100,000 a year, nausea overcomes wonder.

And when you discover, from his own testimony, that, since his salary was raised, he has made it a point not to know anything about the operations in particular of the departments for which he has such a "vast responsibility" in general, what are you going to say then? To meet the dramatic proprieties, the whole ought to conclude with a song and dance by the junior philanthropist—"Everybody Works but Father." WALL STREET.

Mixed on His Nationality.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I came to this country from Dublin, Ireland, in the year 1890, and in due course took out naturalization papers as an American citizen. I can trace my pedigree in Ireland as far back as the year 1500, but my family are, and always were, English in heart, English in religion, and English in name, I myself being an ex-soldier of the British Army.

Now, when asked by fellow-American citizens what my nationality was before I became an American, and I reply: "Irish," I am commiserated with as to my down-trodden country and told: "Oh! How you must hate England." I protest against it! I have Irish blood in my veins in plenty, and I'm proud of it; but I never was, or felt myself to be, down-trodden, and my last drop of blood would go for England to-morrow if she needed it. I don't carry a shillalah round with me or stick a pipe in my hat, nor did I ever see any one in Ireland who did do so. I'm an American now, but what was I? "ERLE" OF DUBLIN.

A Word for Mr. Comstock.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article you published Oct. 10, "Comstock Gets After Pool," is certainly helpful as far as it goes in relieving fresh anxiety on the part of anti-vice workers. Many thousands of sincere, retiring people endeavor to promote higher standards of morality, but lack moral courage to render much aggressive service for the prevention of immoral influences over youth and the general public. Many true Christians are constantly fearful lest evil shall triumph over righteousness and honest endeavor, and that Anthony Comstock, who is one of the most aggressive workers, shall be proved an extremist, or overly grasping in his judiciary rights. Christian watchers who commit aggressive workers to the care and protection of the all-powerful compassionate heavenly Father, are grateful to you for publishing this defense by Anthony Comstock.

Another Punctuator Speaks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While exceptions may prove the rule, I hardly think that "G. A. W.'s" criticism of your suggestion as to deleting the comma before the final "and" in a phrase containing more than two substantives is sustained by the example he cites. In the statement "The following officers are to be elected: President, Vice President, Secretary and Trasurer" there is no doubt that four persons are intended, and that the comma is very properly deleted; for to have conveyed the impression that only three officers were to be elected, the wording, and not the punctuation, would have been affected, as follows: "President, Vice President and Secretary and Treasurer," the deleting of the comma occurring before the first "and."

Tall Figures.

From The Ottawa Free Press.

Sir Frederick Borden has visions of 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat being produced in the West. This beats Dr. Saunders 850,000,000. The Hon. George E. Foster talks of 50,000,000 of people in Canada in a few years' time, and a recent distinguished English visitor chats glibly of 100,000,000. It is easy to talk in big figures, and men seem unable to think soberly with regard to the West.

Convincing Realism.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes, indeed, he's a master of realism in art."

"Is he?"

"I should say he is. Why, he painted a railway tunnel so naturally that a young man who was looking at it with a young woman quite forgot himself and suddenly kissed her!"

From The Washington Star.

"Do you regard the political future of this country as secure?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "I have thought the matter over, and I still consider politics an entirely safe investment."

The Family Joke.

"Maybe he is a blood relation of the President."

THE HALL OF FAME.

How the Names Are Chosen That Are to be Perpetuated Therein.

From The World Almanac.

March 5, 1900, the Council of New York University accepted a gift of $100,000, afterward increased to $230,000, from a donor whose name was withheld, for the erection and completion on University Heights, New York City, of a building to be called "The Hall of Fame for Great Americans." A structure was accordingly built in the form of a semi-circle, 500 feet long, 15 feet wide, and 170 feet high, connecting the University Hall of Philosophy with the Hall of Languages. Within the colonnade 150 panels, each 2 by 8 feet, are to be placed, to bear the names of Americans deemed the greatest in their respective fields.

Under the rules adopted only persons born on what is now United States territory and who shall have been dead ten or more years are eligible to be chosen. Fifteen classes of citizens were recommended for consideration, to wit: Authors and editors, business men, educators, inventors, missionaries and explorers, philanthropists and reformers, preachers and theologians, scientists, engineers, and architects, lawyers and Judges, musicians, painters and sculptors, physicians and surgeons, rulers and statesmen, soldiers and sailors, distinguished men and women outside the above classes. Fifty names were to be subscribed on the tablets at the beginning, and five additional names every fifth year thereafter, until the year 2000, when the 150 inscriptions will be completed. Should there be a failure to select the entire fifty names at the beginning the vacancies shall be filled in a following year.

The rules prescribed that the Council should invite nominations from the public. Every nomination seconded by a member of the University Senate should be submitted to an electorate of one hundred eminent citizens selected by the Council, each of whom must vote for fifty of the candidates.

In October, 1900, the University Senate received the ballots of the Judges. Of the one hundred Judges selected ninety-seven voted. The number of names which had been submitted to them was 252. Of these each Judge returned a vote for fifty. The rule required that no candidate receiving less than fifty-one votes should be accepted. The returns showed that but twenty-nine candidates received the required number and were chosen. These were as follows: George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Daniel Webster, Benjamin Franklin, Ulysses S. Grant, John Marshall, Thomas Jefferson, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry W. Longfellow, Robert Fulton, Washington Irving, Jonathan Edwards, Samuel F. B. Morse, David G. Farragut, Henry Clay, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Robert E. Lee, Peter Cooper, Eli Whitney, John J. Audubon, Horace Mann, Henry Ward Beecher, James Kent, Joseph Story, John Adams, William E. Channing, Gilbert Stuart, and Asa Gray.

It was decided to select the remaining twenty-one names of the first fifty in 1902, under the same rules, but as the official book was not ready until late in 1901, the Senate reconsidered its action and decided to do no more than it was required to do by the deed of gift, namely, to fill the vacant panels in 1905. At that time, therefore, twenty-six panels will be filled. All names which received as many as ten votes on the first trial can be voted for. The same judges will act, save that unavoidable vacancies will be filled by the Senate. Provision will be made for an additional hall having thirty panels, to contain the names of foreign-born Americans. Six names for these will be chosen in 1905. Also for a Hall of Fame for women, with sixty panels, for which twelve names will be chosen in 1905, two to be foreign born.

QUERY FOR THE CASUISTS.

What to Do with Unsolicited Milk—Might Ask the Milkman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am in perplexity, so remembering the moral discussions of THE TIMES I write to you. The pint of milk which constitutes my breakfast was rendered unfit for use this morning by three milk tickets which I found stuck fast to the jar's bottom after I had drunk the milk. I washed the glass jar hurriedly, and with a fresh ticket by its side left it as usual for my careless milkman. Apparently he found three tickets in the jar and one outside, for I found on my return from the day's duties four pints of milk. Now what ought I to do?

I cannot return the milk. It would be sour when the milkman comes again. If I drink it must I in equity pay for it? In despair I have given the milk to an aged neighbor, explaining how I obtained it. Will her use of it injure her soul? Help! J. B.

Cover the Deadly Third Rail.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Manhattan elevated lines, the Subway, and the Long Island Railroad have all covered their third rails, and at stations have removed the third rail to the side of the track furthest from the platform, for the protection of the public and incidentally guarding against injury suits. What is the influence at work that permits the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company continually and persistently to defy the public and ignore their safety in this regard. It, of course, would never occur to the State Railroad Board to take any action—not they.

From The Richmond Times-Dispatch.

This is not a new question at all. It was long since settled by a distinguished divine, the Right Rev. Richard H. Wilmer, late Bishop of Alabama, who was remarkable at once for his piety and his humor. When some one asked him why it was that the pictures and figures of men angels, as well as female angels, were represented without beards, the Bishop replied promptly that it seemed to be easy enough to make angels out of women, but that men could only get into heaven by a "close shave."

HE HAS FOUR WIVES AND WOULD HAVE MORE

Binniker, Who Once Wore Uniforms, Looked So Fine.

TWO WIVES MET BY CHANCE

Compared Notes and Had Him Arrested—As He's Held for Trial a Fiancee Appears.

Robert Leroy Binniker, once a soldier, then a sailor, looked so well in uniform that four women seem to have married him, regardless of results. Two of them appeared in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday, because, as was brought out at the hearing, their mothers thought something ought to be done to the fascinating Binniker. A fifth woman hovered about the courtroom making eyes at him. She said she was not married to the prisoner yet, but was engaged to be.

So far as could be discovered no anger and no jealousy rankled in the breasts of the women who know the truth about Binniker. Friends they were in girlhood, and friends they still remain.

The first intimation about Binniker reached Magistrate Cornell, in the Jefferson Market Court on Tuesday afternoon. There appeared in court two women, who applied for a warraht for the man's arrest. One of them said she was Mrs. Emily Binniker, 20 years old, of 245 East Eighteenth Street; the other that she was Mrs. Norma Binniker, 19 years old, of 425 East Fifteenth Street. The Magistrate was forced to believe what they said when they produced two marriage certificates, which showed that both of them had been married by the pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, but that the clergyman had been slightly imposed upon by Binniker's juggling with his name—that in one instance he had used his middle name, and in the other his first one.

Norma further explained to the Magistrate that she had married Binniker in June last. She said that Binniker had long since left her. She added that she and Emily had been friends since girlhood, and that a few days ago she had gone to visit Emily at her Eighteenth Street home. There, she said, she had found not only her girl-friend, but also her husband. While she was at the house she said Emily happened by chance to catch a glimpse of a marriage certificate in Norma's handbag with the name of "Leroy Binniker" on it as the bridegroom. Emily said:

"Why, I didn't know you were married."

"Oh, yes," Norma answered. "Leroy is my husband."

"His name isn't Leroy, it's Robert," Emily replied.

This led to revelations and a family council. When Binniker got home that night from his work as painter his explanation consisted mostly of this:

"What are you going to do about it?"

He was arrested. When the case came up in court yesterday morning, the two women told the Magistrate that Binniker had taken time enough between the dates that he had married them to go to Fall River and marry a woman named Esther Enerdred, whom he brought to New York and introduced to Emily as his cousin. Norma also told the Magistrate that one night her husband had taken her to Chinatown, and that there he had spoken in a very familiar way to a woman whom she had since learned Binniker had also married.

While these revelations concerning Binniker were being made, his fiancee was looking through the iron grating which separates prisoners and witnesses from the spectators. She said her name was Jennie Wood. She repeated over and over again:

"I don't believe it; I don't believe that Robert would do such a thing!"

Magistrate Cornell, however, held him in $1,000 bail for trial. No sooner had this been announced than Norma fainted. She was caught by Emily, Binniker's other wife, who helped to resuscitate her friend.

Binniker then said:

"She knew I was married when she married me, and was willing to take a chance."

Binniker says he is 25 years old. He is smooth shaven, and has light blue eyes. There are thousands on the lower west side who look enough like him to be his brother.

"To-morrow Land" to Stay on the Road

Announcement came last evening from the office of Henry W. Savage that the reopening of the Garden Theatre Monday night with "To-morrow Land" had been indefinitely postponed. It was said on Broadway that "To-morrow Land" was to continue on the road.

"The Nazarene" Seen in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 11.—"The Nazarene," a new biblical drama by Hal Reid and Bertha Westbrook, produced by Lee Shubert, John C. Fisher, and Frank Perley, began its season in a crowded house to-night at the Empire Theatre. The story bears some resemblance to Wilson Barrett's famous play, "The Sign of the Cross."

The prologue is set at Golgotha, and the last act shows the triumph of Christianity. The Christ does not appear in the play.

Suit Over "The Two Orphans."

An action was begun yesterday in the United States Circuit Court by Kate Stevenson, who is Kate Claxton on the stage, against F. F. Proctor, the theatrical manager for $1,200 in royalties alleged to be due on the production of "The Two Orphans" on Oct. 12, 1903, by the Proctor stock company. She alleges that in 1902 the play was newly copyrighted and all rights transferred to the plaintiff.

Institute of Musical Art Opens.

Frank Damrosch, Director of the Institute of Musical Art, opened the institute's first session yesterday. More than 250 students from all parts of the country have enrolled, and there are a large number of applications awaiting action. The new school has an endowment of $500,000, the gift of James Loeb, and a large amount promised in addition.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland, Alton B. Parker, and Gen. Grant attended the performance of "Rip Van Winkle" at Wallack's last night. Rear Admiral Evans, his staff, and a hundred other officers were at the Lew Fields Theatre. The Duchess of Marlborough occupied a box at the Princess Theatre, where Margaret Anglin is playing in "Zira."

J. W. Barrie has cabled to Cecelia Loftus inviting her to go to London to play the title role in "Peter Pan," his last successful play.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are soon to begin a starring tour under the management of Harry Sommers in Byron Ongley's play "The Rector's Garden," in which Robert Edeson appeared several seasons ago.

Lina Abarbanell, leading woman in "Fruhlingsluft," the comic opera at the Irving Place Theatre, was too ill to appear last night. The bill was changed to the comedy "Er und Sein Schwester."

Architects and contractors looked over the Hippodrome yesterday morning to get notions for a Hippodrome for Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's repertoire for the last two weeks at the Belasco Theatre is for the week of Oct. 30, "Zaza"; for the week of Nov. 6, Monday Tuesday, and Wednesday, "Du Barry"; Thursday, "Adrea"; Friday and Saturday, "Zaza."

The special matinee of Florence Davis in "The Player Maid," announced to take place at the Hudson Theatre on Friday afternoon, has been changed to the Liberty Theatre.

Owing to the extensive arrangements preliminary to the production of "The Romance of a Hindoo Princess," no matinees will be given at the Hippodrome next week on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The spectacle will be produced on Wednesday evening.

THEY FOUGHT AND SHOOK.

And Justice Zeller Tells Sammy and Willie That's All Right.

Disorderly conduct and gathering a crowd was the ponderous charge preferred against Samuel Rodman and Willie Sillinsky, when they were arraigned before Justice Zeller yesterday in the Children's Court. The policeman said that 2,000 persons had gathered at East Broadway and Pike Street the day before to see the boys fight. The boys had stripped to the waist, and their noses had bled before the police arrived.

"Well, well," said Justice Zeller, turning to the policeman, "was there any hitting below the belt or anything of that kind?"

"Not that I could see," he said.

Then Justice Zeller found that Sammy was 14 years old and Willie 12. Willie then told about the fight.

"It wasn't just a championship, Judge," he said. "This feller tells all the other boys in School 114 that he can lick any one in his class. I didn't feel sure that he was right, Judge, so I just took a chance."

"Well, what did you discover?" asked the amused Justice.

"He's pretty good, Judge, but I had him going when some one calls, 'Cheese it, cops,' and then he got in a soak when I wasn't looking."

"What is your grudge against this boy?" asked Justice Zeller.

"Ain't got any," said Willie. "We was just fightin' for fun. Oh, he's an all right kid, Judge."

"Are you ready to shake hands now?"

"We did that before we come in, but we'll do it over again," said Willie, and they did sha e.

"I don't think that either of you boys is very bad," said Justice Zeller, "and there are worse ways of settling disputes than with fists, but don't use that style out in the public streets. Find a nice quiet place where there are no 'cops.' Then when you've settled it shake hands. Never bear malice. Now you can both go home."

LILLIAN RUSSELL SUING THE SHUBERT BROTHERS

Wants a Share of the Profits of the "Lady Teazle" Tour.

SHE GOT ONLY $700 A WEEK

Less Than She Has Received Since She Began "Twenty?" "Yes, Twenty Years Ago."

In her dressing room at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre Lillian Russell told last night of a suit she has brought against the Shubert Brothers for a share of the profits in "Lady Teazle."

Edna Wallace Hopper was with Miss Russell at the time. When it came to a point of law in the interview Miss Hopper requested that she be appealed to.

"Ask me, I know all about law," she said. "Yes, this is to be a civil suit."

"Mr. Klein, the counsel for the Shuberts, was served to-day with papers in the suit by my counsel, Edward Lauterbach," Miss Russell began. "And mark you, this is my first suit against a theatrical manager.

"I have never had any trouble. All my managers before have paid me with just one exception. In that case the manager said he could pay me, but he couldn't pay the chorus. He did pay me, and he didn't pay the chorus. I did pay the chorus, and the manager said he would make it good with me, but he never did. It was my loss. I never sued him.

"When I signed with the Shuberts for 'Lady Teazle' it was agreed that I should get a low salary and half the profits. Well, I never got half the profits. I played for a salary lower than I ever played for since—since—"

Miss Russell closed one eye, held up her finger, and said deliberately:

"Since I began, twenty years ago."

"It was $700 a week, and I have never played for less than $1,000 for twenty years back," she continued. "The Shuberts didn't treat me right in other respects. They billed me for matinees impossible to a singer. One of these, for example, was at Hartford, on Thanksgiving Day. I had notified them long before hand that I would not sing there, but instead of canceling the date, Lee Shubert telegraphed on to his representative: 'Fix it with Russell.'

"Well, he couldn't fix it with Russell. I keep my word the same as a man does. All these things Lee Shubert is urging against me. I have failed to find that that man has any aptitude for business. At any rate, I have been unable to get any satisfaction out of him. As near as I can make out, after going to various persons, is that they made no profits out of my tour.

"Now, I know different. From my books and accounts it is clear that they owe me at least $20,000, having done a business of about $300,000, with a profit of $40,000. My agreement with them was that I was to get half the profits.

"But that is not all. The Shuberts are playing 'Lady Teazle' on tour, and I am going to establish my rights to an interest in that production. I understand it is very profitable."

Lee Shubert was said to be in Philadelphia last night. Channing Pollock, his representative, said:

"Miss Russell evidently thinks she has a case. We think she has not."

BABES IN 7TH AVENUE WOODS.

How Susie Dodds Saved the Metz Twins, Who Were Lost.

Policeman Knerran was walking along Seventh Avenue near Thirtieth Street last night when he met a little girl leading two little boys by the hand. They were much bedraggled by the downpour and all three were crying.

"What's the matter?" inquired the policeman. "Are you lost?"

"I ain't," replied the girl, who was the fraction of an inch taller than her companions. "I ain't, but these boys are. I'm Susie Dodds, 7 years old, and I live at 372 West Thirty-third Street. I'm just trying to help the boys find their way home."

"And who are the boys?" asked Knerran.

"We're Valentine and Charlie Metz," they chorused.

"Well, which is Valentine and which is Charlie?" pursued the policeman. "I'm blessed if I could tell you apart."

"They ain't nobody can tell us apart," sobbed the youngsters. "We're twins, 6 years old."

Then Susie took up the story and told in a motherly way how Valentine and Charlie had stopped away from their home to sail make-believe boats down the Seventh Avenue gutter when it rained so hard that the street was awash. The current ran so fast and the water roared so that they lost account of time and distance, until at last they realized they were lost. Then Susie came to the rescue.

Knerran took the children to the station, and Matron Rose Bailey made them dry and comfortable and sent out for good things to eat. After that Susie was sent home and Valentine and Charlie were sent to Police Headquarters to await their parents.

35 YEARS ON BROADWAY.

George H. Neale, Whose Place Was a Landmark at 43d Street, Is Dead.

Broadway has lost one of its well-known characters by the death yesterday morning of George Henry Neale. He was 76 years old, and for thirty-five years had kept the little one-story hat and fur shop at the southeast corner of Broadway and Forty-third Street. He lived in the rooms in the rear of the establishment. In that period he saw a rudely constructed road develop into one of the finest business thoroughfares in the world. The old-fashioned two and three story dwelling houses were transformed into colossal steel and stone structures which towered above his little store.

Mr. Neale was born in New York and never had any desire to leave here. Many years ago a friend lured him to a theatre, but he only sat out the first act and then walked out. He never went again, as he said that theatres had no interest for him. His only recreation was to chat over old times with his neighbors and smoke a mild cigar occasionally. Persons who had lived in the neighborhood years ago would come and talk with the old man. He remembered them all.

On the fine days he would sit at his shop door and gaze at the passing stream of humanity and wonder where they all came from. For the last five years Mr. Neale had been ill and his wife carried on the business. He suffered from rheumatism and deafness, which kept him from waiting on customers.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Neale got up out of bed and said he wanted to breathe the fresh air. He looked out on Broadway for a few minutes and then went back to bed and died. The immediate cause of death was heart failure. The funeral will be held at Woodlawn Cemetery to-morrow.

Mrs. Neale will carry on the business of selling hats and renovating furs as in her husband's lifetime. Mr. Neale was married twice. He had children living by the first marriage, but none by the second.

BADLY HURT WHILE KISSING.

Guerin, Overjoyed at Rejoining Brother, Was Hurled from Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, Oct. 11.—Daniel Guerin of 309 West Forty-eighth Street, New York, was probably mortally injured last night in an automobile accident out in South Orange Township. Guerin was riding in an automobile with his brother, John Guerin, chauffeur for Mrs. George Bliss of Bernardsville, N. J., and, according to John, lost his balance and fell out of the car while he was trying to kiss John. The two had not seen each other for a long time.

"It was just pure brotherly love, nothing else," said John Guerin to-day. "While we were passing through Hilton my brother, who was seated beside me, arose and put his arms around my neck and kissed me. I cautioned him to be careful, for we were going fast. He went to sit down again, and the machine gave a sudden swerve. Daniel pitched out, landing on his head."

The Colorado's Guns Made a Record.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The statement was made at the Navy Department to-day that the armored cruiser Colorado at her first target practice recently made a record with her six-inch guns which had never before been equaled, and was accomplished without derangement of her sights. This is regarded as the more remarkable because it was the first time the Colorado had fired her guns in target practice, and because her gun crews were but newly organized.

A FOOTBALL CONGRESS, SCHURMAN SUGGESTS

Praises Roosevelt for Taking Lead in Effort to Reform Game.

WALTER CAMP'S STATEMENT

Conferees Agreed to Urge Strict Enforcement of Rules—Cornell's Coach Suggests Changes.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, Oct. 11.—Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, made the following statement to-day on President Roosevelt's efforts to bring about reform in football:

"I believe in the retention of the game, but its brutality must be eliminated. The difficulty has been in finding some supreme central authority which could initiate reform with effect.

"President Roosevelt has all the qualifications for such effective initiation. His standing as a college man, his well-known devotion to athletics, his sensible comments on the football situation in his Harvard address, all mark him out as the man to lead in this movement of reform.

"I believe that what he finally recommends will be adopted by college athletes throughout the country. It might perhaps hasten the reformatory movement if a convention of the athletic representatives of the colleges and universities were summond to meet in Washington."

Glenn S. Warner, Cornell's head coach, suggested two changes in the following statement:

"I think a very simple way to fix things would be to allow offside play on all punts; to let the ball be free after kicks, and to increase the distance to be gained in three downs from five to ten yards.

"As far as roughness goes, I think that this element of the game depends largely upon the coaches."

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 11.—Walter Camp, Yale's general athletic adviser, on receiving permission from President Roosevelt, to-night gave out a statement, signed by all the conferees, as follows:

"At a meeting with the President of the United States it was agreed that we consider an honorable obligation exists to carry out in letter and in spirit the rules of the game of football relating to roughness, holding, and foul play, and the active coaches of our universities being present with us pledged themselves to so regard it and to do their utmost to carry out that obligation."

Stuart Wortley, the Artist, Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A. Stuart Wortley, founder and President ever since its foundation of the Society of Portrait Painters, died to-day. He was a brilliant marksman, and twenty years ago met the American crack shot, Dr. Carver, in a match at Hendon, when each dropped 86 out of 100 birds. Mr. Wortley painted many well-known pictures of shooting subjects. He was a pupil of the late Sir John Millais.

PLAGUED BY A DARK MAN.

He Orders Delicacies C. O. D., and Even Funerals for Roosevelt Hospital.

A tall, dark man, dressed in black with a white slouch hat and a belt from which hang two tassels, has been worrying Supt. Grimshaw of Roosevelt Hospital.

The man went into a candy store yesterday morning and ordered fifty boxes of bonbons to be sent to the hospital. Then he ordered fifty boxes of flowers from a florist. He visited a fruiterer, a baker, a wine merchant, and others and left an order with each. All were to be sent to Roosevelt Hospital C. O. D.

When the first half dozen delivery wagons had arrived and departed Supt. Grimshaw telephoned to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station and Capt. Daly sent out detectives.

Late in the afternoon an undertaker's wagon drove up to the hospital and a man sitting with the driver said he had been sent for a body. Mr. Grimshaw told him there had been a mistake. A few minutes later another undertaker's wagon drove up. A light broke in on Mr. Grimshaw.

"Who sent you here?" he asked the driver.

"The boss," was the reply. "I was in the shop when the boss got the order from a dark man with a belt that had two tassels and a white slouch hat—"

"That's enough," cried Mr. Grimshaw, and made another trip to the telephone. "I want that man caught," he yelled, "and I'll prosecute him to the limit."

A general alarm has been sent out.

AUTO RACERS ANGRY AT AMERICAN DRIVERS

Foreigners Complain That White Steamer Blocked the Road.

MORRELL AS PEACEMAKER

Sziss Now Ranks Among Favorites—High Speed Records Doubtful Unless Sun Dries Up Course.

Automobile rivalry "broke out" yesterday on the Vanderbilt course to such an extent that serious international complications were at one time threatened. The trouble arose over what some of the foreign drivers have termed, although not in such polite language, the slow going tactics adopted by some of the American drivers while making practice rounds in the early hours of the morning.

Walter C. White, who drives the only steam car in the contest, was signaled out as "persona non grata" extraordinary to the foreigners, who are so deeply inoculated with the speed virus that an automobile seems useless unless it is reeling off miles at better than a sixty-second clip. White was accused of deliberately obstructing the road so that the speed annihilators could not smash each other's records. More than one Frenchman, and the Italians, too, as they related their woes in excitable language, told how out on the Guinea road, where the driving space is narrow and thick woods hang over on either side, they had seen the White steamer leisurely moving along ahead of them. The foreign machines approached it, the horns tooted, the loudest sibilants were uttered, but all to no avail; there was no room to pass and the procession had to move along at the steam car pace until a wider road was reached.

Sziss, whose name is somewhat expressive of the character of the language employed by the foreign drivers in protesting against this low (?) American act, Duray and the two Italians, Lancia and Nazarre, joined forces yesterday and went in a body to White's headquarters near Lakeville. It was impossible to ascertain exactly what the ultimatum was that the foreign delegation laid down to Mr. White, but in the various garages around the course it was reported later in the day that the threat was made to push White off into the ditch if he refused to make way for the big cars hereafter. It was a stormy meeting, and the language was more picturesque than refined, but verbatim reports are lacking.

This international squabble came to the ears of Chairman Robert Lee Morrell in course of time, and, while no formal protest was made to the head of the cup commission, it was very strongly implied that something ought to be done. Mr. Morrell, therefore, found the rôle of peacemaker thrust upon him. He questioned Mr. White regarding the trouble. The latter disclaimed any intention of purposely holding back the foreign cars, but admitted that certain sections in the back roads are so narrow that it is absolutely impossible for a car to pass the one ahead unless the latter runs off into the ditch or stops. He said he would, as always gave every possible assistance to machines to go by, he stated. Mr. Morrell was inclined to the same view.

Racing Flat was the second most important event of the day. It occurred early in the morning, when Sartori, its driver, was going around the Jericho turn. He had trouble with his transmission and broke his clutch, but started on previously put on the brakes and stopped the car easily. A telephone message was at once sent to the Flat garage near Garden City, and an hour later a big touring car appeared on the scene and towed the crippled racer to the shop, where work began at once repairing it for Saturday's race. The accident is not serious, and the car will probably be in condition for practice over the route this morning.

Lancia made the best time of the morning for a single lap, covering the 28.3 miles in 25 minutes flat. Szisz added to his reputation he has already made as a wonderfully cool and consistent driver by making two rounds in about 26½ minutes each. This included stops of 1½ minutes on each round for getting water and gasoline. Szisz has made a careful study of every possible condition that may arise in the race, and, from a comparatively unknown man ten days ago he has jumped close up to the favorites, Lancia and Hemery.

Foxhall Keene, who is getting his Mercedes admirably tuned up, made two rounds in fast time, 27 and 28 minutes respectively. Jenatzy made one round in 27:30, Nazzare went around in 27:10, Tracy in his Locomobile made his fastest round since practicing on the course, 27 minutes, and one of Walter White's rounds is said to have been equally as fast. The Christie car was driven by Robertson. Dingley watched the racers from his touring car, driving from one turn to another to observe the different methods of making the sharp curves. Wagner, Hemery, and Heath of the French team were out, but were content with conservative rounding.

Warden's cracked cylinders from his German car are in this city, where efforts are being made to repair them sufficiently to hold out through the race. It was impossible to state yesterday if this could be done, but the general impression is that the car will not start.

CHICAGO PRESS CLUB'S VISIT.

Nearly 100 Members Here—Called on President Roosevelt.

Nearly 100 members of the Chicago Press Club, many of them accompanied by their wives, arrived in this city at 9:45 o'clock last night in a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. They went to the Hotel Breslin, where they will remain for three days as guests of the New York Press Club.

The club has mapped out an elaborate programme of entertainment for its guests. This morning they will visit Ellis Island, where they will inspect the immigration depot as guests of the United States Government. In the afternoon they will visit Blackwell's Island. To-night they will be entertained at a banquet at the Press Club. To-morrow they will go sight seeing in automobiles in the forenoon, and at noon will be received by Mayor McClellan at the City Hall. On Saturday they will visit the United States Military Academy at West Point. They start for home on Saturday night.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—President Roosevelt at noon to-day received a large delegation from the Chicago Press Club at the White House. Opie Read, who headed the delegation, introduced the members to the President as representatives of "that intellectual democracy, the Press Club of Chicago." He also said nice things about Mr. Roosevelt. The President responded briefly.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

WHEAT.—Speculative trade in wheat broadened out considerably yesterday, and the market had an advance of 1¼ to 1½c, mostly based on an improved cash demand both for domestic and export account, an advance of ½d at Liverpool, and more bullish home statistics. Sales of about 23 loads were reported on export account at various ports, while some dispatches noted a good export demand also for flour. Winnipeg dispatches, besides reporting prices up 2c a bushel since Monday, called attention to liberal export transactions. Clearances also picked up a good deal, the exports of flour being 49,000 barrels from seaboard points, and of wheat 240,000 bushels. Owing to receipts of only 605 cars at Northwest points the interior movement was 200,000 bushels smaller than last year, while leading bull interest at Chicago supported the market at times, and was also credited with selling considerable wheat on the bulges, although this was denied by the principal bull operator. The market advanced steadily throughout the day, closing at about the top. There was further gossip about the shortage of foodstuffs in Russia, which added to the bullish feeling on this side. Outside markets were all higher, and the Southwest bought considerable wheat at Chicago. Although the visible, according to Bradstreet's, showed an increase for the week of 9,249,000 bushels, it had little effect as a bear influence, owing to the fact that in the corresponding week last year there was an increase of 3,196,000 bushels. The Minneapolis stock of wheat has increased thus far for the week 900,000 bushels. Continental markets were not so buoyant as Liverpool, although the Continent was reported a strong buyer of wheat at the former point. Paris closed 5 points higher, Berlin ¼ mark lower, and Budapest 8 points down. Cash wheat was firm in New York, with No. 2 red 90¾c elevator and 91¾c free on board afloat. No. 1 Northern, Duluth, 91⅝c, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, 93¾c, free on board afloat.

CORN.—The corn market was steady up to the last hour, without much change, but suddenly turned strong on a scare of shorts, and closed here ⅝ to ¾c net higher on the leading options. The frost in Western States did not appear to have much weight as a bull factor, as corn is pretty well beyond the danger line, but the export business of 55 loads all ports, clearances of 400,000 bushels, receipts of 250,000 bushels, and the estimates of only 118 cars at Chicago for Thursday brought out a line of buying that quickly absorbed all the corn for sale.

COTTON.—Reports of frost in northwestern sections of the belt on Tuesday night, and predictions for frosts in exposed portions of the cotton belt and in parts of Arkansas and Mississippi, caused a good deal of covering yesterday, and the market had quite a sharp advance during the middle session, with prices at one time showing a recovery from lowest point of Monday of about 38 points. Yielding to realizing later, the market closed barely steady as a net gain of only 5@8 points. Sales were estimated at about 350,000 bales.

Liverpool was away above expectations, being influenced, apparently, by the frost talk. The local market opened 8@12 points higher in response, and worked up another point or two on the active months on covering and commission house demand. But local professionals had bought in freely on the cold weather, and as temperatures low enough to kill were only reported from two or three points in the territories, expectations that the cold snap would be followed by more seasonable weather caused considerable realizing and some fresh selling for short account. The market consequently reacted to within 1@2 points of last night's finals, but around midday was rallied again by the forecase pointing toward continued cold weather and further demand through wire and commission houses. Advancing to a net gain of about 15@16 points, the market attracted realizing by early buyers, and toward the close the gain was cut down about one-half.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c higher, generally higher, and the local spot situation was firm, with sales of 500 bales. Receipts for the day were heavy, but the estimated receipts for Houston to-day showed a considerable falling off. Galveston will be heard from by private wires regarding a firmer tone among holders.

Bids for the assets, which consist of two bakeries, at 91 Clinton Street and 40 Clinton Street, and a liquor saloon at 67 Riverdale Av., and two horses and wagons, all at Yonkers, N. Y., must be made by sending sealed bids to Henry M. Baird, Jr., 61 Warburton Av., Yonkers, N. Y., and 10% in cash or certified check must accompany each bid, and no bid will be accepted unless it equals the appraised value of the property; bids for each store separately will be acceptable. If no bid is accepted on the 13th, then the said assets will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, under the rules of this Court, on the 16th day of October, 1905, at 11:00 A. M. The stores will be sold separately. Sale of the liquor saloon will be held first at 67 Riverdale Av., and to be sold free and clear of all chattel mortgages; also to include the lease and license to the said premises.
If the sale does not bring a satisfactory price when sold in the above manner, the said property will be sold to the highest bidder, subject to a chattel mortgage, covering the fixtures, &c., held by the Ebling Brewing Co. amounting to $1,100. If enough is not realized, then all the right, title, and interest of the bankrupts in and to the property, lease and fixtures covered by the chattel mortgage, will be sold to the highest bidder; the assets not covered by the chattel mortgage will also be sold in lots to the highest bidders.
The two bakeries are free and clear of all incumbrances, liens, etc., of every kind and nature and will be sold separately, including the good will and leaseholds.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11.—Gottlieb-Bauernschmidt-Straus Brewing Company income bonds were the feature of the trading today. After the price reached 33 for an advance of a point the supply became liberal and the price sagged off until the closing, when it strengthened again.

The demand for Seaboard stocks was active and all the classes of the new issue advanced fractionally. Cotton Duck 5s which were attacked by a bearish room trader, recovered ½.

Atlantic Coast Line of Connecticut new 4s certificates sold ¼ higher, Charleston Consolidated Electric 5s sold down ½. After the recess the trading switched from Gottlieb - Bauernschmidt - Straus Brewing incomes to Seaboard securities. On the down grade Seaboard new first preferred rose to 90¾ and then ran off to 89½; Seaboard new common receded ¼, Seaboard new second preferred declined ⅝. American Bonding advanced 5 points. The close was dull and steady.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Break—Call Money Rates, 5@6 Per Cent.

Market Advances, Then Breaks—Mr. Vanderlip's Address the Factor—Demand Sterling Rises Sharply.

Stock market movements yesterday were influenced almost wholly by preconceptions of Mr. Vanderlip's address to the bankers' association in session at Washington, and by the actual terms of that address as it came over the wires to Wall Street. An extravagant and ill-founded notion existed in speculative circles early in the day that the tenor of Mr. Vanderlip's remarks would be unusually optimistic, and acting on this assumption there was rather excited upbidding of prices throughout the list, with the result that active issues at midday were a point or more above the closing quotations on Tuesday. This movement was helped by moderately heavy purchases by London, where American shares sued higher at our opening. With the publication of the address it was found how unjustifiable had been the earlier and exaggerated conception of its trend and the speculators who had grounded their hopes upon it at once sought to dispose of their stocks. The declines which followed not only erased previous gains but substituted for them losses running from 1 to 2 points in the active stocks, while breaks of from 3 to 5 points occurred in high priced shares and specialties.

Mr. Vanderlip's periodical public utterances on business conditions and on the stock market position are received with deference by the financial community owing to their innate soundness and to the belief that they represent, naturally, the views of his business associates as well as his personal opinions. It is a matter of deepest interest that in the present instance opportunity was found to point out not only the exceptionally sound position of the country's business interests, but also to indicate how easily these interests might be jeopardized if, to quote the address, "a stock market speculation should start from the present high level of prices, in the face of the extraordinary demand for capital and money which crops and business alike are making." The hazard which existed in such a concurrence had been reasonably clear to every one, seemingly, save speculative interests, and Mr. Vanderlip's warning may now carry conviction to them.

The day's further developments included a rise of 25 points in demand sterling, which at the quoted rate of 4.8565 seems to preclude gold engagements for the moment, at least. Working toward the same end were the advances of ¼ per cent. in discount rates at Paris and Berlin, this marking the highest quotation of the year in the Berlin money market. The banks again fared well in their operations with the Sub-Treasury, adding only a trifling amount to the moderate loss sustained thus far in the week. The bulk of the day's loans was made on a basis of little more than 5 per cent., but late in the market session rates advanced to the highest point touched, where heretofore they have eased off at the end of the day. Pacific Coast Company Directors, having before them the annual report showing substantial increase in net earnings, advanced the quarterly dividend on the company's common stock ¼ of 1 per cent., thus placing the issue on a 6 per cent. basis. The Western Union Telegraph Company reported a decrease of some $700,000 in net revenue for the year, but, as this was due in part directly and in part indirectly to the abandonment of the company's racing news service, stockholders are not apt to complain.

INCREASES ITS DIVIDENDS.

Pacific Coast Company's Common and Second Preferred Pay 6 Per Cent.

The Directors of the Pacific Coast Company, at their meeting yesterday, following the annual meeting of the stockholders, declared increased dividends on the company's second preferred and common stocks, and the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the first preferred. The dividend declared on the common and second preferred was 1½ per cent., an increase of one-quarter of 1 per cent. over the previous quarterly declaration. Thus these two issues are advanced from a 5 per cent. to a 6 per cent. annual rate. All the dividends are payable Nov. 1.

The report of the company for the fiscal year ended June 30 last showed gross earnings of $6,199,275, an increase of $296,303 over the previous year. The operating expenses were $4,886,160, an increase of $148,217, and the net earnings $1,313,115, an increase of $148,086. The increase in gross was divided equally between operating expenses and net earnings. The sum of $430,217 was expended on repairs of the company's fleet. In 1904, $403,929 was expended for the same purposes.

The stockholders re-elected the retiring members of the Board of Directors. The Directors elected James N. Hill, Vice President of the Northern Pacific Railway, a Director of the Pacific Coast Company, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Daniel S. Lamont. The board also recorded an expression of its sorrow at Mr. Lamont's death.

SURFACE LINE LOSSES DUE MOSTLY TO SNOW

Too Early to Tell the Effect of the Subway, Vreeland Says.

GAIN IN SUMMER MONTHS

City Railway Company Making Up in Short Hauls What It Lost in Long.

President Vreeland of the New York City Railway Company, in his annual report to the stockholders, made public yesterday, says it is still too early to reach a definite conclusion in regard to the ultimate effect of subway travel upon the earnings of the surface lines. The decrease in the company's gross earnings amounting to $596,881, according to the figures published some days ago, is attributed by President Vreeland to the unfavorable weather conditions of last Winter. The cost of removing the snow from the company's lines, owing to the very heavy fall, was $119,824 more last year than the year before.

The loss in gross earnings for the fiscal year was accounted for almost entirely by the smaller earnings in the Winter months. The decrease for December, January, and February amounted to $544,845.

The statement of income for the year shows a deficit of $2,796,942 from operation. It is pointed out that this deficit will be further increased by the special franchise tax. Concerning this President Vreeland says:

"The company's appeal to the United States Supreme Court involving the constitutionality of the special franchise tax law has been decided adversely to the company, and the constitutionality of the law upheld. Proceedings are now pending to secure reductions in the special franchise assessments for every year subsequent to 1900, and it is expected that very substantial reductions in the original assessments will be secured."

In regard to the effect of the opening of the Subway upon the New York City Railway's earnings President Vreeland says:

"While the Subway service inaugurated Oct. 27, 1904, together with the unfavorable weather conditions which prevailed during the Winter, materially affected the receipts from passengers for a few months, it became apparent by March of 1905 that the traffic was becoming adjusted to the new conditions, and that a considerable additional short-haul traffic was being developed which would, partially make up for the long-haul business lost to the Subway. During June, July, and August of this year the receipts from passengers have shown a substantial increase over those of the corresponding months of last year, when there was no Subway competition. It is too early to reach definite conclusions as to the ultimate effect of Subway travel upon the earnings of the surface lines."

The general balance sheet of the company as of June 30 last gives the deficit carried in the profit and loss account as $782,585. It is explained that it is the policy of the company to charge "profit and loss" each year with the net deficits of its controlled companies and to credit the amount to the "reserve" account. The report says that for this reason it is necessary, in order to arrive at the net profit and loss of the system as a whole, to eliminate these duplicate charges.

In regard to the year's fixed charges this statement is made:

"The fixed charges include the first full year's charge of the guaranteed annual rental of 5 per cent. paid to the Third Avenue Railroad Company stockholders, as compared with but two months and seventeen days of this rental accrued during the previous year. This, together with interest on notes of the Central Crosstown Railroad Company, and bonds of the Third Avenue Railroad and Second Avenue Railroad Companies, issued for construction purposes, accounts for the increase in the fixed charges."

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—There was rather free realizing in this market today, especially in Reading, United States Steel common, Erie, and Lehigh Valley, the result being a sharp setback in prices.

The movement was in sympathy with New York, more than to the words of caution uttered in Washington by Mr. Vanderlip. Prior to the break in New York the local demand for stocks had come largely from commission houses, which had begun to feel the effects of the market's continued firmness. These buyers, however, were easily scared, and at the first sign of weakness threw their holdings overboard. The purely local stocks did not respond much to the decline because of dullness. It is understood here that the Lehigh Valley Directors' meeting on Friday will be to ratify the purchase of the Coxe Brothers & Co.'s anthracite interests. Total sales, 49,036 shares.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—New York exchange was at par. Time and call loans 4@5 per cent.

There was a quiet session in stocks on the local Exchange. Boxboard preferred showed slight irregularity around 14¼ down to 13½ during the morning. Swift's eased fractionally below 108, Western Stone sold at 36½, Northwestern Elevated common went at 24, and the preferred at 65. Biscuit issues were firm.

Subway shares sold off to 54½. A. G. Wheeler was called to New York to-day and at once the Street began to wonder if the journey had anything to do with the reported conflict of powers in the affairs of the Subway.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Anything by which a considerable number of persons are influenced either to buy or sell stocks has its consequence in the market, and those who remain uninfluenced or who deplore the effect may only say that the movement is irrational. As a Vice President of the National City Bank, Mr. Vanderlip has made several very timely and prophetic speeches, and Wall Street, with its fondness for subtle conclusions, has apparently made up its mind to take his prearranged utterances with an ulterior meaning. This cannot be helped, under the circumstances, because speculators are free to put what construction they will on utterances, and bankers now and then are called upon to make speeches. The curious phase of yesterday's attempt to anticipate the stock market effect of Mr. Vanderlip's speech was that nearly everybody went wrong on it. The impression, somehow, prevailed that the speech would be very bullish from a speculator's point of view, and all forenoon traders bought stocks with that idea. The speech was "released" at 1 o'clock, and its chilling references to speculation were so unexpected that all who had bought stocks in anticipation of something quite different unloaded hastily.

***

The declaration in Mr. Vanderlip's speech most disconcerting to the bull element referred to the unwisdom of trying to start a speculation from the present high level of prices, with so many other urgent demands for the money that would be needed to finance such a movement. Bull speculation has been running very largely to high-priced stocks. It is a question not of starting a speculation from this level of prices, but of continuing an unfinished speculation which began with cheap money. The speculator is notoriously impatient. He is prone to argue that if prices cannot go up they must go down.

***

The bull crowd made an aggressive demonstration in the forenoon. Advances of ¼ to 1 per cent. had occurred in the American quarter of the London market overnight, and the movement was continued here with an appearance of ease which was as disconcerting to the bear element as the subsequent decline must have been to the bull crowd. The extreme advance in London had taken place in Union Pacific, which was quoted 1 per cent. over New York parity, and it was the stock most favored in the speculative buying of the first hour. The trading element seemed suddenly possessed with a great enthusiasm for it, and the price advanced to 133¾, with London buying heavily and no great quantity of stock in sight. From this high figure the stock subsequently declined 2½ points. Along with Union Pacific, Southern Pacific was advanced in the forenoon to 70¼. It broke two points. These were by no means the most severe reactions. From the high prices of the forenoon there were numerous declines of 1½ to 2½ per cent.

***

Perhaps the most prominent feature of the market in the forenoon was the strength of the coal stocks as a group. Lackawanna, in which there is little or no speculation, advanced 28 points to a new high record price. Delaware and Hudson advanced 3½ points, to 222¾, on a rumor that the New York Central would guarantee 10 per cent. on the stock, and afterward declined to 118. It closed at 119, showing a net loss of one-quarter of 1 per cent. Of the speculative coalers Reading and Erie were the most prominent. Reading advanced on aggressive buying to 123¾, and subsequently fell back 3 points. Erie common advanced in the forenoon to 50 and closed at 48⅝.

***

The decline, which began at 1 o'clock and continued with scarcely an interruption to the closing of the market, was distinguished from any previous reaction of the recent past by the continuous pressure of stocks. It was a poor market on which to sell stocks. The support was far from what might reasonably have been expected after the demonstration which had been made by the bull crowd in the forenoon. Brokers all agreed in saying that in the selling after 1 o'clock there was more genuine liquidation of long holdings than they had seen for weeks. In the last hour there was a feeble sort of recovery, due to short covering, but the pressure was unrelieved and the selling continued right up to the end, so that most of the active stocks closed at or near the lowest eighths of the day. It was the most formidable selling movement that had occurred for some weeks, and the market withstood it poorly. The selling was fairly general. The heaviest selling coming from any one house was probably that of Pell & Co. It covered pretty nearly the whole active list.

***

***

Certain banking interests are beginning to feel a little dubious about the amount of money that is being borrowed by pools to finance operations in so-called specialties, principally industrial specialties, some of which have already been advanced to prices at which banks lend money on them a little reluctantly.

***

To a friend who had asked him for his opinion of the market, a broker of the older school said: "I can best express my opinion by telling you a story. It happened long before your time in Wall Street. It was when we used to trade in gold. There were no tickers. Brokers brought in quotations on little slips of paper as the curb fellows do to-day. Joseph Mills, who was a very shrewd old customer, asked for a quotation on gold. It was quoted at 51¼ bid, offered at 51⅝, and to the broker who brought in that quotation Mills said: 'Sell a million for me at 51⅛.' The broker went away with the order and was gone a long time. Other brokers came in quoting gold at 51¼@51⅝, but no report from the broker having the order to sell a million at ⅛. Mills at length became impatient and sent for him. 'Why haven't you sold that gold?' he asked. 'Why, Mr. Mills,' the broker said, 'the very best houses in the Street are bidding ½ for gold. That's why I haven't sold it.' 'You fool!' said Mills. 'Do you want to wait until the very best houses in the Street are offering it at a half.'"

***

***

Brokers are beginning to complain more generally that the insurance investigation is keeping people out of the market and hurting the commission business. The adverse effect of the Equitable disclosures upon the market, or, rather, upon public sentiment, was not conceded in Wall Street until that affair was pretty well advanced.

***

The story from Milwaukee of a transcontinental alliance between the Erie and the Great Northern, connecting by means of the Wisconsin Central, was perhaps as effective in the market as could have been desired. Both Erie and Wisconsin Central advanced sharply on it. Wall Street, however, did not take it too seriously. It was not believed possible that anything more would be unloaded so soon up

NEW TELEPHONE ISSUE.

Plan to Increase New York and New Jersey Capital to $50,000,000.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company on Oct. 25 the proposal to increase the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000 will be voted upon. This announcement, coming close upon the heels of the formation of a new telephone company, seemed to be a result of the appearance of a new competitor, but an officer of the New York and New Jersey Company denied yesterday that it was a case of cause and effect reversed.

It is certain that only a part of the additional $35,000,000 capital stock authorized will be issued; at the present time only $13,770,100 of the authorized $15,000,000 is outstanding. How much will be issued has not been decided. The reason for the increase is said to be the rapid development in business and the resulting necessity for large additions to the plant.

Large stock interests in the company are held by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the New York Telephone Company. Charles F. Cutler is Chairman of the board of the New York Telephone Company and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. The latter is sole licensee of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Brooklyn, all of Long Island, Staten Island, and ten counties in New Jersey.

BANK OF ENGLAND RATE.

Rise Not Expected To-day, But Is Likely to be Necessary Soon.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Times in its City article to-morrow will say:

"A rise in the Bank of England's rate is not probable to-day, but it is becoming more and more evident that the forces tending to raise the value of money in all centres of the world's business are very strong, and that nothing but prudence and good management can save us from a further rise in the official minimum, though there is still a possibility that it may not be needed."

NEW 'FRISCO-GULF ROUTE.

Santa Fe to Build Connections Giving Shorter Line.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—E. P. Ripley, President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway, has decided to build a new road to give San Francisco another and shorter rail route to Galveston. The Gulf, Santa Fé and Northwestern Railway has been incorporated to build 350 miles of road from Brownwood northwest to Texico, on the Texas-New Mexico boundary.

Texico is on the North and South Pecos Valley line of the Santa Fé. From Texico to Rio Puerco, on the Santa Fé and California Overland line, thirty miles west of Albuquerque, the distance is 275 miles, and a road is being built there by the Eastern New Mexico Railway, a Santa Fé company.

IRON OUTPUT LARGER.

The production of pig iron in September showed an increase over the output in August according to the figures compiled by The Iron Age. That paper says in its issue of to-day:

Our monthly blast furnace returns show that production in September in spite of the fact that it was a short month was 1,898,873 gross tons, as compared with 1,843,673 gross tons in August and 1,741,935 tons in July. TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11.—Gottlieb-Bauernschmidt-Straus Brewing Company income bonds were the feature of the trading today. After the price reached 33 for an advance of a point the supply became liberal and the price sagged off until the closing, when it strengthened again.

The demand for Seaboard stocks was active and all the classes of the new issue advanced fractionally. Cotton Duck 5s which were attacked by a bearish room trader, recovered ½.

Atlantic Coast Line of Connecticut new 4s certificates sold ¼ higher, Charleston Consolidated Electric 5s sold down ½. After the recess the trading switched from Gottlieb-Bauernschmidt-Straus Brewing incomes to Seaboard securities. On the down grade Seaboard new first preferred rose to 90½ and then ran off to 89½; Seaboard new common receded ¼, Seaboard new second preferred declined ⅝. American Bonding advanced 5 points. The close was dull and steady.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Break—Call Money Rates, 5@6 Per Cent.

Market Advances, Then Breaks—Mr. Vanderlip's Address the Factor—Demand Sterling Rises Sharply.

Stock market movements yesterday were influenced almost wholly by preconceptions of Mr. Vanderlip's address to the bankers' association in session at Washington, and by the actual terms of that address as it came over the wires to Wall Street. An extravagant and ill-founded notion existed in speculative circles early in the day that the tenor of Mr. Vanderlip's remarks would be unusually optimistic, and acting on this assumption there was rather excited upbidding of prices throughout the list, with the result that active issues at midday were a point or more above the closing quotations on Tuesday. This movement was helped by moderately heavy purchases by London, where American shares ruled higher at our opening. With the publication of the address it was found how unjustifiable had been the earlier and exaggerated conception of its trend and the speculators who had grounded their hopes upon it at once sought to dispose of their stocks. The declines which followed not only erased previous gains but substituted for them losses running from 1 to 2 points in the active stocks, while breaks of from 3 to 5 points occurred in high priced shares and specialties.

Mr. Vanderlip's periodical public utterances on business conditions and on the stock market position are received with deference by the financial community owing to their innate soundness and to the belief that they represent, naturally, the views of his business associates as well as his personal opinions. It is a matter of deepest interest that in the present instance opportunity was found to point out not only the exceptionally sound position of the country's business interests, but also to indicate how easily these interests might be jeopardized if, to quote the address, "a stock market speculation should start from the present high level of prices, in the face of the extraordinary demand for capital and money which crops and business alike are making." The hazard which existed in such a concurrence had been reasonably clear to every one, seemingly, save speculative interests, and Mr. Vanderlip's warning may now carry conviction to them.

The day's further developments included a rise of 25 points in demand sterling, which at the quoted rate of 4.8565 seems to preclude gold engagements for the moment, at least. Working toward the same end were the advances of ¼ per cent. in discount rates at Paris and Berlin, this marking the highest quotation of the year in the Berlin money market. The banks again fared well in their operations with the Sub-Treasury, adding only a trifling amount to the moderate loss sustained thus far in the week. The bulk of the day's loans was made on a basis of little more than 5 per cent., but late in the market session rates advanced to the highest point touched, where heretofore they have eased off at the end of the day. Pacific Coast Company Directors, having before them the annual report showing substantial increase in net earnings, advanced the quarterly dividend on the company's common stock ¼ of 1 per cent., thus placing the issue on a 6 per cent. basis. The Western Union Telegraph Company reported a decrease of some $700,000 in net revenue for the year, but, as this was due in part directly and in part indirectly to the abandonment of the company's racing news service, stockholders are not apt to complain.

INCREASES ITS DIVIDENDS.

Pacific Coast Company's Common and Second Preferred Pay 6 Per Cent.

The Directors of the Pacific Coast Company, at their meeting yesterday, following the annual meeting of the stockholders, declared increased dividends on the company's second preferred and common stocks, and the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the first preferred. The dividend declared on the common and second preferred was 1½ per cent., an increase of one-quarter of 1 per cent. over the previous quarterly declaration. Thus these two issues are advanced from a 5 per cent. to a 6 per cent. annual rate. All the dividends are payable Nov. 1.

The report of the company for the fiscal year ended June 30 last showed gross earnings of $6,196,275, an increase of $296,303 over the previous year. The operating expenses were $4,866,160, an increase of $148,217, and the net earnings $1,333,115, an increase of $148,086. The increase in gross was divided equally between operating expenses and net earnings. The sum of $430,217 was expended on repairs of the company's fleet. In 1904, $403,929 was expended for the same purposes.

The stockholders re-elected the retiring members of the Board of Directors. The Directors elected James N. Hill, Vice President of the Northern Pacific Railway, a Director of the Pacific Coast Company, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Daniel S. Lamont. The board also recorded an expression of its sorrow at Mr. Lamont's death.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Supplies of money were more plentiful in the market to-day and rates were easier on the condition of Continental exchanges. Discounts were fairly steady.

Operators on the Stock Exchange were occupied with the carry-over. Trading was inactive, but prices maintained yesterday's improvement. The monetary position was considered to be less menacing. Consols hardened, but closed below the best quotations of the day.

Americans opened irregular and moved to slightly over parity, reflecting the improved tone in other sections. They were steadily supported. Union Pacific was prominent and United States Steel was firm. Prices closed generally steady.

Canadian Pacific was buoyant and Grand Trunk was sympathetically firm, being helped by the traffic increase.

Bar silver steady at 28 7-16d. per ounce.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 28.37; Lisbon, 4.50.

SURFACE LINE LOSSES DUE MOSTLY TO SNOW

Too Early to Tell the Effect of the Subway, Vreeland Says.

City Railway Company Making Up In Short Hauls What It Lost in Long.

President Vreeland of the New York City Railway Company, in his annual report to the stockholders, made public yesterday, says it is still too early to reach a definite conclusion in regard to the ultimate effect of subway travel upon the earnings of the surface lines. The decrease in the company's gross earnings amounting to $596,881, according to the figures published some days ago, is attributed by President Vreeland to the unfavorable weather conditions of last winter. The cost of removing the snow from the company's lines, owing to the very heavy fall, was $119,824 more last year than the year before.

The loss in gross earnings for the fiscal year was accounted for almost entirely by the smaller earnings in the Winter months. The decrease for December, January, and February amounted to $544,845.

The statement of income for the year shows a deficit of $2,796,942 from operation. It is pointed out that this deficit will be further increased by the special franchise tax. Concerning this President Vreeland says:

"The company's appeal to the United States Supreme Court involving the constitutionality of the special franchise tax law has been decided adversely to the company, and the constitutionality of the law upheld. Proceedings are now pending to secure reductions in the special franchise assessments for every year subsequent to 1900, and it is expected that very substantial reductions in the original assessments will be secured."

In regard to the effect of the opening of the Subway upon the New York City Railway's earnings President Vreeland says:

"While the Subway service inaugurated Oct. 27, 1904, together with the unfavorable weather conditions which prevailed during the Winter, materially affected the receipts from passengers for a few months, it became apparent by March of 1905 that the traffic was becoming adjusted to the new conditions, and that a considerable additional short-haul traffic was being developed which would, partially at least, make up for the long-haul business lost to the Subway. During June, July, and August of this year the receipts from passengers have shown a substantial increase over those of the corresponding months of last year, when there was no Subway competition. It is too early to reach definite conclusions as to the ultimate effect of Subway travel upon the earnings of the surface lines."

The general balance sheet of the company as of June 30 last gives the deficit carried in the profit and loss account as $782,585. It is explained that it is the policy of the company to charge "profit and loss" each year with the net deficits of its controlled companies and to credit the amount to the "reserve" account. The report says that for this reason it is necessary, in order to arrive at the net profit and loss of the system as a whole, to eliminate these duplicate charges.

In regard to the year's fixed charges this statement is made:

"The fixed charges include the first full year's charge of the guaranteed annual rental of 5 per cent. paid to the Third Avenue Railroad Company stockholders, as compared with but nine months and seventeen days of this rental accrued during the previous year. This, together with interest on notes of the Central Crosstown Railroad Company, and bonds of the Third Avenue Railroad and Second Avenue Railroad Companies, issued for construction purposes, accounts for the increase in the fixed charges."

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—There was rather free realizing in this market today, especially in Reading, United States Steel common, Erie, and Lehigh Valley, the result being a sharp setback in prices.

The movement was in sympathy with New York, more than to the words of caution uttered in Washington by Mr. Vanderlip. Prior to the break in New York the local demand for stocks had come largely from commission houses, which had begun to feel the effects of the market's continued firmness. These buyers, however, were easily scared, and at the first sign of weakness threw their holdings overboard. The purely local stocks did not respond much to the decline because of dullness. It is understood here that the Lehigh Valley Directors' meeting on Friday will be to ratify the purchase of the Coxe Brothers & Co.'s anthracite interests. Total sales, 49,036 shares.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—New York exchange was at par. Time and call loans 4@5 per cent.

There was a quiet session in stocks on the local Exchange. Boxboard preferred showed slight irregularity around 14¾ down to 13½ during the morning. Swift's eased fractionally below 108, Western Stone sold at 36½, Northwestern Elevated common went at 24, and the preferred at 65. Biscuit issues were firm.

Subway shares sold off to 54½. A. G. Wheeler was called to New York to-day and at once the Street began to wonder if the journey had anything to do with the reported conferment of powers in the affairs of the Subway.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Anything by which a considerable number of persons are influenced either to buy or sell stocks has its consequence in the market, and those who remain uninfluenced or who deplore the effect may only say that the movement is irrational. As a Vice President of the National City Bank, Mr. Vanderlip has made several very timely and prophetic speeches, and Wall Street, with its fondness for subtle conclusions, has apparently made up its mind to take his prearranged utterances with an ulterior meaning. This cannot be helped, under the circumstances, because speculators are free to put what construction they will on utterances, and bankers now and then are called upon to make speeches. The curious phase of yesterday's attempt to anticipate the stock market effect of Mr. Vanderlip's speech was that nearly everybody went wrong on it. The impression, somehow, prevailed that the speech would be very bullish from a speculator's point of view, and all forenoon traders bought stocks with that idea. The speech was "released" at 1 o'clock, and its chilling references to speculation were so unexpected that all who had bought stocks in anticipation of something quite different unloaded hastily.

***

The declaration in Mr. Vanderlip's speech most disconcerting to the bull element referred to the unwisdom of trying to start a speculation from the present high level of prices, with so many other urgent demands for the money that would be needed to finance such a movement. Bull speculation has been running very largely to high-priced stocks. It is a question not of starting a speculation from this level of prices, but of continuing an unfinished speculation which began with cheap money. The speculator is notoriously impatient. He is prone to argue that if prices cannot go up they must go down.

***

The bull crowd made an aggressive demonstration in the forenoon. Advances of ¼ to 1 per cent. had occurred in the American quarter of the London market overnight, and the movement was continued here with an appearance of ease which was as disconcerting to the bear element as the subsequent decline must have been to the bull crowd. The extreme advance in London had taken place in Union Pacific, which was quoted 1 per cent. over New York parity, and it was the stock most favored in the speculative buying of the first hour. The trading element seemed suddenly possessed with a great enthusiasm for it, and the price advanced to 133⅜, with London buying heavily and no great quantity of stock in sight. From this high figure the stock subsequently declined 2½ points. Along with Union Pacific, Southern Pacific was advanced in the forenoon to 70¼. It broke two points. These were by no means the most severe reactions. From the high prices of the forenoon there were numerous declines of 1½ to 2½ per cent.

***

Perhaps the most prominent feature of the market in the forenoon was the strength of the coal stocks as a group. Lackawanna, in which there is little or no speculation, advanced 28 points to a new high record price. Delaware and Hudson advanced 3½ points, to 222¾, on a rumor that the New York Central would guarantee 10 per cent. on the stock, and afterward declined to 118. It closed at 119, showing a net loss of one-quarter of 1 per cent. Of the speculative coalers Reading and Erie were the most prominent. Reading advanced on aggressive buying to 123¾, and subsequently fell back 3 points. Erie common advanced in the forenoon to 50 and closed at 48⅝.

***

The decline, which began at 1 o'clock and continued with scarcely an interruption to the closing of the market, was distinguished from any previous reaction of the recent past by the continuous pressure of stocks. It was a poor market on which to sell stocks. The support was far from what might reasonably have been expected after the demonstration which had been made by the bull crowd in the forenoon. Brokers all agreed in saying that in the selling after 1 o'clock there was more genuine liquidation of long holdings than they had seen for weeks. In the last hour there was a feeble sort of recovery, due to short covering, but the pressure was unrelieved and the selling continued right up to the end, so that most of the active stocks closed at or near the lowest eighths of the day. It was the most formidable selling movement that had occurred for some weeks, and the market withstood it poorly. The selling was fairly general. The heaviest selling coming from any one house was probably that of Pell & Co. It covered pretty nearly the whole active list.

***

Great Northern closed at a decline of 6¾ points from the high quotation made in Tuesday's session on the announcement of the new stock issue.

***

Certain banking interests are beginning to feel a little dubious about the amount of money that is being borrowed by pools to finance operations in so-called specialties, principally industrial specialties, some of which have already been advanced to prices at which banks lend money on them a little reluctantly.

***

To a friend who had asked him for his opinion of the market, a broker of the older school said: "I can best express my opinion by telling you a story. It happened long before your time in Wall Street. It was when we used to trade in gold. There were no tickers. Brokers brought in quotations on little slips of paper as the curb fellows do to-day. Joseph Mills, who was a very shrewd old customer, asked for a quotation on gold. It was quoted at 51½ bid, offered at 51⅝, and to the broker who brought in that quotation Mills said: 'Sell a million for me at 51½.' The broker went away with the order and was gone a long time. Other brokers came in quoting gold at 51⅛@51⅜, but no report from the broker having the order to sell a million at ½. Mills at length became impatient and sent for him. 'Why haven't you sold that gold?' he asked. 'Why, Mr. Mills,' the broker said, 'the very best houses in the Street are bidding ½ for gold. That's why I haven't sold it.' 'You fool!' said Mills. 'Do you want to wait until the very best houses in the Street are offering it at a half.'"

***

Bullish inspiration on the market has been coming chiefly from the Morgan leadership.

***

Brokers are beginning to complain more generally that the insurance investigation is keeping people out of the market and hurting the commission business. The adverse effect of the Equitable disclosures upon the market, or, rather, upon public sentiment, was not conceded in Wall Street until that affair was pretty well advanced.

***

The story from Milwaukee of a transcontinental alliance between the Erie and the Great Northern, connecting by means of the Wisconsin Central, was perhaps as effective in the market as could have been desired. Both Erie and Wisconsin Central advanced sharply on it. Wall Street, however, did not take it too seriously. It was not believed possible that anything more would be unloaded so soon upon the Erie.

***

The recovery of prices which culminated so very abruptly at 1 o'clock yesterday must have been unprofitable to those who engineered it. The demonstration made in the forenoon yesterday must have been particularly so, for the market fell away so sharply when the selling movement began that there was a very poor market for stocks. The violence of the decline was rather surprising, inasmuch as the only thing to which the selling could be directly attributed was the Vanderlip speech. The bull account must have been more sensitive than Wall Street has supposed. One th

NEW TELEPHONE ISSUE.

Plan to Increase New York and New Jersey Capital to $50,000,000.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company on Oct. 25 the proposal to increase the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000 will be voted upon. This announcement, coming close upon the heels of the formation of a new telephone company, seemed to be a result of the appearance of a new competitor, but an officer of the New York and New Jersey Company denied yesterday that it was a case of cause and effect reversed.

It is certain that only a part of the additional $35,000,000 capital stock authorized will be issued; at the present time only $13,770,100 of the authorized $15,000,000 is outstanding. How much will be issued has not been decided. The reason for the increase is said to be the rapid development in business and the resulting necessity for large additions to the plant.

Large stock interests in the company are held by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the New York Telephone Company. Charles F. Cutler is Chairman of the board of the New York Telephone Company and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. The latter is sole licensee of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for Brooklyn, all of Long Island, Staten Island, and ten counties in New Jersey.

Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Times in its City article to-morrow will say:

"A rise in the Bank of England's rate is not probable to-day, but it is becoming more and more evident that the forces tending to raise the value of money in all centres of the world's business are very strong, and that nothing but prudence and good management can save us from a further rise in the official minimum, though there is still a possibility that it may not be needed."

THE ART OF PUBLIC SPEAKING

thoroughly and practically taught from the beginning to the highest perfection of the art by EDWIN GORDON LAWRENCE, 39 West 42d St. Circular on application.

(From the Late Hon. George F. Hoar, United States Senator from Massachusetts.)

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 21, 1901.

EDWIN G. LAWRENCE, Esq., New York.

My Dear Mr. Lawrence:

Your suggestions and rules seem to me extremely wise and valuable. You do not overrate the importance to a good orator or a public speaker of a good voice. You truly say that this is the most important part of an orator's education, as well as the part most neglected.

I am, faithfully yours,
GEORGE F. HOAR.

In No Pool with Judson When the Crash Came.

SAYS HE LOST $300,000

This Includes $120,000 He paid for Stock, on Hoadley's Advice, Just Before the Balloon Went Up.

The story of how the stock of the International Power Company was inflated like a soap bubble and burst after hitting the cold atmosphere of Wall Street was told yesterday by Joseph Leiter of wheat corner fame. He took the stand in the Supreme Court to testify in the suit brought against him and Joseph H. Hoadley by the brokerage firm of Franklin, Scott & Co.

The brokers are trying to recover $65,800 which they lost on April 20, 1902, while operating in the stock for Cyrus Field Judson, who, the plaintiffs declare, was acting in behalf of a pool in which Hoadley and Leiter were interested. Leiter says he lost about $300,000 in the deal and Judson went "broke." Just how Hoadley came out is not known.

George R. Scott was recalled yesterday and cross-examined by the defendant's counsel. The first question asked was, "What is a pool?"

"A pool," said Mr. Scott, "is a number of men who get together and accumulate stock at low prices, get their friends interested, and bring out true or fictitious values, marking the stock up. When the profit's big enough they sell out."

Much laughter followed this.

Mr. Leiter said that he and Hoadley had had a verbal agreement that neither would sell any stock because they wanted to keep control of the company. Judson, he said, had nothing to do with this agreement. It continued until Dec. 11, 1901, when the pool was wound up.

In the Fall of 1900, the witness said, he met Hoadley in Paris, and Hoadley said he had lent 1,000 shares of Power stock to Judson, as Judson wanted money. Hoadley said he had left the market for the stock entirely with Judson, and that Judson had cabled that the Cramps had unloaded their stock, and more money was needed.

"On our arrival home from Europe," Mr. Leiter said, "Hoadley and I were met at the Cunard pier by Judson. Judson said he had not enough money to carry the stock. He did not say for whom he bought the stock, but he did not buy it for me. Judson went downtown after telling Hoadley the mess he was in, and Hoadley and myself separated. We met again that evening at dinner. Hoadley said he would make the Cramps take back the stock sold by them at the same price as they had sold it, and compel them to live up to their agreement. In the meantime, he said, it was our business to fish Judson out of his difficulties, as we were more interested than any one else in the stock of the company, and we could not afford to have Judson discredited, even if he had acted foolishly, as it would hurt our stock. I told him I would be perfectly willing to do anything I could, but that I thought the arrangement suggested by him an extremely foolish one."

"Well," said counsel, "did Mr. Hoadley suggest the terms of the agreement to be entered into with reference to the 600 shares of stock sold by the Cramps?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Leiter; "he suggested that we should take the stock of which Judson was long, which was that unloaded by the Cramps, and that he would get them to take the stock back. I took over 580 shares still held by the Cramps, and 1,180 shares were put in the pool. That was the only pool in which I was interested with Hoadley and Judson, to help Judson out of his difficulties."

It was agreed, the witness said, to give Judson one-third interest, providing he was of service to the other parties to the arrangement. There had been a written memorandum concerning it, but Mr. Leiter said this had been left with Hoadley. The share that was to go to Judson Mr. Leiter referred to as "a share of the pie." This remark made Justice Amend laugh outright.

In telling of a second deal, Mr. Leiter said that by Dec. 11, 1902, they had accumulated 6,900 shares of stock, for which they had paid $90 a share.

"We found we had lost considerably," said the witness, "as the stock was not fetching anything like $90 a share. Judson wanted to come in anyhow, and I said that if he was such a darned fool as to come in a losing deal he could do so. He said he would, and we arranged that each of the three of us was to take 2,300 shares of stock and pay up the losses. The pool was dissolved at that time and we held the 6,900 shares individually."

Mr. Leiter said that Judson had not advanced one cent for the 2,300 shares which he was to receive. He declared he had advanced about $200,000 to pay for the stock which he had received and that he had left enough money with Hoadley to clean up his 2,300 shares, but didn't get the shares from Hoadley.

"He told me," said Mr. Leiter, "that it was because Judson had not been able to take up his shares. Judson came to Hoadley's office on April 16, 1902. Hoadley told me that John R. Drexel and Judson were running the pool at par. I called Judson into the next room and told him what a fool he was. I was very angry indeed at the time, and damned him properly for being such a fool as to push the stock up to a point which was absolutely fictitious, and that I would sell my stock and clear out of the thing entirely unless he desisted. I told him he would only bring disrepute on the company; that we had got it in good shape, had securities in the treasury, and had got some good prices, and that to bring it into disrepute was absolutely idiotic. He told me that John R. Drexel had put up $1,000,000 in cash and that they had a lot of people in the Street short of stock whom they were going to squeeze and make a lot of money.

"After he left the room I said to Hoadley: 'J. H., what does this mean? Why did you make an arrangement with Judson of this character?' Hoadley said he had an arrangement with Drexel and Judson to let them have the shares we owned jointly as they were necessary to carry out the booming transaction. I asked him what had become of the 6,000 shares, and he said he had disposed of them to Judson and Drexel, and gave me the approximate average price. I figured it out and it made a profit of about $125,000 each."

The next day Mr. Leiter called at Hoadley's office. Judson happened in. Mr. Leiter told Judson that he would not stand by the deal, and Judson replied that they were making a lot of money, at the same time turning over to Hoadley a lot of checks and papers.

The crash in International Power came on April 30, 1902. On the following day Mr. Leiter said he received a telegram from Hoadley asking him to resign as a Director. He replied thus:

Mr. Joseph H. Hoadley: I refuse to be made a scapegoat of. I shall not resign, for I have done nothing that calls for it. Every act of mine as Director has been straightforward and honorable. I am not responsible for the mess, and I will not resign.

On the day before the crash Mr. Leiter said he was in Chicago, and received a telegram from Hoadley in which Hoadley advised him "to get aboard," as Drexel and Judson were "boosting" the stock. On this advice, Mr. Leiter said, he bought 1,000 shares of the stock on the very day the balloon burst. This alone had cost him $120,000. Subsequently he settled with Hoadley for $117,000. His total loss was about $300,000.

The trial will be continued to-morrow.

Doctor's Wife a Suicide in His Office.

In a fit of depression, due to neurasthenia, Mrs. Matilda Klinker, wife of Dr. Louis T. Klinker of 309 West Fifty-first Street, committed suicide yesterday morning by drinking carbolic acid. She drank the poison in the doctor's office, and he, missing her, found her dead there. She had not uttered a sound despite her pain. Mrs. Klinker leaves three children.

GIRL FEARFULLY ABUSED.

Assaulted by 14 Men in a Stable—Mr. Wormser on Their Trail.

A revolting case of brutality was disclosed yesterday in the West Side Court, when five men were arraigned before Magistrate Wahle, charged with having ill-used Annie Thornton in a stable in West Sixty-fourth Street on the night of Oct. 6. The girl is employed in the house of Isidor Wormser, the banker, and in court Mr. Wormser reiterated what he had said the night before in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station.

"I will spend $100,000," he said, "if that should be necessary, to have the perpetrators of this crime arrested and sent to prison."

The five men arraigned were members of a gang of fourteen who ill-used the girl. According to her story, she was knocked down by two men, dragged into the stable, and after being kept there was thrown into the street. She was still so weak from her experience that in court she had to be assisted several times in telling her story by the policemen. The police said last night that they hoped soon to have the rest of the gang.

According to the girl she received $50 on Oct. 6, her birthday, from Mrs. Wormser, and was told to take the day off and buy some dresses for herself. That night, she said, she went uptown on an Amsterdam Avenue car to see a friend. She got off at a street she thought was Seventy-fifth, and was walking through the street toward Riverside Drive when the two men seized her.

Detectives Lynch, Murtha, Levins, and Coleman found witnesses who easily proved the truth of the girl's story. She had been taken to a stable in West Sixty-fourth Street, in what is known as "San Juan Hill" district.

Catherine Downey of 62 Amsterdam Avenue says she saw the girl dragged into the barn. Hearing her scream, she ran to the barn and kicked on the door, but as everything was quiet then she thought the victim might have got away. Henry Shackle of Sixty-sixth Street and Amsterdam Avenue saw the woman with the first two men, and knows who some of the gang were. Both witnesses were sent to the House of Detention.

The prisoners are James Finn, who lives over the stable; William H. Fuller of 251 West Sixty-fourth Street, Lawrence Falk of 250 West Sixty-eighth Street, William Nitzel of 65 Amsterdam Avenue, and Louis Wolf of 134 West Sixty-third Street. They were held in $2,000 bail each for examination to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Wormser, in whose home the girl is, say she is truthful, industrious, and trustworthy, and Mr. Wormser said last night that he intended to press the matter until every one of those responsible for the girl's condition is in jail.

Not long ago a policeman in plain clothes returning from a theatre with a young woman and the woman's brother was attacked in West Sixty-fourth Street by a gang of roughs who tried to drag the young woman away. The policeman drew his revolver and captured several of the gang himself. He said afterward that without his revolver or some other weapon he would have been powerless against the gang.

DELANY ON GOOD HABITS.

His Bad Ones Could Have Been Corrected, He Says, When Young.

Corporation Counsel John J. Delany, addressing the students of the City College yesterday morning in the college chapel, told them that the purpose of education was to develop character. Three influences, he said, combined to form character—Heredity, environment, and the efforts of the man himself to use the opportunities offered to him.

"Heredity," said he, "can be overcome by a man's efforts. Environment can be bettered by education. That is the beginning of culture. But it is the purpose of education, and of a college to teach a man how to make efforts, and how to use the opportunities offered to him.

"The entire purpose of scholarship is that a man can walk out of his Alma Mater, able to do good deeds, and having been bettered himself to improve his associates. It is easy enough to do good while you are young, and if the habit of doing good has been instilled in a youth, it will cling to him throughout his life.

"In speaking thus I appear prosaic as do all speakers when addressing younger people. But I know that all my evils might have been corrected had I acquired only good habits when I was young."

MATHEWS TO BE TRIED HERE.

His Stay Vacated and Application for Change of Venue Refused.

Barring some unforeseen interference, the trial of Armitage Mathews on the charge of looting the Weisell estate to the extent of $92,000, will begin this morning before Justice Davy, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, the first step being the selection of a jury from the special panel of 200 talesmen empaneled for that purpose.

A body blow to further efforts of the counsel for the defense to delay the trial longer was delivered yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Stover when he denied the motion made by Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge on behalf of Mathews and issued an order vacating the stay granted by Justice Maddox of Brooklyn. The decision of Justice Stover was brief and contained only a declaration that the applicants had failed to show cause why a change of venue was needed.

Mr. Olcott, who is to act as chief counsel for the defendant, with the assistance of Abraham Gruber and Terence McManus, said yesterday that he would be ready for trial this morning.

GREEN GOODS MEN HELD.

The Police Have $700 in Real Money That Belonged to Them.

Henry Allen, James Wilson, and Frank Clark, the three old-time gold-brick and green-goods men arrested in Brooklyn on Tuesday by Post Office Inspectors Boyle and Myers and Detective Sergts. McConville and Duncan, were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Shields.

The police got hold of a circular sent by the green-goods artists to an out-of-town man. They set a trap and Detective Duncan acted as the "come-on." They got the prisoners and $700 in real money, which figured in the transaction.

When the men were arraigned Assistant United States District Attorney Houghton, who had prosecuted Clark before, said to him:

"Hello, back again?"

"I am afraid so," responded Clark.

"He is so fond of us he won't keep away," interposed Marshal Henkel.

The men were held in $5,000 each, and Clark furnished it.

REWARD FOR A BANK OFFICER.

Relatives of Abraham Schiffer of Alamosa, Col., Fear Suicide.

A reward of $500 has been offered by the relatives of Abraham Schiffer, through their attorneys, Cooke & Forsch, of 50 Pine Street, for information as to his whereabouts, whether living or dead. He was one of the officers of the defunct bank of Alamosa, Col.

In announcing the reward yesterday, the attorneys said Mr. Schiffer's relatives were convinced that he had ended his life. According to information given in the announcement, Mr Schiffer came to New York about two weeks ago to secure assistance from his relatives. At that time he was without funds and borrowed money to take him home. On Thursday, Sept. 28, Mr. Schiffer expressed his intention of leaving on the 4:55 P. M. Pennsylvania train for Chicago. He was last seen about 3:30 o'clock on his way to the station. A telegram that had been received for him was sent to the train, but he was not aboard.

COOPER BANK WILL PAY DEPOSITORS IN FULL

Directors Ask Permission to Go Into Voluntary Liquidation.

LOANS GOOD, EXAMINER SAYS

Police Rushed to President Gotthelf's House on a False Report That a Mob Was Gathering There.

The Directors of the Cooper Exchange Bank, which was compelled to close its doors on Tuesday, held a meeting yesterday afternoon and at the close Morris H. Hayman, counsel of the bank, was instructed to send a petition to Supt. Kilburn of the State Banking Department asking permission to wind up the affairs of the bank by voluntary liquidation. The petition was sent to Albany last evening.

Mr. Hayman, who is also a stockholder in the bank, said that this was done to save the expense of a receivership. He expressed the opinion that the petition would be granted because such a course was generally followed where a banking institution that had been compelled to suspend business upon investigation had been found solvent.

It was said authoritatively by several of the Directors yesterday that the depositors would be paid in full.

"There are enough assets to pay the depositors and the stockholders of the bank," said Julius Lichtenstein, one of the Directors. "In any event, the depositors will not lose a cent of their money. The Directors have resolved unanimously to go down into their own pockets if necessary to make good any shortage, but no such action will be necessary. Had we had the slightest intimation of the condition of affairs a day or two in advance of the closing up of the bank, its doors would have been open to-day. We had complete confidence in President Gotthelf, and were taken as much by surprise as anybody. We are the largest depositors. One member of the board deposited $25,000 with the bank as late as Saturday."

Meantime Samuel Gotthelf, President of the bank, was reported too ill at his residence, 22 Convent Avenue, to come downtown to assist State Bank Examiner Hudson and the expert accountants working under his direction in their labors. Mr. Gotthelf is said to be suffering from nervous prostration, following the sudden death of Cashier Krapp a week ago yesterday and successive events at the bank.

From the bedside of Mr. Gotthelf came a statement yesterday that he knew the condition of the bank, and that there was $1.47 for every $1 of the depositors' money. He said he believed the run on the bank was caused by the jealousy of other east side banks.

While everything was quiet about the quarters of the bank yesterday and the Roundsman and four policemen sent there by Capt. McDermott of the Fifth Street Station to maintain order had nothing to do, there were all sorts of rumors of disturbances about the home of Mr. Gotthelf. Early in the forenoon Sergt. Coleman of the Detective Bureau received a telephone message from somebody who said he was the son of President Gotthelf.

"A mob of 500 is in front of our house at 22 Convent Avenue," said the man. "The mob is hurling rocks at the windows and trying to wreck the house. Send police quick."

Sergt. Coleman notified the West 125th Street station and the reserves were rushed to the Gotthelf residence. A few minutes later Sergt. Coleman received another message, this time from a woman who said she was Mrs. Gotthelf.

"Why did you send the police here?" asked she. "There is no trouble. Please tell the officers to go away."

The reserves were withdrawn. It was learned later by the police that the only visitors to the house were two women, who asked to see the bank President.

Examiner Judson said last night that he thought most of the loans made by the bank were good.

OFFERED MACHINE FOR SALE.

Witness Meant Evidence, Say Plaintiffs in Asphalt Suit.

More testimony was taken yesterday before United States Commissioner Gilchrist in the Federal Building in the suit of the Venezuelan Government against the New York and Bermudez Company for $10,000,000 damages because of the company's alleged participation in the Matos revolution of 1901.

Letters alleged to have been written by the defendants' witness Miller to Charles Y. Baldwin, former secretary of Gen. Greene, President of the National Asphalt Company, were recorded, subject to objection by counsel for the defense. Baldwin has alleged that the witness Miller offered to sell to him for $5,000 facts in his possession which had an important bearing on the case. One of the letters reads:

Dear B.: Since conversing with you on Monday evening there have been important developments, and it seems to me your friends should move more quickly if they intend to neutralize what is being done. There is no doubt in my mind they will be expelled unless they take prompt action. My proposal to you is my final one.

Another letter reads:

Since receiving your special delivery I wired you. Destroy this and all notes.

In another letter this appears:

I would prefer to sell machine for lump sum. Please let me know about lumping it or contracting it.

It is asserted by Lawyer Dupignac for the Venezuelan Government that by the word "machine" the writer meant evidence he proposed to sell.

An outline of the evidence which Miller, according to Baldwin, agreed to sell was introduced at the last hearing. It includes correspondence showing the relations of former Minister Bowen with the asphalt company, and letters written to President Roosevelt by one "A. D." The hearing was adjourned.
